How the Number Two Is the Same And How It Differs From the Number One Construction

The Number Two is a full iron house that we can sell you for the same price as a Semi-Iron.

When we say the Number Two Construction is a full iron frame, we say it because that's the only thing you can say and tell the truth.

POSTS

It has exactly the same guaranteed Wrought iron posts used in the Number One, and is imbedded in concrete the same way.

RAFTERS

The rafters are steel of the same high grade, and are spaced 8 ft. 4 ins. apart instead of 12 ft. 6 ins. as in the Number One.

GUSSET PLATE

The gusset plates that join the steel rafter to the Wrought iron are double one on each side of the post and rafter, just as in the Number One. It only differs in being cast iron and having the rafter cap clasp and eave plate supporting lug cast right on it, making a solid one-piece casting, having ample strength, besides looking mighty neat.

EAVE PLATE

It's the same galvanized steel angle.

ROOF BAR CLASPS

PURLINS

All purlins are angle steel fastened to the rafter with steel angle knees.

COLUMNS

The columns are steel pipe of standard quality.

CYPRESS

We put only one grade of cypress in all our houses, whether commercial or private, and that grade is the best grade.

All milling is carefully done and free from "jumps."

HARDWARE

All vent hinges are galvanized, have brass pins and six screw holes.

Door hardware is the same high grade that goes into the Number One.

GLASS

There are six lights of glass between each rafter instead of nine as in Number One Construction.

In both, 16x24 is used.

THE DIFFERENCE

So you see that practically the only difference between the two constructions is the eave gusset plate and the number of lights between rafters.

Of course houses of the Number One in widths wider than 40 feet have trussing between the columns.

In either construction, however, only two columns and no trussing is used up to and including the 40 foot width.

WIDTHS

The Number Two is made in seven widths—11, 18, 25, 28, 33, 35, 40.

So why put up a Semi-Iron or pipe frame house, when we can sell you this full iron frame Number Two Construction for the same money?

"I figure I am earning 50% on my investment," writes a Milwaukee florist.

Stop Using Ice!

Melting ice in your refrigerator steals your profits. You can't depend on its feeble, varying cold. Valuable blossoms are apt to wilt and spoil.

You can have a year 'round flood of crisp-cold, invigorating air, automatically controlled, at a fraction the cost of ice by changing to Lipman Automatic Refrigeration. Pays for itself by the tremendous saving in your ice bills. Keeps flowers fresh for weeks longer. A post card brings a Lipman Refrigerating Engineer. No obligation.

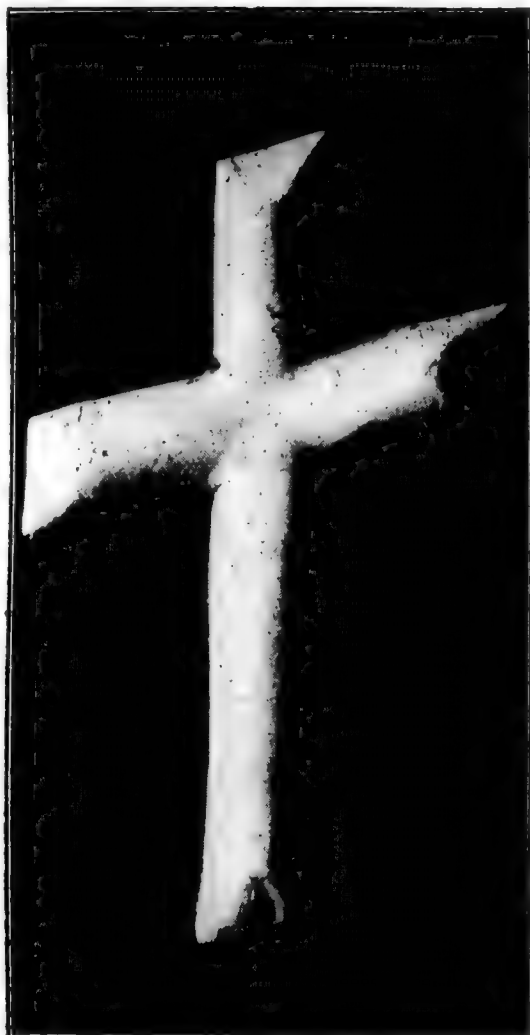

"We would not go back to the old system," one user writes.

Don't Be Caught Short Without our patented cardboard Wreath Forms

Experience has shown us that most of our trade has paid too much for their Wreath Forms because they held back their orders until shipment had to be made by express. This increased the cost of the merchandise from 25 to 35 per cent. Besides, our customers lost business because they did not have the goods on hand—their customers would not wait when delivery could not be made at once. The profit on such specialties comes through having the goods on hand when wanted. It does not pay to approach the Christmas holidays with little goods on hand.

Therefore we suggest to you that you place your orders now for fall requirements in Christmas Wreath Forms.

Send for our line of samples of cardboard Wreath Forms as illustrated in this advertisement. Do it now. Prices and samples will be sent gratis on request. We make the following sizes:

Wreath Forms—4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 16-inch.
Star Forms—4, 6, 7, 9 and 12-inch.
Heart Forms—5, 6 and 7-inch.
Cross Forms—14x21-inch and 18x30-inch.

Write us today about your requirements.

MCCRAY

REFRIGERATORS for ALL PURPOSES

This view of Dards', Inc., at Madison Avenue and 44th Street, New York, shows how the McCray harmonizes with the surroundings of the most exclusive shop.

What florist does not appreciate the importance of preserving his stock in its fresh beauty, not only to prevent loss, but to increase sales? It is doubly significant, therefore, that most of them choose the McCray, that this quality refrigerator is found in so many of the best floral establishments.

The reason for this choice lies in the efficiency of the McCray. For the McCray patented cooling system, forcing a constant circulation of pure, cold air through every compartment, provides thorough refrigeration, and the high quality materials assure lasting service.

Various styles and sizes in stock and special equipment built to order. There is no need to delay installing a McCray; easy payment may be arranged if desired.

SEND FOR YOUR FREE BOOK, describing and illustrating the superior construction of the McCray, showing the complete line.

"The Gladiolus for Profit"

Only book of its kind ever written

SECOND EDITION, 18,000 WORDS, 20 CHAPTERS

Discloses the secrets of Big Profits from glads in small space. Merits and demerits of over 165 latest varieties of gladioli discussed. Invaluable to florists, nurserymen, bulb growers, etc.

Also a chapter on growing dahlias for Cut Flowers, worth $100.00 to any florist. I have hundreds of endorsements. From among them there are three minds with but a single thought:

"Enclosed please find check for $1.00, and I want to say that your book is certainly worth $100.00 to any grower."
JOHN S. KENCZAL,
7219 Miller Ave., Detroit, Mich.

"Received copy of 'The Gladiolus for Profit,' and would not take $100.00 for it if I could not get another one."
FRANK L. PARKHURST,
19 Ohio Ave., Lawrence, Mass.

"Enclosed please find check for second edition of your wonderful book. I got your book last year and it was worth $100.00 to me. I have had people from all over the country admire my 'glads' and wonder how I ever grew them."
A. J. BERNHARDT, Painesville, Ohio.

I received so many letters of commendation that I stopped saving them three months ago. Have a circular with printed contents of about fifty of them that is free for the asking.

ABOUT 250 copies of book from SECOND EDITION LEFT.

GLADIOLI

Just a Few of the World's Finest

BRIMSTONE

Pale sulphurish yellow, many well arranged large flowers open at the time.

CATHARINA

Wonderful grayish light blue, lower petals a little deeper blue with darker spot. Very artistic, incomparable for basket work. Produces 100 per cent straight spikes growing five feet high.

FLORA

Beautiful pure golden yellow, flowers of immense size, rapidly becoming the leading commercial yellow variety.

GOLDEN MEASURE

A pure deep golden yellow of unequaled size and beauty, the very best yellow Gladiolus in existence, unique in color, size and beauty.

LE MARECHAL FOCH

Rated as being the finest cut flower that ever came out of Holland, this variety has been in greater demand than any kind we know. Blooms are immense, of light pink. It stands the hot weather and torrid winds of summer better than any other variety. A gladiolus with a great future.

MAINE

Citron yellow turning into pure white when in full bloom. One of the very best new varieties of a most delicate and fine shape ever seen in gladioli.

MAJESTIC

Extraordinarily brilliant color, deep salmon pink of immense size with little white markings in throat.

MRS. DR. NORTON

Pale pink with primrose center, edged suffused soft La France pink, sulphurish yellow blotch on lower petals.

MURIEL

Unique color of pure light blue, with darker spot on lower petals. The best in its color, showing 7-10 large flowers open at the same time, borne on a tall, straight spike. One of the finest, everybody's favorite.

WHITE GIANT

The largest pure white Gladiolus.

We are large growers of the most up-to-date and commercial varieties. A card will bring you our best prices.

UNITED BULB CO., Mount Clemens, Mich.

Easter Plants

We are now preparing a large stock of Easter Plants, such as Easter Lilies in pots, Otaksa and French Hydrangeas in all sizes, Rambler Roses tied in shapes, making a splendid growth in Dorothy Perkins, Excelsa and Tausendschoen. Our Lilies are looking fine and will be just right for Easter. Would suggest, whenever possible, to have Lilies shipped while in white bud, as it avoids all bruising in shipping. Orders solicited now for shipment at any time before Easter. There will be a scarcity of good Easter stock this year, so protect yourself by ordering early.

Hydrangeas will range in price from 50c to $3.00 each according to value.

Rambler Roses from $1.00 to $3.00. Lilies at prevalent market price.

ROSES

We desire to make special mention of our large stock of Roses, growing upwards of 10,000 plants in the following varieties. We have no hesitation in saying we are the largest growers of forcing Roses for Easter in America. We are positive our stock will please the most critical buyers, as the quality was never better. It has all been grown cool and will prove very satisfactory.

LADY GAY

In grand condition, trained into fan, globular, and pyramidal shapes, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6 and $7.50 each.

Special ball shapes, $2.50, $3, $4, $5 and $7.50 each.

Baskets, $7.50, $10 and $12.50 each.

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

TAUSENDSCHOEN (THOUSAND BEAUTIES)

This was our finest and most popular Climber last year, and this year our stock is large and the plants are much finer.

Trained plants, fans, globular and pyramidal shapes, $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50, $10 and $12 each.

Baskets, $10 and $12.50 each.

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

EXCELSA, NEW CLIMBING ROSE

This variety is known as the Red Dorothy Perkins. The color is brilliant and it is bound to prove the most popular red Rambler.

We offer splendid plants in 6-inch, 7-inch and 8-inch pots, $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50, $10, $12 and $15 each.

Baskets of Excelsa, $10 and $12.50 each.

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

ROSIERE (NEW)

Dark sport of Tausendschoen. Very beautiful.

A great improvement on the popular Thousand Beauties (Tausendschoen) and consequently, a welcome addition to this section. While it has the same habit of growth and general characteristics as Thousand Beauties, the color is superior, a deeper and more even shade of cerise-pink or carmine.

Trained plants, fans, globular, and pyramidal shapes, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $5, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

Baskets, $10, $12 and $15 each.

Umbrellas, $6, $7.50 and $10 each.

In addition to the above trained Roses, we have also trained some very special designs, such as Aeroplanes, Crosses, Chairs, Pergolas, etc., at $10, $12.50, $15, $20, $25 and $30 each.

PAUL'S SCARLET CLIMBER

One of the most promising climbing Roses yet sent out. Vivid scarlet, semi-double flowers of medium size, produced in large clusters, and in great profusion. The color does not burn or fade. This Rose has been exhibited extensively in Europe and received numerous awards.

5 and 6-inch pots, trained plants, $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3 each.

HYBRID ROSES

Including Columbia and Mrs. John Dunlop. Very fine plants in bud and flower for Easter sales.

6-inch pots at $15 and $18 per dozen.

MAGNA CHARTA

Exceptionally well grown and well flowered stock. Considered by all to be the very best Hybrid Rose for Easter sales.

5½, 6 and 7-inch pots at $18, $24, $30 and $36 per dozen.

BABY RAMBLERS, ORLEANS

Exceptionally fine.

CROTONS

The Croton, with its highly colored foliage, is indispensable during fall and winter. We have the largest and most complete collection of Crotons in the world, carrying at the present time for spring sales over 50,000 in 100 varieties, all of the very highest quality and brilliantly colored. Immediate delivery.

2½-inch pots, $20 per 100, $175 per 1,000.

3-inch pots, $35 per 100.

4-inch pots, $50 per 100.

Every retail store and grower should feature Crotons this Easter and spring. We know our stock will please you and your customer.

CROTON LEAVES AND SPRAYS

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past few years to some of the leading florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year.

Very highly colored sprays at 50c each; cut leaves, $5 per 100.

When you have orders for funeral or table work "out of the ordinary," order Craig's Cut Crotons.

DRACAENAS

There is no other variety of foliage plant so attractive as the highly colored Dracaena. The small and medium sizes can be used to great advantage in making up the popular Easter baskets, while the large specimens have always been in great demand for decorative purposes. We are now growing more Dracaenas, in greater variety, than any firm in the country.

DRACAENA GODSEFFIANA

Green and white leaf, very hardy, fine for baskets.

2½-inch pots, $20 per 100.

3-inch pots, $35 per 100.

TAKING COUNT OF TODAY'S CANNAS

Becoming more popular year by year, cannas are handled in larger quantities by florists, seedsmen and nurserymen. For home and park planting, in small numbers or in large beds, they are highly useful. This article and its successor will inform you as to what is the best and latest in cannas.

By FLOYD BRALLIAR.

SOME five or six years ago I reported the results of our experimental work with cannas at Madison, Tenn. Since that time many new varieties have been placed on the market and, as a result, many that were then considered first-class should be discarded today. Furthermore, the public has come to appreciate cannas more than at that time and is beginning to use them in many new ways. While we have not grown so many cannas the last six years as formerly, we have tested a few of almost every new variety that promised any great value, so that our testing work has gone straight forward. At the same time, we have been cross-breeding and growing seedlings. This has been fascinating work and while, as in other lines of plant propagating, one must expect to grow hundreds of ordinary seedlings in order to get one winner, nevertheless, as each day sees some plant open its first bloom the endless variation gives a never-ending interest to the work. I believe that if I knew I should never get any unusual results, I would grow seedlings merely for the pleasure of seeing the endless varieties that come.

Study.

During the last two years I have visited many of the large canna-growing centers of the United States and have had the pleasure of seeing most of the newer varieties there. I have seen the canna under strictly southern conditions in the gulf district, as well as in the most northern location in which it is grown. Coming to the conclusion that I would begin commercial as well as experimental growing, last season I gave special attention to the newer varieties, knowing full well that profit comes from growing the best.

After giving considerable attention to the matter of digging and storing cannas for the winter, our own practice has changed quite decidedly as a result. Some experiments also have been carried forward looking toward ascertaining in what soil the canna does best. It is to give The Review readers the benefit of these observations that these articles are offered. I purpose to consider soil first.

I have grown cannas in heavy clay soil that was rich in lime; in equally heavy clay soil that was practically free from lime; in muck soil, and in what would be considered a good greenhouse soil for general pot plants. So far as I have been able to decide, it makes no difference whatever to cannas whether their soil contains lime or not. I have grown them as luxuriantly in soil that tested only one-half of one per cent of lime, as the same variety grew under similar conditions in soil that contained ten or twelve per cent of lime. In order to ascertain whether some happy medium between these two extremes might be best, I took plants growing in tubs in practically lime-free soil and began watering with lime water, which, of course, steadily increased the percentage of lime in the soil, but I was not able to get any apparent reaction. I find that cannas do better in loose soil than in tough clay, but a mixture of sand with the soil to make it loose does not give the result that is secured by adding humus. The canna is a gross feeder and demands a large amount of water as well as an abundance of soluble plant food.

Soils.

Experimentally I selected a bed of cannas growing in good garden loam. After they were well established and were beginning to bloom, fresh manure from the horse stable was spread over the ground two or three inches deep, as a mulch. I confidently expected that these cannas would fire badly if they did not die outright. Instead, they made the most rampant growth and gave the finest show of bloom of any cannas I have ever grown. Of course, this manure was not used until the plants were well established and it so happened that there was no rainfall for about ten days after it was put on. It is quite possible that, should a rain have come immediately, damage might have been done. This experiment was repeated twice with similar results, so I am confident that ground cannot be made too rich for cannas. These cannas made enormous growth of root and multiplied amazingly, but the roots were too soft to be desirable for commercial use.

Watering.

Cannas thrive best where they can secure a large supply of water. In fact, they will grow in the edges of swamps and rejoice in the opportunity. I placed a few plants, one of a kind of some of the high-priced novelties, where we could irrigate them thoroughly with an overhead sprinkling system and watered them every day and on hot days sprinkled the foliage thoroughly about noon besides. We got an average of fifty good eyes for each plant set, to pay us for our trouble. These results are given, not because they are of great practical value to the commercial grower, but as suggestions of the proper treatment of cannas in bedding and landscape planting.

At all events, cannas should have an abundance of water when they are used for ornamental planting. Unless this can be given, they are never quite satisfactory to the grower. If they are well mulched, however, it is often possible to get fairly good results without watering if the natural rainfall is abundant.

White Varieties.

There has been much progress made in the development of the canna in the last five or ten years. Many of the varieties that were considered of first quality even five years ago ought to be discarded now. The list of best cannas even today is not long and, unfortunately, a great many growers still persist in propagating and selling varieties that should have been thrown away long ago. It seems best to discuss the question of varieties under color sections and so I shall follow this plan.

For a long time the white canna was believed to be an impossibility, although there is at least one wild canna that approaches this color. Years of persistent breeding gave us the variety Alsace, which was considered a triumph of plant breeding in its day. Of course it is worthless now. Several other cream-colored varieties appeared and were given more or less publicity and one really white variety, Blanche Wintzer, was introduced a number of years ago. This variety was about perfect in color, but was not a good propagator, a strong grower or a free bloomer. It was always a disappointment to us and, I believe, to most other people who tried it. The first really valuable white cannas were Eureka and Flag of Truce; the former was introduced by Henry A. Dreer, Inc., and the latter by the Conard & Jones Co. These two cannas are both vigorous growers, free bloomers and produce large heads of giant flowers. Neither is quite white and Flag of Truce is faintly speckled with crimson pink, but these specks are so faint that they cannot be seen at a distance of ten feet. In our trials we were never able to decide which of these two varieties was the better. Both were about as good as any canna of any other color and neither was quite white. We are thankful, however, that it was not necessary to settle this question, for Mr. Wintzer settled it for us by producing Snow Queen.

Perfection in White.

Snow Queen is about perfection in white cannas. With us it is as vigorous a grower and as free a bloomer as Florence Vaughan or any of the old-time varieties. The individual flowers are fully equal to those of The President, which means that they are as large as any canna ought to be, while the trusses are large indeed. We find this canna multiplies about as well as any variety and is as sturdy and healthy as a canna needs to be. The color is about as white as a calla lily, though it is slightly creamy on first opening. Its one weakness with us is that the roots are rather hard to keep over winter. In this respect it is not nearly so bad as many other varieties, however.

In Mr. Wintzer's breeding, a number of first-class white varieties have appeared since the introduction of Snow Queen and we have produced at least three high-class whites, but none of them appears to us to be worthy of introduction, simply because they are not better than Snow Queen. The Conard & Jones Co. introduced one of Mr. Wintzer's cannas last year under the name of Evening Star. This ought to be considered under the heading of white cannas, for, while it is described as a pink, with us it appears white at a distance of fifteen or twenty feet. At close range it is delightfully shaded and marked with exquisite peach pink. The plant, after one year's trial, seems to be vigorous and a free bloomer and we consider it one of the most beautiful varieties in our collection. However, I do not believe it will ever become a popular commercial variety, because it is not a showy color.

The idea of a good, free-blooming, healthy white canna has always appealed to me strongly, for it is really needed for planting with our bright reds. Either a large bed should have a center of white bordered with brilliant red, or vice-versa. I am sure that as soon as Snow Queen and some of the un-introduced whites become plentiful enough, the trade will find them popular.

Pinks.

The story of Mr. Wintzer's and Dr. Walter Van Fleet's efforts to get a pink canna reads almost like a romance, but it is too long to tell here. Sufficient to say that, after repeated failures, the pink color finally came, although the canna was inferior in size and other important qualities. From the time the first pink appeared, however, progress was rapid and today we have a number of strictly high-grade pink cannas. Most of them are of Mr. Wintzer's own strain. However, good work has been done by foreign breeders in producing pink cannas and at least one of our most popular pink cannas today is of foreign origin. This is Prince Beauty of Hungaria or, as it is commonly called, Hungaria. This canna is of fairly dwarf growth, is a reasonably strong grower and is a free producer of flowers of good size. Ten years ago, when it was a real novelty, it was considered a giant-flowered sort. The color is perhaps the most appealing of any of the pinks in commerce, but its being mottled with cream spoils the effect to some extent. Nevertheless, it is as good as any pink canna we have today, or at least this is the verdict of the public wherever I have been.

Mrs. Alfred Conard was put on the market years ago and so is pretty generally known to the trade. It is a vigorous grower and a free bloomer, with individual flowers as large as any of our good pink cannas, being slightly larger than Hungaria. The color is best described as a watermelon pink and many people still consider it the best pink canna.

Rosea Gigantea.

Rosea gigantea is of about the same habit of growth as the two just described and, if anything, is a freer bloomer and under favorable conditions the individual flowers are slightly larger. The color is a brilliant rose pink or, more properly, a carmine pink. Personally, I like it better than any other of the standard pinks. City of Portland is perhaps a stronger grower and possibly a better bloomer. Under our hot southern sun, its color is similar to rosea gigantea. We find a great deal of difference of opinion among our customers as to which is the more desirable of the two varieties. As grown in cooler climates, there is a decided difference in shade of the two varieties and City of Portland is, undoubtedly, the more beautiful of the two under such conditions. None of the other pinks that we have tried thus far, in our judgment, is so good as those named. We have a seedling, however, which is practically identical with rosea gigantea, except that each flower stem produces from five to nine flower heads, instead of three, the number produced by rosea gigantea, and we have seen in Mr. Wintzer's grounds a new pink which is practically identical with one we have produced, and which, we believe, will prove far more popular than any pink now on the market. The flowers are large and practically uniform in color and are freely produced. The foliage is extra good, while the color is a silky, shimmering shell pink. A number of new pinks have been put on the market the last few years, but none of them appeals to me as being superior to the varieties already on the market. I prefer to class Evening Star as a white rather than a pink. Possibly farther north it may show more color and, should it do so, its value would be greatly enhanced thereby. Susquehanna is a new candidate for public favor, but I have not seen enough of it to come to a decision as to its value.

Bronze-leaved Pinks.

There are a number of bronze-leaved pinks on the market, of which Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, in my opinion, is the only one worth growing. Wabash is a fairly good variety, but, as it is not so good as Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, and as the public prefers its bronze-leaved cannas to have red flowers, I feel that only the best in bronze-leaved pinks is worth while. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has large trusses and large individual flowers. The color is especially good.

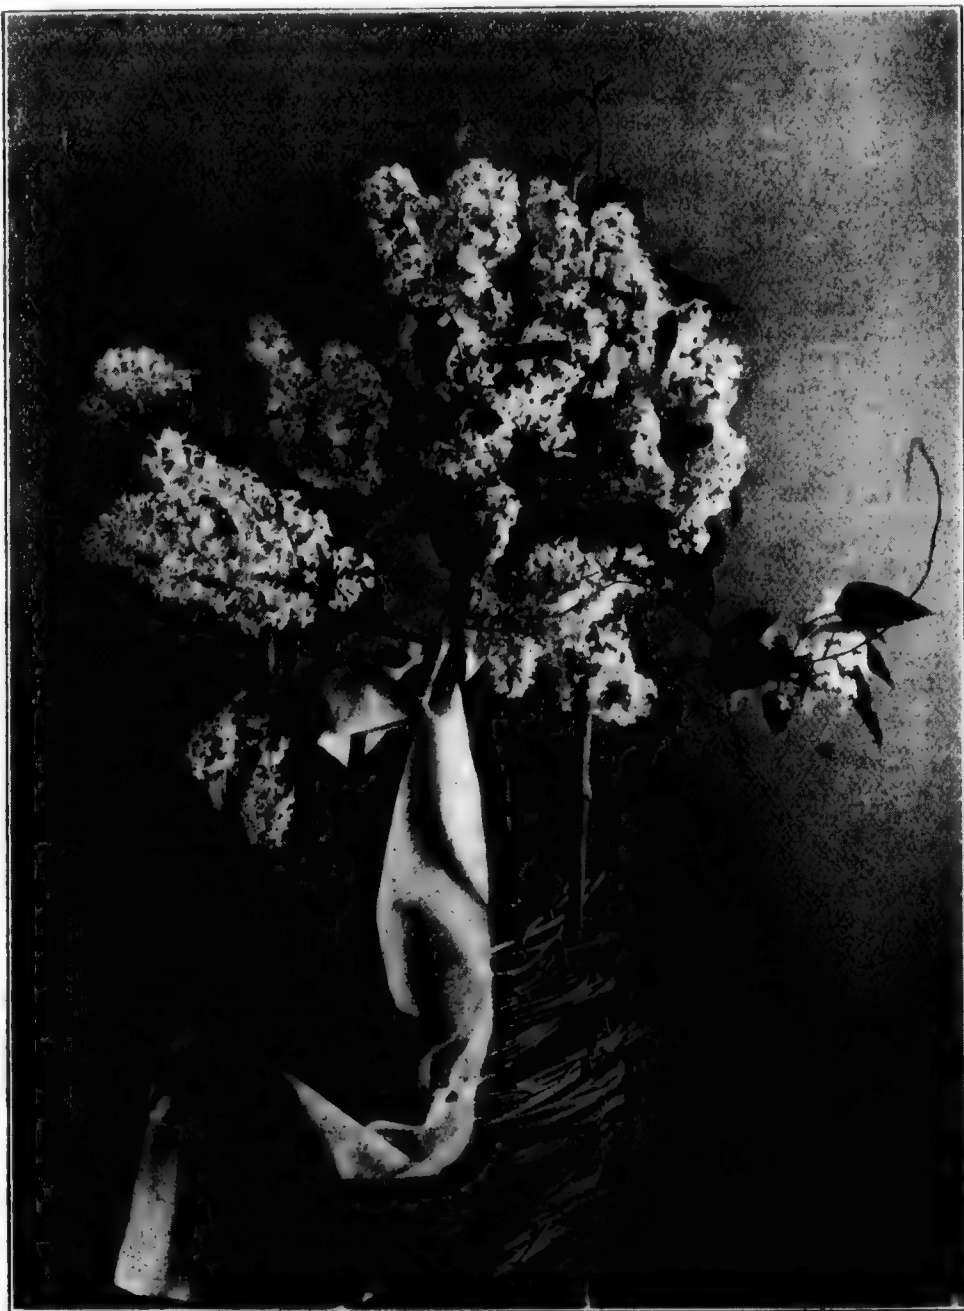

Pink cannas are becoming decidedly more popular each year, or at least this has been my observation. I believe that they will soon be as popular as the reds and more popular than the yellows, unless, perchance, some of the new yellows become generally known. There are a number of cannas whose general color is pink, but which are mottled, spotted or bordered with white or cream. These have always appealed to me strongly, but the public does not seem to feel the same way about it. Maid of Orleans is one of the best of these and, while it has never become popular and probably never will, it has proved to be one of the best parents for canna breeding because of the fact that it has exceptionally beautiful foliage, perhaps the best of all green-leaved varieties, and many of its offspring inherit this quality.

The yellow and red varieties and other bronze-leaved varieties will be discussed in a subsequent article.

LILACS FOR FORCING.

Varieties Most Adaptable.

The treatment given lilacs is quite different from that required by hydrangeas. Lilacs bloom a few weeks after they are started, if given proper heat. At one time about all of our forcing lilacs were grown in pots abroad and they were good. We can get none of these now, so that we are dependent upon the home supply, and some of our nurserymen have built up a large trade in lilacs and other flowering shrubs well adapted for forcing and, as far as my observation goes, they are rapidly equaling the imported article.

The lilac most commonly used for forcing is a single white named Marie Legraye. Mme. Lemoine is a fine double white. Good colored sorts are Mme. Casimir Perier, Ludwig Späth and Charles X. White lilacs are mostly in evidence, but colored ones well flowered prove popular, especially at Easter. Plants can be lifted from the field, potted or tubbed in late fall, left outdoors until well frozen and then stored in a cold pit and they will give a splendid crop of flowers, provided a good ball of earth is taken up with the plants when they are lifted. For extra early forcing they are not so good as the pot-grown plants, but later in the season I have found them fully equal to pot-grown plants, and they carry even finer racemes.

Obtaining Best Results.

For early forcing of lilacs, the Paris growers in France are past masters and they use warm, dark pits or caves for the work. Their flowers go all over Europe. Here we have a greater variety of midwinter flowers than are found in Europe, but the early winter demand in this country is smaller than that of the old world. A warm cellar kept fairly moist is fine for forcing early lilacs for cutting, and a mushroom house is just about ideal for this purpose. Produced in the dark, all varieties come pure white and are practically without foliage. These plants, however, can be started in the dark and if, when the flower heads are about half-grown, the plants are placed in a warm, moist house, shaded from the direct sun's rays and sprayed freely, the flowers will have more substance and there will be some foliage.

After the end of January, it is not necessary to start plants in the dark. In fact, they can be forced in the full light much earlier, if they have had a good rest in advance. After housing, give them a warm temperature and spray several times daily; discontinue this practice when the flower heads develop.

Now, if plants are wanted in flower for Easter of the present year, there is no need to house them before March 1. They can be forced into flower in one month, in a temperature of 65 degrees at night, but it will be far better to start them in a room which is 10 degrees cooler and, as the flower heads develop, keep the plants somewhat cooler. In this way the plants will develop ample foliage, the trusses will have plenty of substance, and they will not flop down when exposed to a draft or low temperature as the "sweat box" plants will do.

Given a bright, sunny greenhouse, frequent sprayings in the early stages of growth and a temperature of 50 degrees to 55 degrees at night, anyone can force any of the lilacs named and have them in flower for Easter, starting the plants on or about March 1, and good, shapely, well flowered lilacs are acceptable, not only at Easter, but many weeks in advance of it. Another point to remember is that you need not throw away, as useless, any plants from which you have cut flowers, no matter how hard you have forced them. Cut any unsold plants back quite hard and plant them out in the field. In two or at most three years you will have fine, bushy plants, chock-full of flower buds and ideal for forcing. But be sure to dig up and pot or tub them before the ground freezes. Plants lifted in late winter never give a satisfactory return. C. W.

SUPPLY HOUSES WIN CASE.

The United States Supreme court February 27 handed down a decision in favor of the M. Rice Co. and the Joseph G. Neidinger Co., Philadelphia, involving the form of protest made by them against the government because of duties illegally exacted upon importations of immortelles which were entered at Philadelphia April 3, 1916, and the duty liquidated June 8, 1916.

The collector of customs at Philadelphia levied duty on the immortelles at the rate of sixty per cent ad valorem under paragraph 347 of the tariff act of October 3, 1913, while the importers claimed the appropriate rate was twenty-five per cent under the first clause of paragraph 210, as palms or cut flowers, preserved or fresh.

ty-five per cent under the first clause of paragraph 210, as palms or cut flowers, preserved or fresh.

The question as to the proper classification of immortelles was settled by a decision of the United States Court of Customs Appeals on a case brought by H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, and the legal duty was conceded to be twenty-five per cent ad valorem, by resemblance to the articles named in paragraph 210. The sole question then was whether, under the form of protest presented, the importers could rely upon the similitude clause of the statute and claim that the immortelles were taxable at the rate fixed in paragraph 210, because of their resemblance to articles therein described.

The court pointed out that a protest must be distinct and specific enough to show that the objection taken at the hearing or trial was at the time of filing the protest in the mind of the importer, and sufficient to notify the collector of its true nature and character to the end that he might then ascertain the precise facts and have adequate opportunity to correct mistakes and cure defects.

The board of general appraisers found the protest of the importers defective and refused relief from the decision of the collector. The United States Court of Customs Appeals reversed the board and the case came to the United States Supreme court, and the decision of the customs court was upheld. T. N. S.

and a corrected notice issued, please allow me to renew the suggestions made in behalf of this committee in my letter to you of December 31, that the notice be in more specific terms. Also that two hearings, instead of one, be held, one following the other, or the one hearing be divided into two parts, the first to consider changes in quarantine 37 as it now stands, the second to consider further restrictions on imports.

Both are important subjects, yet not directly related, and I am sure you would not want it said justly again that the hearing was called at a time when those most interested could not attend, or that they did not know what specific subjects would be considered. Let us have a fair, open hearing this time. The matter of further restrictions is far too important to be mixed in or buried with protests over spilt milk. Please be good enough to let me have your decision on these points as promptly as possible.

Under date of February 14 this committee received the following noncommittal reply from Dr. Marlatt:

The information given in the notice would seem to be adequate. It states definitely that the conference is called "for the purpose of considering the advisability of any modifications—additions to or deductions from—of the classes of plants permitted entry for immediate sale under regulation 3 of quarantine 37." This notice, therefore, involves both a reconsideration of all the classes of plants now included under regulation 3 and also a consideration of any additions, which may be properly made to the plants there listed. Any attempt to discuss the matter with respect to any particular plant or classes of plants or requirements of entry would necessarily involve a certain prejudging of the subjects to be considered by the conference.

The board's wish, however, is to give opportunity at this conference, as stated in the notice, "for a full and free discussion of the whole subject of the classes of plants involved and the restrictions enforced under this regulation."

Regulation 3 includes lily bulbs, valley pips, narcissi, hyacinths, tulips, fruit and rose stocks. Which of these items does the board plan to quarantine, if any? And if none, why not frankly say so and save the trade the necessity of providing ammunition it may not use? It is assumed that the board has already made its plans and is preparing to carry them through. It need not call a conference to consider "modifications," but to comply with the law it must call a hearing to consider additional quarantines. The inference is obvious.

How can there be "a full and free discussion of the whole subject" by interested persons, unless those persons know that what they are interested in will be discussed? If it is the board's intention to quarantine rose stocks and narcissus bulbs, there will be no "full and free discussion" of those subjects unless those interested in such items are present at the conference and they will not be there unless they know that those items will be discussed. They are not interested enough in "modifications to quarantine 37" to warrant their going.

Of course, the trade would gladly give the board some practical constructive guidance with regard to modifications of quarantine 37, but if additional quarantines are planned, this committee will be fully occupied in meeting the main issue. The trade has largely adapted itself to the iniquities of quarantine 37; to lift the quarantine on items that are not now purchasable in commercial quantities would be futile, anyway, but the trade is vitally interested in additional quarantines.

Will the conference discuss "modifications to quarantine 37" or "additional quarantines"? To consider both at the same time would result in burying the important matter of additional quarantines under a jumble of protests over spilt milk. Does Dr. Marlatt want that, or does he want "a full and free discussion"?

F. H. B. CONFERENCE

F. H. B. WON'T SPRING ANYTHING.

Dr. Marlatt Explains Conference.

The forthcoming conference to be held by the Federal Horticultural Board is declared to be the result of a promise made by the board to various foreign delegations that have visited the United States during the last year or so, and is not for the purpose of "springing anything on the trade," according to Chairman Marlatt.

There seems to be some misunderstanding in the trade concerning the forthcoming meeting, says Dr. Marlatt. In response to an inquiry, Dr. Marlatt stated that the matter of regulation 3 will be thrown wide open for discussion as to possible additions to or deductions from the list it covers.

"We are not going to spring anything on the trade," declared Chairman Marlatt. "We thought that the notice we sent out was plain that the conference is merely for the consideration of the regulation. Further, we do not expect the trade to try to spring anything on us. There were many people who desired the conference and the board was glad to give it. If anything constructive is offered, the board will be glad to receive it."

At Foreigners' Request.

Dr. Marlatt stated that he did not know whether or not the foreign delegations that have been presenting the views of foreign exporters would attend the conference. Belgium and Holland have made various representations to the board, and the promise was given the Belgians that sooner or later there would be such a conference as is now to be held April 19. It is stated that no requests for the conference have come from domestic interests.

It is stated that the board has no program for the meeting, and it merely adds that it promised the conference and is going ahead with it. In 1919, at Detroit, Chairman Marlatt stated that he would be glad to confer with the florists at any time if they would come before the board with a definite program and have an agreement in the trade on the program.

It is pointed out that the only persons to take advantage of this offer were the orchid men. A conference was arranged and the various interests heard. Nothing has come of the conference, however, due to the inability of those in the trade to agree among themselves, according to Dr. Marlatt. T. N. S.

WHAT IS CONFERENCE ABOUT?

Dr. Marlatt, chairman of the federal horticultural board, consented to change the date of the plant conference from March 15 to April 19, and the trade appreciates that, but this committee has been unable to get a definite and explicit statement as to the scope of the conference, what specific subjects the F. H. B. will be prepared to discuss. February 13 this committee wrote to Dr. Marlatt as follows:

Would it not be possible to postpone the conference until after Easter? If this can be done

CARNATION MEN TELL HOW

PROPAGATING CARNATIONS.

Experiences of a Specialist.

Whatever knowledge I may possess was taught me by my father, whose observations in his travels among his carnation brethren and his own personal experiences were given me freely. My own personal experiences were obtained by sticking with a variety until I could safely feel I had the best of it, or at least felt I had, so far as rooting cuttings of the variety was concerned.

Propagation of carnations in the early days was more on the hit-or-miss plan, a section of a bench in a greenhouse being used for this purpose. Many times all kinds of stock were rooted in the same space, receiving practically the same treatment.

The first real propagating house built by my father was 10x80 feet, built on the north side of a greenhouse that had been taken down and moved to Tewksbury, from Lowell, about 1880. These two houses were connected by a wooden gutter. The short span on the south side was covered with tarred paper, and ventilation was through small wooden shutters. There were two beds, heated with steam through two 4-branch 1¼-inch pipes; controlled by manifolds. The bottom of the beds was covered with roofing slate. Propagation was conducted successfully here for many years, but there were drawbacks which became apparent.

Not long ago I came across some old notebooks of my father's, in which appeared numerous sketches, drawn by him from time to time. One of these I recognized as a sketch of the propagating house with which I am most familiar and which is in present use. This house, by the way, is constructed of old-type sashbars without the drip grooves.

Construction of Propagating House.

This house has a short span on the south side, and ventilation is continuous on both sides. Shade is used at all times on the glass on the south side, and from March 1 on the north side. There are two single and seven double beds, extending crosswise of the house, with a capacity of 65,000 cuttings. The single beds are three feet wide; the double ones are six feet, separated in the middle with a board. Heating is through one 1¼-inch pipe, placed midway under each half, each bed being provided with both flow and return valves. From the sideboards to the ground, heat is retained through cotton cloth tacked around the entire section. Cross strips on the bottom hold split building tile. The cracks are covered lightly with mortar. We use five inches of clean, sharp sand, put through a ¾-inch sieve to keep out large pebbles. The sand is pressed down firmly, thoroughly watered, then tamped or spanked. Cuttings are then inserted from 1¼-inch to 1½-inch deep and firmed with the marking stick. Watering thoroughly is in order, a sprinkler being used. Heat is then applied and thermometers placed in each section, to the depth of the cuttings. We endeavor to keep the overhead temperature at 50 to 52 degrees and the sand at 60 degrees.

The cuttings are given a fine spraying each morning and sometimes twice a day, depending on conditions of the air. At the end of the first week, another good watering is given. Nearly all varieties root with us in twenty-one to twenty-five days in the winter. We then turn off all the heat and allow the sand to cool to 50 degrees. This hardens the cuttings and reduces loss when they are potted or boxed. Soft cuttings that show wilt badly after potting receive a severe check and usually there is some loss. We try to obtain a good, fat bunch of roots on each cutting. Whenever we fail to root less than ninety-five per cent, something is wrong. During the last ten years, more than 2,000,000 cuttings have been rooted and we consider our establishment a small one, as ranges go today.

Ventilation is given freely and drafts avoided. Cuttings are not shaded or covered until mild weather arrives. These are then sprinkled in the morning, newspapers applied and those sprinkled. In the late afternoon the papers are removed and the cuttings sprinkled again. After fifteen days, shading with papers is omitted. We can root as late as May 30 with fair results. One of my benches planted with Thomas C. Joy was taken from the sand the first week in June and over 12,000 cuttings have been rooted from this block already.

How to Select Cuttings.

Cuttings, when taken with too soft a growth, are undeveloped and, if they do root, require constant attention and usually are unsatisfactory. Top cuttings we seldom take. Of course, they can be rooted, but our experience in buying stock from top cuttings and having them come many times with buds the size of a small pea, always makes us feel that we are paying for something that we don't want. Usually the joints are long and the plant grows scraggly. We prefer to take the second, third and fourth cuttings. Cuttings from hard wood near the base of the plant we keep away from. It has been proven from experience that continual propagation of these cuttings cuts down the blooming qualities of practically all varieties. It has likewise been proven that shy bloomers can be made to produce more

Harold J. Patten.

An address by Harold J. Patten, delivered before the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston, February 23, 1922.

freely through selection of cuttings higher on the stem. In pinching back plants to be used entirely for cuttings, we top, from time to time, those shoots on which the bud is showing. High pinching is inadvisable, as it is a well-known fact that, on flowering plants, the cuttings first developed are those nearest the top. If we find we have not pinched low enough when the breaks appear, it is a simple matter to go over them again.

Cuttings should be taken from healthy plants. Sick or diseased plants will produce cuttings, but should be avoided, if one wants his stock clean. Single flowers will return fourfold and then some, if one persists in propagating from such stock.

Putting in Sand.

Cuttings are taken, made and put in the sand in various ways. Some do not cut off the heel or trim, others trim quite hard. We have tried all methods and get the best results by taking our cuttings in the forenoon, placing in the flower room and, when made, placing in uniform piles in a basket, keeping them thoroughly watered and covered until placed in the sand. Speed and carefulness is required to propagate commercially; one should be able after some practice to acquire the knack of putting from 1,300 to 1,500 cuttings in the sand per hour. One should try to set all cuttings at a uniform depth; the results are apparent when rooted. Those set too deep will be rooted first. In trimming cuttings, trim some, but not too high. Do not cut the tops too low; remember cuttings absorb moisture through the leaves. Give them a chance to breathe. Keeping the overhead temperature too high softens the cuttings.

The great advantage of small beds readily controlled with heat is that cuttings, when rooted, can be hardened, or during a rush season can stand for several days without growing in the sand. A long bed where the same heat occurs at all times does not allow this. Cuttings fully rooted get the same continuous heat as the new stock.

Sometimes cuttings are noticed with a good bunch of roots hanging from the heel with a single root. This usually occurs when the heel has not been cut enough or trimmed squarely. Such cuttings often cause trouble, unless care is used in potting or boxing. I believe it is good policy to throw these away. We should all strive to put out cuttings as good as possible.

Rooting Pink Delight.

You all know the difficulty in rooting Pink Delight. Where one propagator achieved good results, the great majority fell down. One batch would root nicely; there was plenty of confidence in the next lot and often the result was a failure. The growing of Pink Delight for blooms at our establishment was not profitable and we set about to find how to get our money from this variety, as cuttings were in good demand. Little blocks of cuttings were given separate treatment. We found that small cuttings did not root successfully; therefore larger ones were selected. Cuttings were inserted 1½ inches in the sand, given the same watering other varieties received and, in addition, the heat was kept going constantly, disregarding temperature of the sand. Papers were used at all times to shade the cuttings, keeping the air out and the heat in. This was continued for eighteen days. Papers were then removed and for several days constant sprayings were given the cuttings. When well rooted, which usually took thirty-five days, heat was shut off and cuttings allowed to remain cool for a week, before shipping. This treatment proved satisfactory and we continued to employ it during the time Pink Delight was in steady demand. One year we had 9,000 plants topped back for cuttings.

Newer Varieties.

Laddie we root quite satisfactorily. No small cuttings are taken, neither are papers used for shading until March. We generally give Laddie thirty-five days before shipping.

Maine Sunshine, of which we have only a small stock, fooled me at first. The small cuttings did not root. Now we are taking only the larger ones. A batch taken out last week was given more heat, resulting in better than ninety per cent rooting. Doubtless with a little more experience this can be improved upon.

I would recommend to all carnation enthusiasts who have not read the late Charles Willis Ward's book, "The Carnation," to do so. Written in 1903, nearly twenty years ago, it is a comprehensive treatise on the subject of carnations, and it is head and shoulders over anything else published. As a reference book it is without a peer. Today there is little we can add.

PROTECTING THE CARNATION.

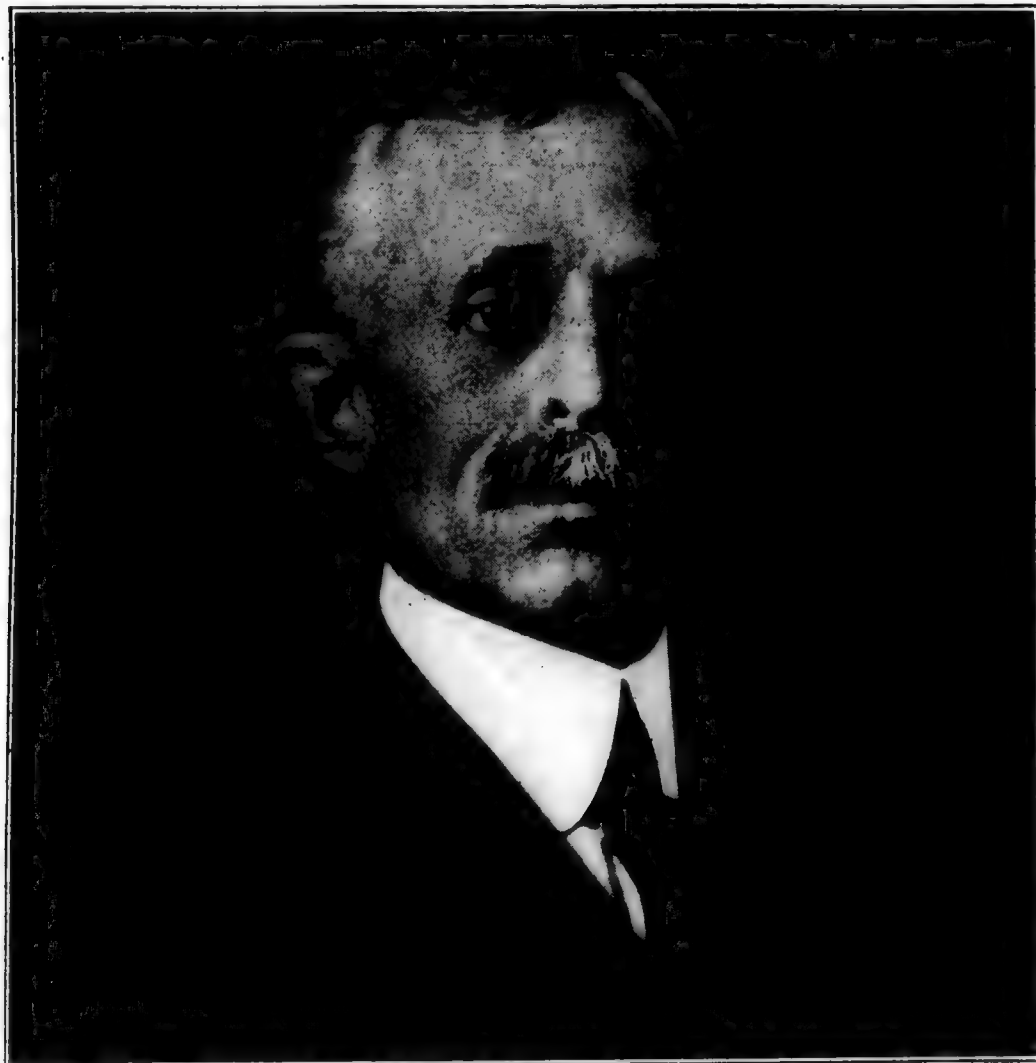

From Diseases and Insects.

In his address before the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston, February 23, W. D. Howard, Milford, Mass., said:

"Red spider is the most dangerous insect pest attacking carnations. It is quite liable to attack plants in the field. I do not approve of watering carnations outdoors, except in case of extreme need, but I do believe in a good soaking right after planting. I have installed a Skinner system in my field and have used it occasionally. It has helped to ward off spider. I have more faith in constant hoeing to retain soil moisture than in watering. Hoeing, long continued, causes a considerable dust mulch, which covers the foliage and gives a chance for spider to secure a foothold. It pays to open the Skinner system and wash this dust off. If any spider remains on plants when housed, a force of water, well directed from the hose and applied in several directions, is the best cure. There may be a few hot corners near heating mains where spider might get a foothold, and occasional spraying may be needed there; otherwise I entirely disapprove of syringing carnations, as was done in the old days. Nowadays we hear little of rust. It is caused by the frequent syringings to which plants are subjected.

"For green aphids and thrips I always use a nicotine solution in spray form from a force pump, adding a little salt to the spray. I start to use this right after planting and apply it every two weeks. I do not fumigate at all, because, since building my largest house, I have found that I must fill too much atmosphere and spraying proves far more economical. I have never been troubled by cutworms, as have many other growers.

"Stem-rot may have its origin in the cutting bench or flats. If a flat is placed on a shelf and there is overlooked and becomes dry, then is well soaked, consider it a good way to start stem-rot; in fact, I have noticed in the field that the contents of certain flats are badly affected and others quite immune. Too close planting in the benches may cause stem-rot and if, when manure is used as mulching, it is piled up around the side branches, there is another probable cause of stem-rot.

Discussion.

S. J. Goddard in the discussion said he was always terribly plagued with cutworms and dare not open his side ventilators on account of the swarms of moths seeking admission. He said that he has to kill many thousands a year, in spite of taking every possible precaution.

James Wheeler said he found he could keep the cutworms in check by scattering a mulch of Paris green, molasses and shorts. Fumigation with cyanide, he said, would not kill cutworms, but destroyed all the moths. He depends on it entirely now as a fumigant, but uses it in much weaker doses than is advised at the experimental station. He buys, he said, fifty pounds at a time in 1-ounce egg-shaped lumps. For his largest house, 60x300, and twenty-three feet to ridge, he uses thirty-two ounces; for another house, 40x186 and sixteen feet to ridge, ten ounces suffice. He applies this once a fortnight. He is obliged, he said, to use cyanide where he grows marguerites largely. He finds it the only thing to control the marguerite leaf-worm.

William Sim spoke of cleaning a large house of Matchless, which was covered with spider, by the application of a soap spray. S. J. Goddard said any soap will answer the same purpose, or even salt without soap. George F. Stewart said he had never had stem-rot on carnations planted out from pots. He has great faith in cyanide, but it must be used cautiously, as some plants will not stand it.

CARNATIONS I HAVE KNOWN.

In Thirty Years of Testing.

It seems a big task to cover all the varieties of carnations grown and tested in over thirty years, but I will do my best. I shall divide the period I have grown them into decades. From 1890 to 1900, these were the varieties tried: White—Heinze's White, Mrs. Fisher, Evalina, Genesee, Glacier, Crystal, Lizzie McGavan, Freedom, Edith Foster, Silver Spray, Nivea, Governor Russell, Morning Star, White Cloud and Flora Hill; pink—Daybreak, Tidal Wave, Thomas Cartledge, New York, Grace Wilder, F. Joost, William Scott, Rose Queen, James Dean, Dorothy Mandell, Abundance, Mme. Diaz Albertin, Della Fox and Bridesmaid; scarlet—Portia, E. G. Hill, Hector, Jubilee, John's Scarlet, J. H. Crane, The Stuart, Blake's Bon Ton and Dazzle; crimson—Anna Webb, Ferdinand Mangold, Empress, Libra, Jacqueminot, Meteor and General Maceo; yellow—Golden Gate, Golden Triumph, Buttercup, Eldorado, Kitty Clark and Gold Nugget; variegated—Helen Keller, Mrs. George M. Bradt, Mayor Pingree and Western Pride.

Digest of the talk of S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass., before the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston, February 23, 1922.

S. J. Goddard.

From this long list I should consider the following the outstanding varieties: Daybreak, a wonderfully popular light pink; Mrs. Fisher, a remarkably floriferous white; Mrs. Bradt, which I have sold as high as 25 cents per flower at wholesale; Gold Nugget, Anna Webb, Portia, than which no more beautiful scarlet was ever introduced; J. H. Crane, Tidal Wave, William Scott, a giant in its day; Grace Wilder, of a most beautiful color but difficult of propagation; Flora Hill, still talked about as an ideal white, and Mrs. Frances Joost, a beautiful pink.

In the first decade, center flowers were often pinched out and short-stemmed flowers packed for market in shoe boxes. The longer stems carried two or more flowers each and were tied fifty in a bunch. The one-time popular McGavan was called "a rag on a stick," because of its ragged appearance. New seedlings were more numerous in 1890 to 1900 than in the succeeding decades, when introducers used more caution and discrimination.

Another Period.

In 1900 to 1910 these were the varieties tried out: White—White Enchantress, White Lawson, White Perfection, White Wonder, Alba, Boston Market, Eastern Star, Fred Burki, Governor Saunders, Governor Wolcott, Lady Bountiful, Lilian Pond Lloyd, Lorna, Norway, Lieutenant Perry, My Maryland, The Queen, Queen Louise; pink—Winona, Winsor, Afterglow, Crossbrook, Ethel Crocker, Ethel Ward, Fair Maid, Fiancee, Genevieve, Helen Goddard, Enchantress, Mrs. T. W. Lawson, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. C. W. Ward, Nelson Fisher, Pink Delight, Rose-pink Enchantress and The Marquis; crimson—Harlowarden, Harry Fenn, The President, Daheim, Governor Roosevelt, President Roosevelt, and Governor Deneen, purple; yellow—Dorothy Whitney and Rother Starrett; scarlet—Beacon, Cardinal, Crusader, Estelle, Flamingo, J. H. Manley, John E. Haynes, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Red Chief, Adonis, Victory and Crusader; variegated—Jessie, Mikado, Mrs. M. A. Patten, Prosperity, Viola Allen and Crawford.

Of outstanding merit in this decade were the celebrated Lawson and its sport, Enchantress and its sports, Boston Market; the beautiful Lady Bountiful, White Wonder, The Queen, Winsor, of a popular shade of pink; Fair Maid, Mrs. C. W. Ward, still unequaled as a rose pink; Pink Delight, still going strong; The Marquis, Beacon, probably the most popular scarlet yet introduced; Victory, Mrs. Patten and the wonderful prolific Harry Fenn, still grown in some establishments. A big advance was made in this decade and hybridizers were alert.

In the period 1910 to the present time, we find fewer novelties were put on the market, mainly as a result of the great world war, during which time few novelties were sent out. Great progress, however, has been made. In white, we have Matchless, Alma Ward, Granite State, Bon Ami and Crystal White. Pink varieties include Alice Coombs, Cottage freely through selection of cuttings higher on the stem. In pinching back plants to be used entirely for cuttings, we top, from time to time, those shoots on which the bud is showing. High pinching is inadvisable, as it is a well known fact that, on flowering plants, the cuttings first developed are those nearest the top. If we find we have not pinched low enough when the breaks appear, it is a simple matter to go over them again.

Cuttings should be taken from healthy plants. Sick or diseased plants will produce cuttings, but should be avoided, if one wants his stock clean. Single flowers will return fourfold and then some, if one persists in propagating from such stock.

Putting in Sand.

Cuttings are taken, made and put in the sand in various ways. Some do not cut off the heel or trim, others trim quite hard. We have tried all methods and get the best results by taking our cuttings in the forenoon, placing in the flower room and, when made, placing in uniform piles in a basket, keeping them thoroughly watered and covered until placed in the sand. Speed and carefulness is required to propagate commercially; one should be able after some practice to acquire the knack of putting from 1,300 to 1,500 cuttings in the sand per hour. One should try to set all cuttings at a uniform depth; the results are apparent when rooted. Those set too deep will be rooted first. In trimming cuttings, trim some, but not too high. Do not cut the tops too low; remember cuttings absorb moisture through the leaves. Give them a chance to breathe. Keeping the overhead temperature too high softens the cuttings.

The great advantage of small beds readily controlled with heat is that cuttings, when rooted, can be hardened, or during a rush season can stand for several days without growing in the sand. A long bed where the same heat occurs at all times does not allow this. Cuttings fully rooted get the same continuous heat as the new stock.

Sometimes cuttings are noticed with a good bunch of roots hanging from the heel with a single root. This usually occurs when the heel has not been cut enough or trimmed squarely. Such cuttings often cause trouble, unless care is used in potting or boxing. I believe it is good policy to throw these away. We should all strive to put out cuttings as good as possible.

Rooting Pink Delight.

You all know the difficulty in rooting Pink Delight. Where one propagator achieved good results, the great majority fell down. One batch would root nicely; there was plenty of confidence in the next lot and often the result was a failure. The growing of Pink Delight for blooms at our establishment was not profitable and we set about to find how to get our money from this variety, as cuttings were in good demand. Little blocks of cuttings were given separate treatment. We found that small cuttings did not root successfully; therefore larger ones were selected. Cuttings were inserted 1½ inches in the sand, given the same watering other varieties received and, in addition, the heat was kept going constantly, disregarding temperature of the sand. Papers were used at all times to shade the cuttings, keeping the air out and the heat in. This was continued for eighteen days. Papers were then removed and for several days constant sprayings were given the cuttings. When well rooted, which usually took thirty-five days, heat was shut off and cuttings allowed to remain cool for a week, before shipping. This treatment proved satisfactory and we continued to employ it during the time Pink Delight was in steady demand. One year we had 9,000 plants topped back for cuttings.

Newer Varieties.

Laddie we root quite satisfactorily. No small cuttings are taken, neither are papers used for shading until March. We generally give Laddie thirty-five days before shipping.

Maine Sunshine, of which we have only a small stock, fooled me at first. The small cuttings did not root. Now we are taking only the larger ones. A batch taken out last week was given more heat, resulting in better than ninety per cent rooting. Doubtless with a little more experience this can be improved upon.

I would recommend to all carnation enthusiasts who have not read the late Charles Willis Ward's book, "The Carnation," to do so. Written in 1903, nearly twenty years ago, it is a comprehensive treatise on the subject of carnations, and it is head and shoulders over anything else published. As a reference book it is without a peer. Today there is little we can add.

PROTECTING THE CARNATION.

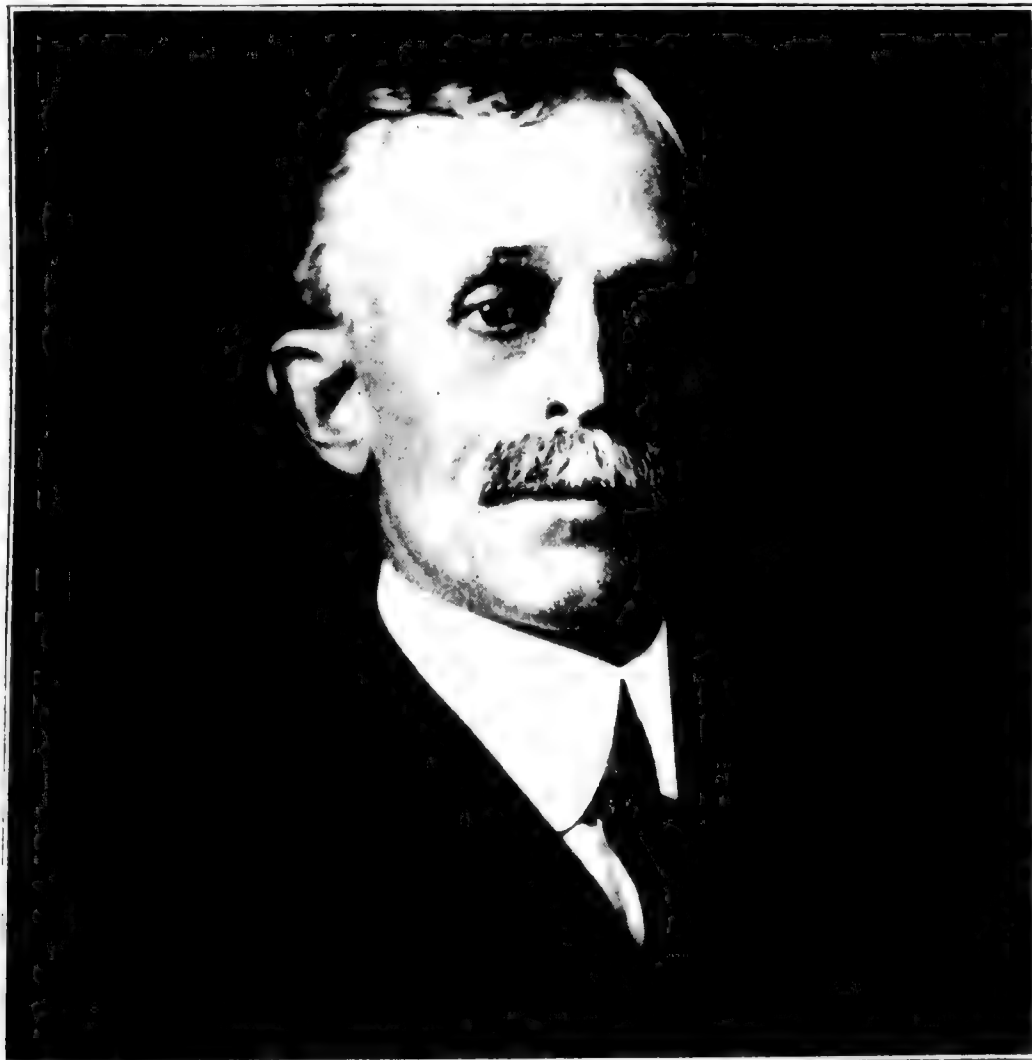

From Diseases and Insects.

In his address before the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston, February 23, W. D. Howard, Milford, Mass., said:

"Red spider is the most dangerous insect pest attacking carnations. It is quite liable to attack plants in the field. I do not approve of watering carnations outdoors, except in case of extreme need, but I do believe in a good soaking right after planting. I have installed a Skinner system in my field and have used it occasionally. It has helped to ward off spider. I have more faith in constant hoeing to retain soil moisture than in watering. Hoeing, long continued, causes a considerable dust mulch, which covers the foliage and gives a chance for spider to secure a foothold. It pays to open the Skinner system and wash this dust off. If any spider remains on plants when housed, a force of water, well directed from the hose and applied in several directions, is the best cure. There may be a few hot corners near heating mains where spider might get a foothold, and occasional spraying may be needed there; otherwise I entirely disapprove of syringing carnations, as was done in the old days. Nowadays we hear little of rust. It is caused by the frequent syringings to which plants are subjected.

"For green aphids and thrips I always use a nicotine solution in spray form from a force pump, adding a little salt to the spray. I start to use this right after planting and apply it every two weeks. I do not fumigate at all, because, since building my largest house, I have found that I must fill too much atmosphere and spraying proves far more economical. I have never been troubled by cutworms, as have many other growers.

"Stem rot may have its origin in the cutting bench or flats. If a flat is placed on a shelf and there is overlooked and

In the period 1910 to the present time, we find many novelties were put on the market, many of them the result of the great south-western hybridizing few novelties of this decade, they white, we have seen the variety, for instance, State, Pink, white, and White, Pink, variegated, and the variety, for instance, Catharine Maid, Dorothy Gordon, Denver, Democracy, Laddie, Miss Theo, Northport, Philadelphia Pink, Peerless Pink, Ruth Baur, Pink Sensation, Nancy, Alice and Gloriosa. There are some fine scarlets in Aviator, Belle Washburn, Comfort, Eureka, two varieties of this name; Edna, Red Wing, Scarlet Glow, St. Nicholas, The Herald and Commodore. In the variegated class are Benora, Bay State, J. W. Riley. In yellow are Maine Sunshine, Old Gold, Yellow Prince and Yellowstone. In crimson are Bernice, Doris and Pocahontas and in cerise are Gorgeous, Rosalia and Rosette.

Those in the foregoing list of outstanding merit are: Matchless, Laddie, Cottage Maid, Aviator, Belle Washburn, Eureka, Benora, Maine Sunshine, Doris, Yellow Prince, Rosalia, Rosette and Pocahontas.

We have not by any means reached the limit in carnations and I look to see just as big an advance in the next decade. How puny Lawson now looks alongside of Laddie! Even the latter wonderful variety will, undoubtedly, be eclipsed, for steady progress is the order in the carnation world. W. N. C.

CARNATION SEEDLINGS.

Hybridization and Raising.

I might state in opening that I have read the following works with much profit: "Commercial Carnation Culture," by J. Harrison Dick; "Plant Breeding," by Bailey and Gilbert, and a work on Mendel's laws of heredity.

Any members who have not read E. G. Hill's article on commercial forcing roses and reminiscences, published in the trade papers last December, should do so. It will be found quite profitable. Something he said struck a responsive chord in my heart, for I felt I had been blundering along a good many years. He said, "I have talked with Pernet and Russell, with Lambert and Soupert, of Luxembour, and with both families of the Dicksons and have tried to gather information, but I found that a great many of these men were stumbling along. They were not doing things on scientific lines. I do not think it is speaking disrespectfully of them, but I think they were groping their way to a certain extent. Perhaps Frank Dickson and Alex Dickson were the most pronounced in their work in regard to scientific knowledge concerning hybridization." So I have not been the only man going it blind to some extent.

Facts Worth Knowing.

A. F. J. Baur says: "Most of the real acquisitions have been produced by the few who have studied the problem carefully and followed it up systematically over a long period. To the hybridizer belongs the credit for changing the carnation's habit from the periodical to the perpetual blooming habit and for the wide range of color." [The speaker here showed a pistil, removed stamens.]

A stigma is receptive in from six to fourteen days. Some use a camel's-hair brush in their work. I prefer a forceps; curved ones are best. Also I prefer an old felt hat. [A type of record tag was here shown; the female's name always comes first. The petals were left on and the calyx was slit.]

C. H. Conners, of the New Jersey experiment station, says: "Only one grain of pollen is necessary to impregnate the seed, provided germination takes place, but it is desirable to cover well the stigma with pollen. The sticky fluid is the germinating medium. In it the pollen grain germinates and throws out a tube, which enters at one of the hairs and so down to the ovary, where it impregnates the ovules, which thereupon become seeds."

Characteristics to be sought after are a free-branching habit, a fairly stiff stem without too much growth up high, good calyx, fragrance, everblooming quality and last, but by no means least, keeping quality. A considerable amount of my crossing is done during my noon hour. I do not like Sunday work and, while some practice it, I consider it unnecessary.

Ideals Needed.

A successful hybridist has well said: "To be a successful hybridist or to attain success in fertilization, we have to have idealism; we must have visions of the things we want to aim at. Young men must get this thoroughly grounded in their minds and thoughts. If it were not for the dreamers, there would not be much accomplished in this world. Have a vision of the things you want to do, and then have the purpose of mind, the stability to stick at it and work it out, and you will get results. I don't care what line of action you take up in this life, but in any profession, 'stick-at-it-ness' and that desire to carry out your ideals and to make them a success will carry you forward at a wonderful rate. And, let me tell you, it will give you pleasure and delight, as you go along through this experimental stage. If you are engaged in raising new plants, in hybridization or in cross-fertilization, I cannot explain to you the great joy and satisfaction you will get out of it. It pays; pays every minute and every day of your life."

A. F. J. Baur says: "There is no true-bred strain, one that will reproduce itself from seed. This can perhaps be accounted for in two ways. In the first place, the perpetual-flowering carnation of today is so different from the original from which it sprang, and the change has been so gradual, that there remains a strong tendency to revert. Then, too, the breeders have not concentrated their efforts on the production of a true-bred strain. The custom has been to infuse the blood of any variety possessing certain qualities in which the strain may have been deficient; consequently, the ancestry of most varieties is so complex that no definite results can be relied upon when a cross is made."

Recent Seedlings.

[Mr. Winkler here showed a number of his recent seedlings, including Little Gem, Benora, Matchless, No. 11 and Peter Ball, a fine rose pink, also a cerise. In the latter he thought he had a sure winner, but stem-rot finished it.]

I have repeated crosses forty times, saved seeds until January and even when seeds were sealed up in wax paper I have lost all from thrips. At least, thrips seemed responsible. Now I save seed whenever it ripens. William Sim, by crossing Matchless on Matchless, has produced Gold Dust and Sunset. Varieties vary much in the production of pollen. Morning Glow has none in winter, Aviator and Ward none at any time, and it is hard to find on Belle Washburn. Morning Glow is sterile; so is The Queen, for many years a prolific and profitable white. Seeds in a pod number anywhere from one to sixty. It takes four to six weeks to ripen the seeds. I prefer to sow seeds in flats, marking rows by pressing 12-inch field labels, and pick each seed separately. Possibly small seed pans might be better when sown broadcast. Indoor space is too valuable to carry along seedlings in pots or in benches and it is best to plant them outdoors. Mr. Baur considers pot culture the better method. I have some in pots and consider the method interesting, but decidedly expensive.

To determine the value of a new variety, a record should be kept of how it produces and what price the blooms bring compared with standard varieties of the same color. It is hard to improve on what we already have and it seems to me about the same as trying to clip a quarter of a second off a race horse's time. An originator should send out his new varieties and he should get all there is in it the first year. He may think he is not known, but how did Dorner, Ward and Fisher get their reputation? It is a difficult matter to gauge a variety's value. Some of the most promising kinds have turned out dismal failures.

PONTRICH'S NEW STORE.

More than a score of years ago, Simon Pontrich built several greenhouses on the outskirts of Louisville, Ky. In those days he was able to care for his small retail business without special facilities. But, as time passed and his business grew, he found need of a store. So he boarded off one end of his potting shed and equipped it with such furnishings as were indispensable for retailing flowers. When his sons gave the business added impetus, trade grew so that before long an up-to-date display room was thought necessary to care for the business that had been built up. A brick building has been erected, at the corner of Twenty-eighth and Greenwood streets, which contains all the fixtures and equipment of a shop in the heart of the city. The exterior of the store which adjoins the greenhouses is shown in the illustration on page 31.

In the new store, the sons of Simon Pontrich are now in full charge of the business, allowing the founder to retire from active work after twenty years of industry.

BOSTON.

The Market.

A weaker tone now prevails all along the line. Last week saw several congested days, with a brace at the close. February 22 being a holiday, stock accumulated and, but for several dark days, conditions would have been worse. Supplies are steadily increasing and the tendency is toward lower levels.

Roses have declined less than other flowers and are not yet in heavy supply. Short-stemmed flowers are a little lower and fancies also show a slight decline. Special Hadley made $25 to $30 per hundred, while of the other varieties $20 per hundred is now top price. White sells more tardily than colored varieties. There has been some decline in carnations, averaging $2 per hundred, as compared with a week ago. Violets also show a drop. Sweet peas are doing better, with the best making $4 per hundred. These latter have stems about eighteen inches in length.

A considerable amount of bulbous material is now coming in. Golden Spur and Victoria are the leading daffodils. Few Darwin tulips are seen, but plenty of the early type. Among the latter are Couronne d'Or, Prince of Austria, Flamingo, Pink Beauty and other good varieties. Blue iris, freesias, ornatus and campernelles are other bulbous subjects coming in. Callas are druggy and Easter lilies move slowly. Snapdragons make from $4 to $20 per hundred, according to quality, which is much improved. Calendulas are abundant and cheap; so are forget-me-nots and sweet alyssum. Marguerites continue to sell well. Cut acacia is in quite good supply. Colored freesias of fine quality are another welcome novelty. There are still fair supplies of Cattleya Trianae and sufficient gardenias and valley.

In pot plants now are to be had roses—ramblers, polyanthas and hybrid perpetuals. A considerable number of azaleas are now seen, as well as French hydrangeas of excellent quality. Darwin tulips are now the leaders among bulbous plants and are remarkably fine. Pans of mixed bulbs prove popular also.

There are still some fine cyclamens and quantities of cinerarias.

Club Meeting.

The annual carnation night of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club never fails to draw a big attendance and February 23, in spite of the night being dark, damp and disagreeable, the hall was filled with an enthusiastic audience. A. K. Rogers, for the executive committee, said tickets were selling rapidly for the banquet February 28 and all would probably be disposed of. The committee on resolutions for the late Marcellus A. Patten presented suitable resolutions, which were accepted by a rising vote. Gustave Thommen, S. J. Goddard and Peter Fisher were members of the committee. Eight new members were elected to the club.

Exhibits were numerous and of remarkably fine quality, filling all available table space. W. D. Howard, of Milford, Mass., had handsome vases of Benora, Eureka, White Delight, Pink Delight, Cottage Maid, Mrs. C. W. Ward, Bernice and Laddie, which were awarded honorable mention.

Coombs, Hartford, Conn., showed fine vases of Laddie and Belle Washburn. N. C. Osborn brought along this exhibit.

James Methven had an excellent vase of Belle Washburn.

Edward Winkler received honorable mention for Little Gem and a vote of thanks for vases of White Perfection and Benora. He also showed a collection of excellent seedlings.

William Sim received an award of merit for his new variegated, Mrs. Grace Coolidge, and honorable mention for Gold Dust and seedling No. 17. He also showed a fine lot of seedlings.

S. J. Goddard received a report of superior merit for a wonderfully fine vase of Laddie. A small vase each of Mrs. Lawson and Helen Goddard were staged alongside for comparison, to show the advance made in the last twenty years. He received honorable mention for Harvester, The Lark and a fine assortment of Dorner's newest seedlings, included among which were some splendid varieties, likely to be heard from later.

From Patten & Co. came a splendid vase each of Thomas C. Joy and Natalie.

William J. Folsom showed Laddie well.

From Strout's, Biddeford, Me., came excellent flowers of Rosalind.

L. C. Seagrave had a beautiful specimen plant of Myosotis Sutton's Pot.

Charles F. Beasley & Co. showed a fine collection of bunches of their handsome pansies, some being of remarkable size. Each of the five last-named exhibits received honorable mention.

Speaking of Natalie, Harold J. Patten said the firm's plants had yielded eight flowers per plant and nineteen per square foot up to January 8. W. D. Howard, when asked about the productiveness of Cottage Maid, said it was practically the same as Mrs. Ward, but he found it a good seller and the price averaged $2 to $3 above Ward. S. J. Goddard spoke highly of Harvester and Red Rosalia; Dorner's 135-16 he classed as a remarkably good light pink. He uses sheep manure, cow manure and dried blood as foods for carnations. Mr. Goddard made an appeal to growers and dealers to stop calling carnations "pinks." It was a too common practice, he said, in Boston, one which did no credit to those using it. He hopes the practice will be abandoned. The various talks, reported on a forward page, brought out good discussions and the meeting proved to be a most successful one. Among those present from a distance were George E. Buxton, Nashua, N. H.; Mr. Whitney, Biddeford, Me., and N. C. Osborn, Hartford, Conn. Mr. Osborn spoke highly of Ruth Baur.

Various Notes.

The many pedestrians passing along Beacon street February 22 noticed in the windows of the Beacon Florist a remarkable display of more than fifty different portraits of Washington, together with photographs of Washington relics at Mount Vernon, such as Washington's military tents, camp equipment and uniform, now the property of the United States. Jack Eisemann, known among his confreres in the trade as "the literary florist," is fond of old books, antiques and pictures, and his window displays on special occasions and anniversaries usually have a literary turn. The portraits shown, which were all different, showed Washington as he appeared to the artists and engravers of his time. In addition to all the well known portraits of Washington, there were reproductions of some of which only one copy is known. There were also curious old colored prints of Washington made by foreign engravers who never saw him, one of the most interesting being a horseback study made in France by an artist unfamiliar with the American army uniform, who dressed the "father of his country" with the uniform of Frederick the Great, of Prussia! The exhibit was tastefully arranged with plants and cut flowers and attracted a great deal of favorable attention. Store trade received a decided fillip from the unique display.

Thomas Roland spent a few days in and around New York last week, visiting many of the leading pot plant and orchid establishments. He was much impressed with the way the George E. Baldwin Co., of Mamaroneck, are raising seedling orchids. They have enormous numbers of them in a flourishing condition.

In the windows of T. F. Galvin, Inc., on Park street, were noticed handsome vases of lavender freesias on long stems, cut Acacia Baileyana and A. pubescens, handsome blue iris and excellent sprays of Oncidium splendidum.

At F. E. Palmer's, on Newton street, a fine bed of delphiniums is well advanced and some will be ready to cut in a few days. The big specimen Acacia pubescens is in the end of the greenhouse that holds the delphiniums. If the two would flower together they would make a charming combination. Quantities of pot roses are already in bloom here; also some fine hydrangeas. Quantities are coming in for Easter. The young cyclamens for next season are coming along in good shape and many are already well established in 3-inch pots.

Penn's had a charming Dutch garden arranged in one of the large show windows last week. Beds of tulips in individual colors, borders of hyacinths, a background of shrubbery and ground-work of sheet moss to represent grass were all well done. Pans of Darwin tulips are shown here in quantity and there were noted some pans of Lachenalia pendula.

The state legislature committee on daylight saving has reported in favor of a continuance of the present 5-month daylight saving plan; so we are virtually assured of this for the coming season, commencing at the end of April.

The representatives of the wholesale markets have had several lengthy conferences of late and plans are being perfected to lease or build a suitable structure for the wholesale cut flower and sundries industries.

The North Shore Horticultural Society held its annual banquet and dance at Horticultural hall, Manchester, February 23. About 200 were present and the occasion was an enjoyable one. A group from Boston attended.

E. E. Randall is having a large call for his new adjustable plant stands. He has received a United States patent for these. Many of the leading retail stores are now using the stands. A display was made at the last meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club and attracted much favorable notice.

The schedule of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society for 1922 will soon be ready to issue. The opening show comes March 23 to 26 and will be exclusively for bulbs, so far as competitive classes are concerned. There are classes for bulb gardeners, both private and commercial, and numerous other classes. W. N. C.

LOOK OUT FOR MR. STARK.

I should like to have you print this information regarding the disappearance of Joseph R. Stark, who was manager of the Carbon Floral Co., Price, Utah. Mr. Stark and myself were partners here, operating a flower store under that name. I went on a trip, leaving February 4, and returned on the evening of February 14. Mr. Stark had left that same day, about four hours before, and left a note saying he would be back in the morning. But he has not returned since.

After waiting a few days, I found, upon investigation, that he had drawn all our money out of the bank and had collected all the bills he could, but had not paid any of the wholesale florists from whom we bought flowers. He got all the cash, between $300 and $400. I had put all the money I had earned into the business and he left a note in the bank for $200. I surely got stung good and hard and, I am afraid, so have some wholesale florists. I hope they will work with me to discover the whereabouts of Mr. Stark and put him where he belongs. I am trying to keep the business going, so that I can pay off the bills. Will you publish this, so that this man will not sting anyone else in the trade?

NATIONAL PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN.

About the Advertising.

Some little change has been made in the contracts placed for March, April and May for advertising in the national magazines. It was deemed advisable to use 1-column spaces in the magazines selected, in order to get the best effect. The magazines selected, and this will be noted in a subsequent report, give a circulation of approximately 7,000,000, and the publications used are the best in that class. In a few days copies of the advertisements with full particulars as to insertions will be sent to every subscriber to the fund and to the members of the S. A. F. All who receive the samples would do well to incorporate as much as possible of the matter of the original advertisements in their local advertisements, the idea being to link up with the national advertising.

There is no lack of interest in the progress of the campaign, as the following report shows:

GET READY TO GO

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Railroad Rates to Indianapolis.

A rate of one fare and one-half for members of the S. A. F. and affiliated organizations, attending the adjourned meeting of the society at Indianapolis, in connection with which the fifth national flower show is held, has been granted by the Central Passenger Association and the Trunk Line Association, and the arrangements will be concurred in by the other passenger associations. The rebate is conditional upon 350 making the trip, including members and dependent members of their families.

The rebate is made upon the certificate plan, and the following directions are submitted:

Tickets at the regular 1-way tariff fare for the going journey may be obtained on any of the following dates, but not on any other date: March 22 to 28, for Central and Trunk Line territory. Be sure that, when purchasing your going ticket, you request a certificate. Do not make the mistake of asking for a "receipt."

Present yourself at the railroad station for your ticket and certificate at least thirty minutes before the departure of the train on which you will begin your journey.

Certificates are not kept at all stations. If you inquire at your home station, you can ascertain whether certificates and through tickets can be obtained to the place of meeting. If not obtainable at your home station, the agent will inform you at what station they can be obtained. You can, in such case, purchase a local ticket to the station which has certificates in stock, where you can purchase a through ticket and at the same time ask for and obtain a certificate to the place of meeting.

Immediately on your arrival at the meeting, present your certificate to the endorsing officer, Secretary J. Young—who will sign certificates for all organizations—as the reduced fare for the return journey will not apply unless you are properly identified as provided for by the certificate.

Arrangements have been made for validation of certificates by a special agent of the carriers, March 25 to April 5, if the required minimum of 350 certificates is presented.

No refund of fare will be made on account of failure either to obtain a proper certificate or on account of failure to have the certificate validated.

So as to prevent disappointment, it must be understood that the reduction on the return journey is not guaranteed, but is contingent on an attendance of not less than 350 members of the organization at the meeting and dependent members of their families, holding regularly issued certificates obtained from ticket agents at starting points, showing payment of regular 1-way tariff fare of not less than 67 cents on the going journey.

If the necessary minimum of 350 certificates is presented to the special agent, as above explained, and your certificate is duly validated, you will be entitled, up to and including April 5, to a return ticket via the same route over which you made the going journey, at one-half the regular 1-way tariff fare from the place of the meeting to the point at which your certificate was issued.

A return ticket issued at the reduced fare will not be good on any limited train on which such reduced transportation is not honored.

For information in regard to routing and stop-overs make inquiry of your home station agent.

FIFTH NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

Indianapolis, March 25 to April 1.

The work of preparation for the fifth national flower show, to open at Indianapolis March 25 next, is remarkably well advanced. The local committees are well organized, and, owing to the emergency nature of most details, there are committees covering every phase of the exhibition.

Some of the larger exhibits promised for Cleveland will be staged at Indianapolis along the lines originally planned, among them the following: Bulb garden, by the Wayside Gardens Co., West Mentor, O.; bulb garden, by Walter E. Cook, Cleveland, O.; rose garden, by Merkel & Sons, Mentor, O., and a rose garden by the Daisy Hill Farm, Chagrin Falls, O.

Another large garden will be one the State Florists' Association of Indiana will stage.

Charles Bookwalter, president of the park board of Indianapolis, who was formerly mayor of the city, is giving hearty support in the arrangements for the show. He has promised that there shall be a splendid exhibit of large palms and foliage plants from the greenhouses in Garfield park; these greenhouses, by the way, are conceded to be the finest in the middle west. It is also planned to have a reproduction of the Garfield park sunken garden, which will add materially to the picturesque beauty of the show. Mr. Bookwalter has assured the local flower show committee that it will have the fullest cooperation of the park department in any plan looking to the success of the show, and the department's resources are at the disposal of the committee. Houston Tall, superintendent of parks, has also tendered his heartiest cooperation in carrying out the details of the park exhibits.

The Logical Place.

The trade in all parts of the country appears to have awakened to the fact that Indianapolis is the logical center for an exhibition of this kind. The trade exhibit section will, in magnitude, compare favorably with similar sections at previous national flower shows, as is evidenced by the number of applications for space coming in to the secretary, who is now occupying offices in the Chamber of Commerce building. The change from Cleveland to the new location appears to have made little difference, if any, in the plans of trade exhibitors, and all doubt has been removed as to the ultimate accomplishment of the objects of the national flower show committee.

The space taken in the trade section by the A. L. Randall Co., of Chicago, approximates almost 1,000 square feet, and, as previously noted, will be used for the staging of an up-to-date flower shop, containing the latest ideals in the way of auxiliaries and fixtures. The Lord & Burnham Co., Chicago and New York, also is among those who have taken large spaces, the firm's reservation covering 1,000 square feet, in which will be staged a most comprehensive exhibit covering greenhouse construction and equipment.

The final schedule of premiums is now being distributed, and anyone interested, not receiving a copy, should make immediate application to the secretary's New York office, 43 West Eighteenth street, for one, or to the secretary's office at Indianapolis, noted in this letter. Plans covering exhibition space are also available.

Season tickets for the show will be furnished to all members of the society in good standing, and will be mailed in about ten days. It is important that every member see to it that he is in good standing on the society's books, in order that he be entitled to a season ticket.

John Young, Sec'y.

POINTS BY PENNOCK.

It is gratifying to learn, from the recent letters coming in from Indianapolis, that everyone is responding so wonderfully to the support of the forthcoming national flower show; this is particularly true of the exhibitors, who, one after another, are "coming across" in fine shape.

We feel that everyone who exhibits at this show will be repaid in more ways than one. There is the satisfaction of being a part of such a successful undertaking and, besides this, each one who does exhibit is bound to be benefited, so we want the support of those who have not already made up their minds definitely to exhibit, whether small grower or large grower.

Everyone in the business owes it to himself and to horticulture to do everything in his power to make this great national flower show an assured success.

S. S. Pennock, Pres.

CARNATION CLASSES.

At Indianapolis.

The members of the American Carnation Society are urged to stage a large exhibit of carnations at the national flower show, which has been transferred to Indianapolis. The original dates, March 25 to April 1, remain in force. This city is so accessible, there is really no excuse for anyone to remain away. The complete flower show schedule will be mailed out within a few days. Following are the carnation classes:

Display of carnation blooms, covering eighty square feet of space; the exhibitor shall have absolute latitude as to arrangement and shall be permitted to use cut foliage or foliage plants. All receptacles shall be supplied by the exhibitor; first prize, gold medal and $300; second prize, silver medal and $200; third prize, bronze medal and $100.

Basket arrangement of carnation blooms, one or more varieties; not less than 100 nor more than 200 blooms, arranged with any kind of cut foliage; first prize, $100; second prize, $75; third prize, $50.

Arrangement of carnation blooms other than baskets or vases. This class is intended for something novel in arrangement. Cut foliage or foliage plants may be used, at the exhibitor's discretion; first prize, $100; second prize, $75; third prize, $50.

Table decoration, carnations being the principal flowers used. Any foliage, cut or otherwise, may be used; first prize, $75; second prize, $50.

One hundred blooms, any undissected variety, shown in one vase; first prize, gold medal and $50; second prize, silver medal and $25; third prize, bronze medal and $15.

One hundred blooms Laddie, shown in one vase; first prize, $30; second prize, $20.

Fifty blooms Laddie, shown in one vase; first prize, $20; second prize, $10.

Display of carnation blooms, grown and exhibited by private gardener; not less than 200 blooms, displayed in vases; first prize, $50 and Hitchings & Co. cup; second prize, $30; third prize, $20.

Fifty blooms, one variety flaked	7.00	4.00
Fifty blooms, one variety any other color	7.00	4.00

We shall have the best exhibition hall the national flower show has ever been staged in and it is our duty to stage a carnation display which will be in keeping with the rest of the show. Let each member do his bit. Send your entries to Secretary John Young, national flower show headquarters, Chamber of Commerce building, Indianapolis, Ind. The western growers, particularly, are urged to make entry.

The following have contributed toward the carnation premium fund, reducing the American Carnation Society liability to the extent of $1,350:

A. M. Campbell, A. N. Pierson, Inc., A. M. Henshaw, Baur & Steinkamp, C. E. Critchell, C. W. Johnson, Coombs, Florist, Cottage Gardens Co., C. Hagenburger, Dailedouze Bros., E. J. Weaver, E. Saunders, Edward Winkler, F. Dorner & Sons Co., George Asmus, George Buxton, Hartje & Elder, Hentz & Nash, H. O. May, Hitchings & Co., Henry Smith, H. W. Sheppard, H. G. Berning, Joseph H. Hill, J. A. F. J. Baur, Sec'y.

MARCH 27 CHICAGO DAY.

At Indianapolis Show.

According to the plans of the management of the national flower show, to be held at Indianapolis March 25 to April 1, March 27 is to be Chicago day. And all members of the trade in the vicinity of Chicago are expected to cooperate to make this the one biggest day of the show. It is anticipated that the Chicago party will be a large one and all are welcome to join it. Chicago organizations are doing their best to make this day, March 27, stand out conspicuously.

The Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville railroad, Monon route, has been chosen for the party's trip. The party will leave Dearborn station, Polk and Dearborn streets, at 5:30 p. m., Sunday, March 26, due Indianapolis the same evening at 10:30.

Reduction on Rates.

A rate of a fare and one-half on the certificate plan has been authorized, making the round trip $9.93. Tickets should be purchased on the going trip at the regular 1-way rate and a certificate requested of the agent. Upon arrival at Indianapolis, the certificate should be signed and stamped by the railway representative at the show. This will entitle the bearer to a reduction of one-half the regular fare returning. This arrangement also applies to members of the families of delegates. Certificates will be issued March 22 to 28, inclusive, and will be validated March 25 to April 5, inclusive, owner of return ticket to reach original starting point not later than midnight, April 5. Everyone going must have a certificate to secure the reduced rate returning.

The 1-way rate is $6.62. Pullman fares are: Parlor car seat, $1.13; lower berth, $3.75; upper berth, $3.

Other Ways to Go.

Other trains for those unable to accompany the party are as follows:

By the Monon route, the train leaving Chicago at 9:20 a. m. arrives at Indianapolis at 2:20 p. m.; the train leaving Chicago at 12 o'clock, noon, reaches Indianapolis at 5 p. m., while the train leaving Chicago at 12:01, midnight, reaches Indianapolis at 6 a. m.

The Cincinnati Express, leaving the Illinois Central station at 8:55 a. m., is due Indianapolis the same day at 2:55 p. m. The Queen City Special, departing at 1 p. m., is due the same afternoon at 6:05, and the Cincinnati Night Special, leaving at 11:40 p. m., is due Indianapolis the following morning at 4:55.

To join the Chicago party, see that tickets read via the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville railroad, Monon route; make all necessary reservations with Herbert Wiley, general agent of the passenger department, Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville railroad, 606 Merchants' Loan & Trust building, 112 West Adams street, Chicago; telephone, Harrison 3309.

ILLINOIS SHUTS OUT BORER

Because of the presence of the European corn borer in certain New England and middle Atlantic states, the governor of the state of Illinois has issued a proclamation prohibiting the shipment of cut flowers or entire plants of chrysanthemum, aster, cosmos, zinnia and hollyhock, and cut flowers or entire plants of gladiolus and dahlia, except the bulbs thereof, without stems, and certain other vegetable plants, from the above named sections into Illinois unless they have been inspected by a state or federal inspector and are accompanied by a certificate of such inspector, showing that they are free from the corn borer.

BUSINESS EMBARRASMENTS.

New York, N. Y.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed February 23 against Sam Seligman, 116 West Twenty-eighth street, by three creditors, Joseph R. Grossman, $388; Julius Syrkin, $79; Isadore H. Werner, $61. Liabilities are reported as about $16,000 and assets about $4,000. Mr. Seligman, after traveling on the road for a New York ribbon house, went into business with a partner as Seligman & Stein, later buying out his partner and doing business under his own name, which his wide travels among the trade had made well known to florists. Judge Learned Hand the following day appointed Arthur Y. Dalziel receiver under $2,000 bond.

Macon, Ga.—Announcement is made that Ellis G. Carswell has withdrawn from the firm of Nutting & Carswell and has returned to the Idle Hour Nurseries.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—A meeting of the creditors of the Stiles Floral Co., held February 18, having failed to produce a solution of the financial affairs of that concern, it went into bankruptcy February 24. George Stiles was appointed receiver until the creditors can elect a trustee. The business is being continued by the receiver. In the statement made at the time the creditors' meeting was called it was stated that the assets of the corporation were $100,000 and that liabilities were only $75,000. It develops, however, that the creditors consider the assets to be subject to heavy shrinkage in liquidation. It is stated that the First National Bank of Oklahoma City is an unsecured creditor to the extent of $22,500. It was reported after the creditors' meeting that the rent being paid is $1,000 per month and that $15,000 had been lost in the last six months.

CHICAGO'S CAMPAIGN

A. F. A. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING.

Growers May Direct Publicity.

The annual meeting of the Allied Florists' Association of Illinois was held at the Hotel Randolph, Chicago, Monday evening, February 27. When reports of the officers had been heard, other order of business gave way to a consideration of the growers' plan to take over the advertising campaign. It seemed to be the almost unanimous opinion of those present that the growers, if they were willing to assume responsibility, should be allowed to direct the cooperative campaign of advertising carried on during the last two years by the Allied Florists' Association as representing retailers, wholesalers and growers.

When the president had opened the meeting, the secretary read the auditor's report of the association's finances during the two years of its existence. Unfortunately, the auditor had mistaken the fiscal year of the organization and included in the first annual period thirteen months, from February 24, 1920, to March 31, 1921, and in the second period only ten months, from April 1, 1921, to January 31, 1922. For this reason the figures in the two columns below can only be compared by making allowance for the difference of three months between the first and the second.

Auditor's Figures.

The figures given by the auditor are tabulated below:

Secretary H. V. Swenson then read his report. In it he said:

"During the period March 1, 1921, to January 31, 1922, the Allied Florists' Association invested $20,462.59 of its funds in advertising. This does not include St. Valentine's day advertising, which amounts to approximately $2,000 additional. This figure equals approximately $6,000 less than the year previous, for the reason that last year's report covered a longer period.

"Twenty-two different subjects were advertised during the current year. As these advertisements appeared in from two to six papers, it means that eighty-four distinct advertisements were run by the association in the Chicago dailies.

Membership.

"Up to July 1, 1921, the membership of the association remained about the same as the year previous, but it was found that quite a number of the retailers were not paying. The growers, on the other hand, had been paying religiously from the start. As quite a number of the retailers were not paying the assessment, this naturally reduced the association's receipts materially.

"May 1 compulsory payment by the retailers was put in operation by the wholesale market. This proved successful, financially at least, for two months and showed a decided increase in revenue—for these two months. The compulsory plan, however, failed to function properly after July 1 and it was gradually dropped. From then on, collections from the retailers, as I am informed by the wholesalers on the market, gradually fell off. I also found a lack of interest in trying to force the retailers to pay. This was justifiable in view of the fact that there was no united action in the matter, and a wholesaler could not very well stand alone and force the collection which would be to his disadvantage.

"Outside of a reduced revenue, brought about by the refusal of some retailers to pay the assessment, the association has functioned satisfactorily through the year. This office has experienced little or no trouble in collecting the funds from the wholesale houses each month."

Growers' Proposal.

Both the reports of the auditor and of the secretary were accepted and spread on the records. The president then called upon Peter Pearson, as president of the Commercial Flower Growers of Chicago, for information regarding the proposal of the growers to assume responsibility for the advertising campaign, a discussion concerning which had been named the special order of business for the meeting. Since it was necessary that the constitution and the by-laws of the Allied Florists' Association be amended to permit the change to be made, Mr. Pearson moved that a committee be appointed by the chair to draft such amendments for presentation to a meeting which would be called at such time as would permit the necessary thirty days' notice to be given members.

Before calling for a vote on the motion, the chairman called upon various wholesalers and growers present for an expression of opinion. The consensus appeared to be in favor of the change, provided the unanimous support of the growers could be obtained. It appeared that a majority of the growers have already expressed themselves in favor of the move and it was said that the others would give their support when they had been fully informed regarding the proposed action.

Retailers Spend Individually.

The growers who spoke in favor of the change believed that the retailers, primarily interested in their individual advertising, should be permitted to devote their entire energy and funds in that direction. Large sums are being so expended at present by some retailers who are contributing to the Allied Florists' Association. George Asmus stated that Schiller the Florist was paying $1,600 per month for billboard advertising, which was but one item in the firm's publicity budget. Without mentioning the total expenditure for advertising by his own firm, he remarked that his fellow director, A. Lange, spent annually as much as the entire receipts of the A. F. A. Several other loop retailers and a few in residential districts spend similarly large sums. The aggregate of such advertising by retailers totals in the course of the year many times that expended by the A. F. A. It was the growers' intention, therefore, to permit the retailers to confine themselves to such individual publicity, for which course they seemed already to have indicated their preference by withdrawing, in a number of instances, from the association. Mr. Asmus stated that his own firm's contribution to the Allied Florists' Association was so small a portion of its entire advertising budget as to be almost insignificant, but if the growers wished to direct the campaign of cooperative advertising, he would favor the idea. A. Lange suggested that the growers try it a year at any rate.

Upon the motion of Mr. Pearson being seconded by Joseph Kohout, a vote was taken, which was unanimous, with the exception of one person, who wished his vote to be recorded in opposition. Mr. Asmus thereupon named on the committee to amend the constitution and by-laws Eric Johnson, Paul Klingsporn, Peter Pearson, Otto Amling and Joseph Kohout.

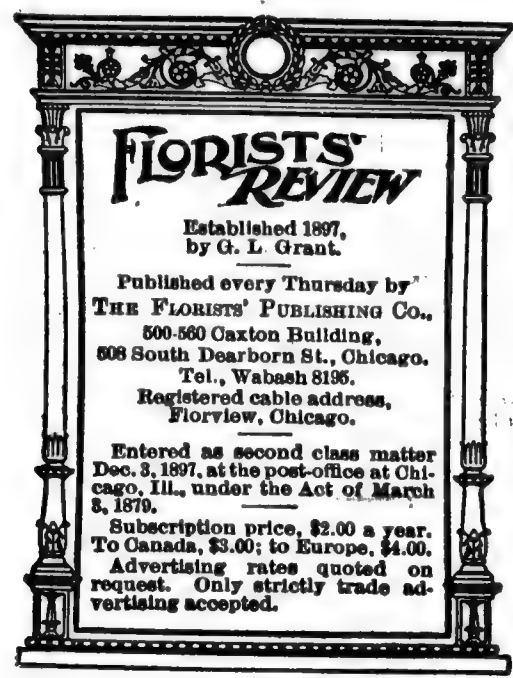

Mr. Kohout moved that the present officers continue in the discharge of their duties until their successors be elected. Upon being seconded by Rudolph Ellsworth, this motion was carried. With it prevailed a vote of confidence in the board of directors of the A. F. A., so that they might proceed with further advertising during the period which must elapse before the direction of the campaign can be formally turned over to the growers.

HARTFORD, CONN.

Hallgren Bros. have just finished repotting more than 20,000 geraniums for the spring trade, which is increasing year by year.

Bulbous stock coming from the Cedar Hill Greenhouses is fine. Von Sion, Golden Spur and other varieties of narcissi are of splendid quality. A. C. Linder reports that more than 75,000 bulbs have been planted this season. The demand is heavy.

All the Hartford stores observed Washington's birthday by closing at noon.

RESULTS.

We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

Too few florists pay enough attention to the looks of their stores. An occasional tidying up during the day would add much to the appearance.

THE so-called percentage plan of local cooperative advertising is now used by florists, in varying forms, in twenty-seven cities of the United States.

THE strong demand for flowers in the last three years has led many growers to place orders for additions to their glass area now that building prices are down.

IT is merely the part of prudence to stock up at once with coal sufficient to last to the end of the firing season. Well informed men predict a strike of miners April 1 and the railroads are known to be storing large quantities of fuel.

THE first thing anyone starting in the florists' business should do is to get a printed letterhead. Many of the firms most worth dealing with do not allow trade prices to those who do not show evidence that they buy to sell again.

DEMAND for flowers has grown rapidly in the last few years, while the output has not been increased. No let-up in the call for flowers is expected. It is up to the trade to meet the demand. If you are not adding any glass, plan this summer to put your range in the best possible condition for production.

A SUBSCRIBER advises The Review "to play havoc with unbusinesslike practices," such as failure to acknowledge orders, holding checks without notifying the senders and neglect of correspondence. Such practices in themselves will play havoc with those guilty of them, if continued. The Review wishes to avert the havoc by persuading the florists who court it to discontinue such unbusinesslike ways.

IF you have not the time to handle correspondence, find a high school girl who will devote a couple of hours each afternoon to writing letters and filing orders for you. But, above all, do something to run your business in a business way. The trade has less and less toleration for the man who neglects the elementary needs of his business, even though his time is worthily spent in the greenhouses, and his customers will drop away if he shows them no consideration.

ANY grower who has a surplus of geraniums above his own requirements can easily sell them by offering them in the classified columns.

FAMILIARITY, not only with the botanical names, but also with the care and culture of the stock carried in the flower store, is always of assistance to those who wait on customers.

Do not allow shelves or tables, especially within customers' view, to become catch-alls. Patrons are apt to judge your ability to arrange flowers by the way you arrange your store.

THE Illinois State Florists' Association will hold its annual meeting at the University of Illinois, Urbana, Tuesday, March 14. At 2 p. m. will be a business meeting, to be followed by an entertainment in the evening. On Wednesday morning an open forum will be held in the greenhouse.

BITUMINOUS coal production continues to climb upward, due to a complication of circumstances. In the first place, more and more steam coal buyers are beginning to recognize the effect which a prolonged strike may have upon their storage stocks and since they are convinced that prices are as low as they will be pending a readjustment of union miners' wages, there is a better buying by this class of trade—a buying for storage rather than for consumption. Public utility plants, as well as the railroads, are beginning to store coal against the expected shutdown of union operations April 1. The result has been a somewhat better tone in the screenings markets, since domestic demand is not sufficient to make slack adequate to meet the inquiries.

DON'T WHISPER NOW!

"Don't Whisper Now!" advises the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. on a recent price list, paraphrasing a verse from Printers' Ink in the following form:

The man who whispers down the well
About the posies he has to sell
Shall never reap the shining dollars
Like the florist who "Says It with Flowers" hollers.

DUSTING OFF THE OLD ONES.

Four weeks ago a prominent man in the trade, who wished his name withheld, forwarded to The Review a copy of an article entitled, "Are Our Fruit and Grain Exports in Danger?" and signed with the name, John Kingdon Smith. Since the article contained statements of such weight as to demand assumption of responsibility, The Review endeavored to ascertain the identity of John Kingdon Smith before publishing the article. Its efforts—and those of others interested—have been fruitless. No one knows who is John Kingdon Smith, nor will he—if he exists—reveal himself.

But the statements made in the article, which apparently had circulation in mimeograph form, have aroused Dr. C. L. Marlatt, who has issued, over his signature as chairman of the Federal Horticultural Board, a lengthy defense, headed, "A Quarantine Bugaboo Laid to Rest." Dr. Marlatt calls the article "a phase of the now waning propaganda against quarantine 37" and terms Mr. Smith's fear "that Europe will retaliate and cut off our grain and meat exports unless we open the door again to the practically unlimited entry of European plants," a contention supported by statements "either diametrically wrong or at least distinct misrepresentations." Dr. Marlatt gives instances in proof of this, but spends the greater part of his lengthy reply in a recapitulation of the arguments he has before advanced in defense of the quarantine. In fact, he closes with the remark that "this propaganda of Mr. John Kingdon Smith is of the same order as that dealt with in a statement issued by this board February 15, 1921"—a year ago. So Dr. Marlatt encloses a copy of the year-old arguments with his reply to Mr. Smith. Before long Dr. Marlatt will cease to write replies to critics of quarantine 37; instead he will cite chapter and verse in his previous writings on "Why Quarantine 37 Is a Good Quarantine." There appears no hope that Dr. Marlatt will alter his original views—not a favorable omen as regards the conference to be held April 19.

PLEASURES OF PUBLISHING.

The publishing business affords its fair share of vexations, but there are compensating features. Letters like this one:

I sent you my check for $2 to renew my subscription, but evidently it went astray, because the paper was stopped. There hasn't been a bright day since.—J. K. Postma, Proprietor Anderson Floral Co., Anderson, S. C., February 14, 1922.

Of course any business man would take pleasure in making the sun shine again for a customer, especially when he had the incentive of permanence, like this:

I enclose my check for $4, for which please extend my subscription two years in advance. I have been with you from the first issue and The Review sure has grown into a wonderful journal.—Alfred E. Lee, Bedford, O., February 14, 1922.

The Review recently reminded some of its last year's advertisers that it had not heard from them this year. Some of the responses were interesting. Like this:

We have not overlooked sending you our ads. The reason is that our ads in The Review previous to 1922 are still selling our stock and we do not find it necessary to advertise to sell at present. When it becomes necessary, we surely will advertise in The Review, as there is no paper like it.—J. A. Swartley & Sons, Sterling, Ill., February 14, 1922.

East and west it's the same, because it is where a paper is read, and not where it is printed, that counts. Like this:

Kindly discontinue our advertisement of carnation cuttings, as we have sold all we had to offer, thanks to The Review.—W. J. Evenden's Sons, Williamsport, Pa., February 11, 1922.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising, you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

DOES A READER KNOW?

Do you know of any firms that manufacture a hotbed heater which burns coal, coke or oil and does satisfactory service for growing early vegetable plants in place of manure? It is almost impossible to obtain manure here. I have fifteen standard hotbed sashes which I wish to heat. E. F. K.—Ia.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

E. & E. A., Ia.—Begonia Gloire de Lorraine.

Q. H. G., O.—Spotted plant is Begonia albo-picta; small green one, B. foliosa; other variety so discolored it could not be identified.

J. G., Mo.—Coleus frozen and unrecognizable.

Mary Reinberg Zender.

Mary Reinberg Zender, related to many florists in the great growers' section north of Chicago, died February 24. She was the wife of the late Lawrence Zender and the mother of Henry A. Zender and Mrs. Ada Terwilliger. She was the sister of Mrs. Margaret Weiland, Mrs. Catherine Smith, Mrs. Anna Hoffman, Mrs. Helen Zender, George Reinberg and the late Peter Reinberg. The funeral was held from the late residence, 1615 Thorndale avenue, Tuesday, February 28, to St. Gregory's church, where high mass was celebrated at 10 a. m. Interment was at St. Henry's cemetery.

Luke Collins.

After a brief illness with pneumonia, Luke Collins, proprietor of the Parkside Greenhouses, Chicago, passed away last week. Interment was at Rosehill cemetery, February 23. He was 70 years of age and is survived by Mrs. Collins and two sons, who will carry on the business.

Coming to America from England fifty years ago, Mr. Collins worked at the trade at various places throughout the United States, finally becoming foreman for Wieter Bros., Chicago. In the course of time he accumulated enough capital to acquire the Parkside Greenhouses, 1457 East Seventieth street, Chicago, where he did both wholesale plant and retail cut flower business. George Collins, a brother, is superintendent for the Henry Smith Floral Co., at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Charles H. Hoffmeyer.

Wednesday, February 22, death claimed Charles H. Hoffmeyer, of Carnegie, Pa., at his late residence, on the Chestnut street extension. The deceased was 68 years of age.

Mr. Hoffmeyer was a gardener of the old school. Thirty-five years ago he was associated with Lincoln & Neff, of Spring Hill, but a number of years after its formation this firm dissolved partnership and Mr. Hoffmeyer purchased the present place at Carnegie, where he had resided for more than thirty years. After going to Carnegie years ago, the deceased took up the growing of cut flowers. For the last few years, however, he had not been exceedingly active and at the time of his death was trying to dispose of his place.

Two adopted children and his wife survive. Funeral services were held at the home February 25 and interment was in Smithfield cemetery. There were many floral tokens of esteem.

Walter S. Brown.

Walter Smith Brown, a retail florist and grower for many years in the annexed district of Providence, R. I., died at his home, 24 Jewitt street, that city February 18, in his sixty-seventh year. He was born January 17, 1856, at the old Brown farm on the Rocky Hill road. At the age of 15 he went west and worked on farms in New York and Michigan and later went to sea. After several years spent in a seafaring life, he returned to Rhode Island and settled in Johnston. Here he became interested in growing produce and flowers and conducted a large milk business. During later years he devoted most of his time to the cultivation of potted stock for the Providence market. He is survived by his widow, four daughters, one brother and one sister. W. H. M.

Joseph Wood.

Joseph Wood, of Spring Valley, N. Y., died at his home in that city February 20. The deceased was 64 years of age. He had been in the florists' trade at Spring Valley for more than thirty years. He had always had a large trade in funeral work, as well as in the line of vegetables and flowering plants. Mr. Wood was a noted asparagus grower. His wife and one daughter survive him.

Sorem M. Mikkelsen.

After a prolonged illness, which caused him to retire from active business some time ago, Sorem M. Mikkelsen, a well known gardener of Newport, R. I., died February 13, at his home on Burdick avenue. He was 59 years old and was born in Denmark, but came to this country and was a gardener on several of the large estates. After gaining several years of experience in this way, he engaged in and conducted a landscape gardening business for himself, but gradually developed a lucrative business in concrete work. Two years ago he visited his old home in Denmark and returned the following year. He is survived by his widow and four children. W. H. M.

Thomas O'Donnell.

Thomas O'Donnell, who as a young man was gardener on the estate of the late John B. Herreshoff, the famous yacht builder, at Bristol, R. I., died at his home in that town February 4, after a three weeks' illness from influenza, which developed into pneumonia. He was born in Ireland eighty-nine years ago and had been in America eighty-two years. W. H. M.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

With a greatly increased supply of cut flowers, there has been a material slump in prices of everything. Toward the close of January it was expected that there would be conditions approaching a glut, especially as carnations, in light crop all along, showed signs of heavy cropping. The break came last week. Heavy arrivals resulted in the dropping of carnation prices to a range of $2 to $3 per hundred, and this range has continued over to this week, with little prospect of an immediate change. All other commodities suffered as well, an avalanche of bulbous flowers helping in the downward movement.

Monday, February 27, conditions are unchanged. Roses are in heavy supply, except in top grades. American Beauty, through a small supply, maintains last week's quotations. Hybrid teas have declined to a range of $2.50 to $25 per hundred, beginning with the No. 2 grade, and to effect clearances lower prices are offered; even then quantities of stock are carried over in the iceboxes.

Buyers seem to make their own market for carnations, immense quantities clearing at figures less than $3 per hundred.

Cattleyas meet the same depression of prices, sales being light at $15 to $75 per hundred, the latter price for selected flowers. Oncidiums, not in large supply, bring about $6 per hundred florets for the best grade. Gardenias are not at all plentiful, nor are they generally good, but they move fairly well.

White lilies are plentiful and move slowly. Valley is in liberal supply, with sales not at all active.

There is an abundance of sweet peas, and the sales range is down to $1 to $2 per hundred, the higher price covering excellent sprays of exhibition quality. It is a long time since sales values of sweet peas were so low.

The supply of tulips and narcissi is enormous, but clearances are easier to make than in some of the more staple lines.

There is a quantity of miscellaneous flowers, which do not seem to interest buyers quite so much as they have done of late. Primroses, pansies, stocks, delphiniums, myosotis, calendulas, freesias, dahlias, Spanish iris, buddleia, snapdragons, callas and wallflowers make up the list.

Various Notes.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed last week against Sam Seligman. The liabilities are said to be about $16,000, and assets about $4,000. A receiver was appointed next day.

William R. Nicholson, Framingham, Mass., was a visitor February 25.

Washington's birthday business among florists was of the invisible order.

Those who intend to visit the national flower show, to open in Indianapolis March 25, should get in touch with Paul Rigo, of the Henshaw Floral Co., chairman of the New York Florists' Club transportation committee, who will endeavor to form a party. Full information appears on page 68 of this issue.

Kuhne Bros., of Hicksville, L. I., are building a greenhouse 300 feet long, which they will use for sweet peas.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The week has been one of low prices and large turnovers. In the middle of last week the market was generally described as dull, but Friday brought a large increase in business, which continued through Saturday. For several weeks it has been a matter for comment that shipping trade has been decidedly better than local business, but February 25 the local demand came to life. Saturday afternoon the stores that are open Sunday took large quantities of stock off the market.

There has been little change in the matter of supply of stock. There has been no time that the market was not heavily loaded, but there now is considerable variation in the quality of the stock. The wide fluctuations in temperature during the last few days have had a marked effect on the stock some growers are sending to market. For a time everybody's stock was good; now some of it is decidedly poor and the wholesaler must watch his step in filling orders. By the same token, local buyers do watch their steps, and they sidestep the low-grade stuff, which must be sold at extremely low prices if it is to escape the waste barrel.

There is nothing approaching a shortage of roses, but the supply has decreased to some extent. Probably this is due to pinching in preparation for an Easter crop, and it is not likely that there will be heavy overproduction during Lent. So large a part of the present demand is for funeral flowers that white roses are relatively scarce. Pink, of course, is most abundant. There is no trouble in supplying shorts, especially if the buyer is not too critical of the quality.

In comparison with other supplies, carnations are more abundant than anything else on the market. Also, weather conditions do not seem to have affected them to the extent that some other flowers have been affected and good carnations may be had in large lots at low prices. Laddie is the most popular variety, but is in comparatively limited supply. Next in favor is Mrs. Ward, and after that good whites are in request. Enchantress is slow to move.

Sweet peas are more abundant than ever, but the quality has deteriorated. Violets are not so plentiful as they were, but the price has fallen.

There is plenty of bulbous stock, especially jonquils and early tulips. The prices being received are a disappoint-

Gentlemen:

Nashville, Tenn.

Attention Mr. Eric Johnson:

I was at our Chattanooga store Tuesday when your shipment of Monday arrived. I don't think I ever saw a nicer lot of Flowers. We used them Wednesday, and, if I remember correctly, we lost only one Tulip, which was snattered in wiring. Such service is appreciated.

Very truly yours,

West Side Show.

The strength of the flower display as a drawing card at the Uptown Chicago Exposition last fall so powerfully impressed business men from other parts of the city who were visitors, that now the west siders wish to stage a similar exhibition. The business organizations of the upper west side are planning to hold an exhibition at the Second Regiment Armory, Madison street and Washenaw avenue, the week beginning March 27. In laying their plans for the show the business men first called into conference the leading florists of the district and sought to secure the support of the Commercial Flower Growers of Chicago. The latter organization appointed Paul Weiss to confer with the west siders. Recognizing his ability and popularity in the trade, the west side business men appointed Mr. Weiss manager of the flower display in connection with their exhibition.

Mr. Weiss is formulating plans for a display of flowers which will not only be an attraction to the public and an advertisement for the trade, but he expects to get the support of the west side business men in features which will create a call upon the market for a large quantity of cut flowers. After witnessing the remarkable sights at the north side show last fall, a number of growers have signified that they are ready to back Mr. Weiss in staging a similar display of flowers at the Second Regiment Armory.

The Days They Celebrate.

Miss Virginia Poehlmann celebrated an anniversary February 26. Hers is the best age of all. She was 22.

C. L. Washburn passed his sixty-fourth milestone February 27. They had a party for him at Pasadena.

A. C. Kohlbrand was 54 February 28. He had the usual box of cigars for his friends.

"A. B. C." Miller will be 35 years old March 4. This is a young man's era.

Leonard Vaughan will be 42 March 8.

John C. Enders will be 56 years young March 8.

Various Notes.

H. B. Kennicott believes that in two or three years the plumosus industry in Florida will be found to have been greatly overdone and that the price will be unprofitably low. Growers there are planting all the Asparagus plumosus seeds they can get hold of, but it takes a year before there is anything to pick, and nearly two years before there is a full crop.

The death of Mary Reinberg Zender is recorded in this week's obituary column.

George Goebel, for some time with A. T. Pyfer & Co., will join the forces of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association next week.

J. C. Nielsen now calls on his customers in a new Dodge coupe.

The latest addition to the staff of Poehlmann Bros. Co. is Captain O. C. Johns, who will travel for the supply department in Ohio and eastern territory. Captain Johns entered the aviation service in 1917 and since his discharge has been engaged in commercial flying. His alliance with Poehlmann brings him again into association with an old friend, because both he and Manager M. N. Tyler formerly were with the Botzum Bros. Co., of Cleveland.

Arthur M. Anderson returned from Europe February 27.

Miss Nettie Parker had so far recovered from the injuries sustained in the recent taxicab accident that she was able to leave the West Side hospital February 27.

Adolph Poehlmann is again giving practically his whole time to supervision of the rose growing operations at Plant B of Poehlmann Bros. Co., at Morton Grove, and the stock is showing the results of his skill. The company has decided to drop Ophelia after this season, Butterfly being grown in its place.

The sickness of W. J. Smyth has confined him indoors recently and August Poehlmann has been at home threatened with pneumonia. For that reason these pillars of the board of directors of the Allied Florists' Association were absent from the annual meeting of the organization February 27, reported on another page of this issue.

N. J. Wietor has widely distributed, this season, the stock of his new carnation, White Supreme. It is a sport of Enchantress Supreme.

George Stollery is to be the speaker of the evening before Ravenswood Lodge Knights of Pythias March 6. His subject is to be the extent and importance of floriculture in the United States and particularly in Illinois.

Bassett & Washburn are planning to reduce the bench space of other roses

The Market.

With weather conditions going from one extreme to the other, the market finds itself overcrowded with stock. Last week the thermometer rose as high as 70 degrees and then dropped to about 10 degrees. The warm weather naturally brought in roses and carnations in large quantities, especially carnations. Some fine stock was received in this market, and was sold to the retailers at attractive prices. Roses, however, brought about the same prices as they did last week. Some fine orchids are also coming into this market, but the demand is limited. The demand for callas and Easter lilies continues, although the supply last week has been better than for some time. In fact, the wholesalers were able to take care of all orders. Plenty of bulbous stock is coming into the market daily, but it does not move out rapidly, tulips and daffodils being the main features. Some fine double tulips were in the features, and moved out readily. Reports from florists in Pittsburgh and the outlying districts indicate that their sales show just a small increase over that of last year. This naturally shows an increase in the volume of business, as prices are reduced from those of last year.

Various Notes.

The regular monthly meeting of the Pittsburgh Florists' Association will be held March 2, at the Hotel Chatham, at 6:30 p. m. Two speakers, well known to all the florists in this vicinity, are on the program. W. T. Usinger will speak on "Florists' Shops in France and Germany," and De Forest Ludwig will speak on telegraph business. Let us all put some energy behind this association by being present at the meeting. The committee on charter will no doubt have a pleasing report at this time.

The Queen Flower Shop, formerly located on Smithfield street, has moved to a prominent downtown store, in the best business section of Fifth avenue.

H. D. Fish, professor of zoölogy at the University of Pittsburgh, will give an illustrated lecture on "Mendel's Laws of Heredity," as well as an exhibit of hybrid freesias from Richards Baggs, of Hartford, N. J., at the next meeting of the Pittsburgh Florists' and Gardeners' Club, to be held March 7, at Carnegie hall.

Zanarine Bros., of Jeannette, Pa., will open their new store in Jeannette March 2. They have the best wishes of all of the trade. These boys have had a few houses which they originally devoted to the growing of lettuce, but it is understood that they will discontinue the growing of lettuce and go into the growing of cut flowers. PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

Last week was a hard week. The balmy weather brought in heavy crops of flowers on a falling market. Prices declined sharply, even with much trading, and average returns were greatly lowered. It was unfortunate that on the day when it first became really warm business should have been light. That made matters worse and the scramble to unload stock became almost a panic. The height of the carnation season has been later than usual. It has now just passed. The stock is generally good. Stems have been longer. Sweet peas have been coming in and going out rapidly. It is not easy to estimate how the supply compared with last season's, but it is certainly much larger than it was a few years ago, and there is no doubt as to their wonderfully fine quality. They are popular. Violets have come better with warmer weather. There are more of them and they are wanted. The fancy singles are first choice; then the doubles; Luxonne is last.

There is a wide range of variety in daffodils. King Alfred and Sassenheim lead; then come Victoria Bicolor, Emperor and Golden Spur. Von Sion brings up the rear. Calla lilies are extremely plentiful and generally find a market when pushed. There is a little fine snapdragon and some medium-grade stock that is attractive—good flowers on short stems. Valley is not in demand. Beauties are scarce and orchids are coming in less freely. Columbia is has increased, and the prospects are for an ample supply for some time to come.

Premier	Columbia
Ophelia	Butterfly
Hadley	McDonald
Double White Killarney
Cecile Brunner

They are the varieties that are plentiful now. Our Roses are carefully graded, and you will find this is a good place to buy.

If you want a Red Rose, there is nothing really better than Hadley.

Beauties are more plentiful, and they are better now than they have been any time since Christmas.

Orchids, Gardenias and Valley are three items we always carry in stock in large quantity.

the rose of the day. Many buyers prefer Premier to Russell at this season. The rose crop generally is coming in much stronger. Then, with Lent almost here, indications point to a further decline. Not that Lent matters so much, but it marks the period when entertaining decreases and the spring crops cause an increase in flowers.

Easter Plants.

It was a soft, spring-like morning. The birds were singing and the crocuses were up. They will certainly regret it. It is much too early. Everything in the air suggested spring. It seemed an especially appropriate morning for seeing Easter plants.

affairs of state. Then comes a treat, a trip through the greenhouses with Mr. Craig. The lilies—all L. giganteum—are making vigorous growth. There are over 20,000 and they make a fine appearance. While a lily cannot be judged until the buds are developed, indications point to their being fine and well.

The roses, Excelsa, Tausendschoen, Rosiere and Lady Gay, are a beautiful sight. The shoots, about an inch long, are strong and evenly developed. They have been pruned and tied with exceptional care into the desired shape. There are aeroplanes and baskets and globes and standards and bushes all trained to their wires with such nicety as to insure an evenly flowered plant, without which no fancy shape is tolerable.

Then there are Paul's Scarlet Climber and Baby Ramblers and Phyllis, reminders of home, and Magna Charta and Dunlop and several more, all full of promise.

The hydrangeas include five French varieties, Madame Chautard, Baby Bimbenet, Lilie Mouillere, General De Vibraye, the reigning Trophee and good old otaksa. Indications are that their wealth of buds will get there in time without hurrying.

Azaleas are represented by a whole house of that glowing little Jap. Hino-digiri. Genistas have the place of honor in the new house just finished, while daisies, Chrysanthemum frutescens and Boston Yellow, now boarding out, are reported well.

Erica translucens is coming more and more into favor. Decorators who formerly used kentias only are now using ericas, using them freely and coming back for more. The sowing of ericas seed has been increased greatly. Dracenas are particularly good. Their colors are charming. A large stock of ferns, Scottii, Teddy, Jr., Roosevelt and Dwarf Boston, is coming into form in the medium sizes. Pandanus Veitchii is sturdy and beautifully colored. Crotons are rich in their rainbow effects.

The Easter novelty is the Otaheite orange in bloom. There is a house of these exquisite little plants. These are made deliciously fragrant by the bloom on an advance plant.

Mr. Craig says it will be a great Easter.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

A mild change in temperature last week resulted in a marked increase in the supply of cut flowers of practically all kinds. The demand also was not up to its usual mark. As far as social functions are concerned, there were but few during the entire week. Several good weddings were reported and the demand for funeral work was large. White flowers are especially plentiful, and these do not appear to be selling so readily as might be expected. George Washington's birthday created only a small stir. Prices are on the downward trend. Tulips, narcissi, jonquils and Roman hyacinths are plentiful and the quality is good. Freesias are making a good showing again now and the market for them is good. Sweet peas are in good supply and include some extra choice stock. These range in price from $1 to $4 per hundred. The medium and longer grades are in the best demand. Carnations are plentiful. Extra large Laddies are seen and a good price is obtained for them. Violets are plentiful and sell fairly well. They are retaining their color and fragrance in good shape. Calendulas are move well. Snapdragon is seen, but the cut at present is light. Valley and orchids moved slowly last week. The supply of roses is becoming larger each day and the varieties are good. White Killarney is especially good just now, and appears to be plentiful. Columbia, Premier, Hadley, Ophelia, Ward and Butterfly are especially good. Cecile Brunner is in fair crop and sells well. Potted bulbous stock is plentiful and all the stores are loaded up with it.

Various Notes.

Charles Suhr is bringing to the market some of the largest and best potted jonquils seen this year. His bulbous stock has come along exceptionally well this season, and the demand for it has been good. His Easter stock is looking well and promises well for that event.

Visitors to the florists' trade last week included Theodore T. Fryer, of the Taiyo Co., New York; Thomas J. Sullivan, of Lyndonville, N. Y.; William E. Day, of Syracuse, N. Y., and E. Kendig, of Oswego, N. Y.

There is considerable sickness in the city at this time, the majority of cases being influenza and severe colds. Several of the florists have been confined to their homes, among them being Mr. and Mrs. A. Clifford and children, Mrs. Foster De Klyne and Miss Lillian Wheeler.

Jay Sullivan, who for the past nine years has been connected with the Rochester department of parks, left the employ of the city last week and will go into business for himself. Last fall he erected a small greenhouse, in which he hopes to grow bedding and nursery stock. His experience with the park system has been varied, indeed, and should be of considerable benefit to him.

J. H. Gould, of Middleport, N. Y., has a fine crop of Double White Killarney and Columbia roses, which he is bringing to the city.

Single violets are seldom seen here,

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

The market suffered considerably last week and weather conditions were unusually bad, especially at a time when there was so much stock on the market. The heavy rain the first part of the week was unfavorable for moving stock and, beginning Wednesday, no flowers or any perishable stock could be shipped north, on account of the heavy sleet storms throughout the entire northern part of the state. This cut off all shipping business for four days and the lines were not opened at this writing, February 25. Telegrams were also twenty-four hours late, but no shipments could be made, even after receipt of the orders.

Conditions never were so bad in the history of the weather bureau. Such a heavy rainfall at this time of the year was never before experienced in this state. The rain was followed by freezing weather, which caused the destruction of thousands of telegraph poles, one of the principal causes of blocked train service.

On account of the shipping business being cut off, stock accumulated rapidly on the market, and there was a great deal more on the market than could be consumed. Stock had to be sold at a low price to move the quantity on hand.

Various Notes.

Considerable damage was done to the greenhouses and truck gardens located a few miles north of the city. The river, going through this section, over-ferred a loss of about $2,000, due to the flood. The river, because of the heavy rain and ice jam, went over the banks, so this establishment was about eighteen inches under water. The boiler pits were filled and the fires were put out. The water was over all the heating pipes and went above the solid benches. This completely ruined the whole crop of snapdragons, daisies and other spring flowers that were coming into bloom. The company also lost many plants that were in bloom. The thermometer was around the freezing point and a great number of oil lamps and charcoal stoves were used, which saved most of the bedding stock.

The William Eschrich place also suffered considerable damage, both in the greenhouses and nurseries. A great many of the young evergreen trees and many ornamental shrubs on the extensive grounds were partly under water. These were later frozen in the solid ice, with the result that the stock was broken up and badly damaged.

J. H. Dale and daughter, of Houghton, Mich., were in the city several days, being forced to stay here on account of there being no train service to the north.

SPECIAL SALES

Are Special Sales Desirable?

As spring comes on the perennial question arises, how to move the surplus that too frequently gluts the cut flower market at this season of the year. The problem was ably discussed at Columbus, O., recently when the growers met there, some notably keen minds participating.

J. F. Ammann brought out his belief with an illustration. "Last week my wife and I drove down to St. Louis to get her a coat. She needed one and our purpose was to purchase one. After she got the coat, I bought three shirts. I did not need them, had plenty of shirts at home, but it was a special sale. They were $1.50, were bargains and I bought them. Before I left town I bought a pair of shoes. I had shoes, but these were on sale and a bargain.

"If we think that we cannot become merchandisers of our goods the same as the shirt or the shoe merchant, we are badly mistaken. It is simply a case of merchandising. You have to advertise to sell your goods. When you advertise, you are not only telling the people, you are telling your competitors you are open and aboveboard and fair. You are not cutting prices behind the other fellow's back, but you are doing it in the open. You and he should cooperate. Advertise a sale of your surplus products at a little lower margin, but you do not need to sell them below the cost of production. You should put on special sales when stock is plentiful.

A Notable Instance.

"In St. Louis we have had some great successes. One of the finest retail houses put on a special sale of roses at 25 cents a dozen. They cleaned up the market and created a stable market for the grower within two days. Before that there was a glut of roses. Just after that sale was over, you could go right into that same store and you would pay $3 to $8 a dozen. That retailer sold them at a profit. Roses were selling on the market at $10 a thousand; they were simply a drug on the market.

"There was no such thing as having good quality stock going to waste. Good quality stock should not go to waste. Give the people the benefit of that. Move the stock and get something for the grower. The grower shipping to the wholesale market often sells below the cost of production. From July to December I cut from 25,000 rose plants and sold below the cost of production. I sold below the cost of production every month from July to November.

"I believe in special sales and I believe in special prices. It simply means that you are going to create a great many flower buyers who never bought flowers before."

Two and One-half Per Cent.

In speaking further on the subject, Carl Hagenburger said on the same occasion:

"We have come to the conclusion that we sell flowers to only about two and one-half per cent of the people. We must educate more people to buy flowers and to love flowers. That can only be done by putting them within the means of more people. The young man just married wants a bouquet of flowers for his table now and then. He is not able to pay as much as he will be ten or fifteen years hence, when he has a better job. But if we start him buying 50 cents to $1 worth, we will certainly educate that man to spend $5 or $10 when he can afford it. But you have to educate him while he can spend but little. I think it is wise policy, on the part of retailer, wholesaler and grower, to dispose of surpluses at a low price—which the grower, in fact, must do. The grower has to sell at a low price; it is a matter of choice with the retailer—he can keep his price up and sell ten dozen or lower his price and sell fifty dozen."

NEW YORK TO KANSAS CITY.

The itinerary submitted by the Lackawanna railroad for the party from New York city to the S. A. F. convention, at Kansas City next August, has been adopted by the transportation committee of the New York Florists' Club.

The party—which is fully hoped to be 100 strong—will leave New York Sunday, August 13, for Chicago, where a stopover will be made to take in the famous Lake Shore Drive and other principal points of interest, returning to the Hotel La Salle for dinner. Departure will be made from Chicago that evening and Kansas City reached on the morning of Tuesday, August 15. While in Kansas City during the S. A. F. convention, August 15 to 18, hotel accommodation and three meals a day will be provided. On the afternoon of August 18 the party will leave Kansas City, arriving in St. Paul Saturday morning, where points of interest in the Twin Cities will be viewed, leaving St. Paul in the afternoon and arriving at Duluth in the evening.

The Great Lakes steamer trip will commence Saturday night and continue through to Wednesday morning. This sail through the lakes provides the most enjoyable feature of the trip and, undoubtedly, will prove the greatest incentive to many. Arriving at Buffalo Wednesday, August 23, special cars will be waiting to take the party to Niagara Falls, where lunch will be provided at the Hotel Imperial. A tour over the Great Gorge route will be made in the afternoon, returning to hotel for dinner. At 7 p. m. the party will start for home, arriving in New York Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. Breakfast will be provided for in the Hoboken Terminal.

The cost, covering all transportation, lower berths on Pullmans and outside staterooms on boat, also three meals per day, will be $220.

All those intending to go should notify Paul Rigo, in care of the Henshaw Floral Co., 35 West Eighteenth street, New York. The earlier the reservation, the choicer the accommodation.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

"He has my sympathy," observed Smith T. Bradley, New Haven, Conn., referring to the editorial in The Review regarding the grower with benches of stock for sale, but no purchasers. "The great trouble," continued Mr. Bradley, "lies in the fact that, owing to the almost prohibitive express charges, one cannot purchase from a distance and come out even. This is a most important matter for the national society to handle. As it is, the shipping of rooted cuttings by parcel post is a success, judging from our experience." A satisfactory season is the report from the Bradley establishment.

"If everyone says so, it must be so; locally, anyhow," commented Charles Munro, of the Munro Flower Shop, New Haven, Conn., referring to the excellent business recorded by his competitors. "We are making good use of the big supply from our Westerly range. The quality is fine."

John Champion, New Haven, Conn., was just getting over an attack of influenza, yet he was optimistic. "Why not?" said he. "Are we not in better shape than any other business we can think of?"

Stephen Moore, New Haven, Conn., lays the excellent condition of trade to the big variety of stock in the market. The greater the choice the more attractive it appears to the public, with a greater range of price.

Joseph J. Sokol, located at one of the largest cemeteries in New Haven, is sharing in the prosperity of his downtown confreres, minus store expense.

William Patterson, West Haven, Conn., has an experience similar to many who conduct business at the greenhouse; namely, larger sales of blooming plants than of cut flowers, owing usually to the more attractive appearance amid natural surroundings.

The eve of Washington's birthday anniversary found Otto Ernst, of Geduldig's Greenhouses, Norwich, Conn., and his good wife congratulating themselves, following the completion of 100 floral pieces for three large funerals, in which in one instance only there were no duplicates or formal designs. Many handsome sprays and floral baskets were noted, made possible by the great variety of stock now in bloom. A good general season's run of business is recorded.

"That's good business," observed Henry D. Crosby, of Franklin & Crosby, Inc., Danielson, Conn., referring to the receipt of a remittance from an F. T. D. member. "If all were as prompt, or even a majority, it would be a pleasure to fill orders. Why do some hold us up for six months or more and then pay only when threatened with a report to headquarters? Various reasons can be given, but none is really business-like. Our latest experience was the receipt of a wire for a $5 box of candy and a $5 box of flowers. We purchased the candy, made a special out-of-town delivery with both and waited sixty days or longer for our money. So it goes. We are quite willing to give up one per cent as our share to the suggested clearing house proposition. As the situation now stands, we are using one another's money and the smallest member is the heaviest sufferer. It does not seem fair to hold up payment, even if we thought that possibly a contra-account on return business might happen along."

The Fisher Flower Shop, New London, Conn., has a fine display in spring flowers. "Everything lovely," commented Mr. Fisher.

Smith the Florist, Providence, R. I., will occupy a store in the new $1,000,000 Providence-Biltmore hotel to be opened June 1, in every respect up to the minute.

Willis S. Pino, Providence, R. I., says the plant sales have exceeded all expectations and will be made a permanent adjunct to the seed business.

C. S. Andrew, Putnam, Conn., is a

Samuel B. Morse was born in Charleston, Mass. He was a portrait painter of considerable note. In 1832 he invented the telegraph.

Even If We Can't Pay Our Debts To Morse We Can At Least Acknowledge Them

Isn't it so, that the good things we have, we soon forget how we came to have them? Take the F. T. D. or example, if it hadn't been for Samuel B. Morse, who perfected the telegraph and worked out the Morse alphabet, who knows whether or not there would be any F. T. D. today? It was on March 3rd, 1843, when Congress appropriated $30,000 to build Morse an experimental telegraph line between Washington and Baltimore! That was over three quarters of a century ago.

Looks like a mighty interesting window could be made for March, by using Morse's picture or a telegraph instrument; or a group of telegrams mounted on a board and a bit of wording explaining how Morse's mystic click clicks can now deliver flowers practically anywhere on earth.

Say what you will, the public as yet doesn't begin to understand how the F. T. D. works. We florists have a lot of explaining, and then a lot of explaining, and after that a lot more of explaining, before the idea will go over in the big way its bigness merits. Say F. T. D. to most folks and they think it means some college fraternity or just one more secret society. Darn it, if they don't.

Don't forget that March 17th is St. Patrick's Day in the morning running mate to his neighbor, A. A. Young, of Jewett City, Conn., in the quality and cut of Carnation White Enchantress.

S. F. Stephens & Son, Columbus, O., were up to their eyes in orders for St. Valentine's day. Walter Stephens observed that "it was his ambition to leave half a million feet of glass as a memorial." In the meantime ambition is being rewarded by steadily increasing business.

"St. Valentine's day business compares with the business of the Easter of a few years ago," observed William Underwood, of Underwood Bros., Columbus, O., "but, believe me, the Dutch stock hits carnations and roses hard."

The Franklin Park Floral Co., Columbus, O., did a record-breaking business on St. Valentine's day. A large funeral order was made up during this time, which called for some distinctive pieces.

J. R. Hellenthal, Columbus, O., observed that it was true that one local grower had disposed of 10,000 cyclamen plants in 4-inch and 5-inch pots. The retail trade of this firm has been fully up to par.

tunity to rebuild will be taken advantage of. A show and service house is planned.

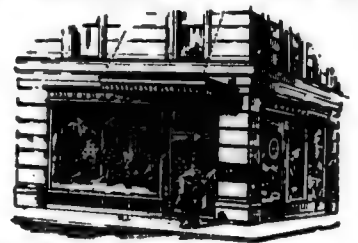

Charles Petersen, of East Liverpool, O., has leased the greenhouses to Oscar Maas, with Thomas Bolton as grower. The store is retained, however, with its excellent location and attractive appearance. It is the intention of its owner to direct his attention to this end of the business.

T. M. Fitzgerald, Beaver, Pa., is so well pleased with the outlook that he is planning to build an additional range of glass above the fog zone. Stock is in fine appearance, considering the long period of dull weather.

Anton Krut, Butler, Pa., is one of the fortunate members of the trade who have a fine lot of geraniums, with S. A. Nutt in the lead.

"Peculiar conditions, more and more exacting, enter into our business," commented George H. Mellen, of the George H. Mellen Co., Springfield, O., referring to the mailing problems set up by the various states. "Catalogues are out and the returns are highly encouraging."

"The cutest little get-ups imaginable," exclaimed an enthusiastic patron at the establishment of W. W. Horlacher, Dayton, O. The remark referred to plant combinations in various kinds of baskets. There was nothing expensive, but the arrangement was fine and the sales topped any previous record. "I like to make up funeral sprays with spring flowers," commented Mr. Hor-

Flower Thoughts

Let us learn this lesson from the flowers—co-operation. If we try to keep happiness to ourselves, it will escape us. Happiness is only happiness when shared, for happiness depends upon others for its existence.

We wish you happiness, brother florists, and we hold out to you the strong hand of friendship and co-operation. Together let us make this year that finest flower year that the world has ever known.

lacher, "they are suggestive; our customers never tire of the way we make up our pieces."

John Boehner, Dayton, O., is possibly the first in the trade to paint the steam pipes with aluminum paint. He claims that this paint costs no more than others and does not turn yellow; besides, he says, it lasts longer than the ordinary paint. It certainly makes a fine job and our confrere is proud of his place. His stock is in keeping with this pride and business is reported fine.

The Heiss Floral Co., Dayton, O., basing the future on the present and past, are in the front rank of optimists. Much is credited to their system of publicity and quality of stock handled. W. M.

the place, produced a lemon crop on a 3-foot tree in a large pot. Three lemons there were—Ponderosa lemons—two of which are from a second crop and weigh in the neighborhood of one and one-half pounds each. The third lemon, which has now been utilized in the making of three lemon pies and some lemonade, was fifteen and one-half inches in circumference and weighed two pounds.

STANDARDIZED PLANT NAMES.

So that members of the trade may take advantage of the special pre-publication price on the Official Catalogue of Standardized Plant Names, the date by which remittances must be made has been extended to March 31 by the American joint committee on horticultural nomenclature. The price on orders sent in before that date is $3.50 per copy, or $3.75 to persons abroad, in Canada or west of the Mississippi river. After March 31, the price will be $5 per copy. The pre-publication price is primarily intended to give opportunity to members of organizations supporting the publication of the catalogue to buy at an especially favorable rate.

tee has done in bringing together a catalogue of plant names which will be accepted as the standard authority in all business in and literature about plants in this country. The volume will not present a new system of nomenclature, but aims to present a "sane and workable harmony of the present confusion." The committee has been working on the catalogue for five years, and the sub-committee which has been in charge of the compilation of the volume, composed of Harlan P. Kelsey, Frederick V. Coville and Frederick Law Olmsted, has put in many solid months of labor. The leading authorities of the United States have been consulted, including Dr. Bailey, editor of the Standard Encyclopedia of Horticulture, and the committee has had the help and office facilities of the bureau of plant industry in the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

It is anticipated that this volume will be a necessity to every person doing business in horticultural communities in the United States and to all other persons who wish to be accurate in their use of plant names. In order that the price of the volume may not be beyond the reach of any such persons, the catalogue is being published at cost. After publication the price will be $5 a copy. Those who wish to take advantage of the special pre-publication price of $3.50

The Market.

The supply on the wholesale cut flower market last week was excellent. The demand was fine, also, from both local and shipping trade, but was unable to consume the increased consignments, and prices suffered. This was especially true of large lots, while with small lots of prime stock the prices kept within quotations.

February 23 it was as warm as July, and the clear skies brought out the bulbous stock in fine order. The next day a cold northerner struck us and the temperature was below freezing.

Roses meet all demands. Premier,
Butterfly and White Killarney surpass in demand other varieties. Carnations are just coming into a big crop and the supply is unlimited. Excellent stock could be had last week for $2 to $3 per hundred, while splits were down to $1 per hundred. Sweet peas also were too much for the demand and only fancy Spencers held up in price. The same can be said of violets, of which there was an actual glut.

There is a great deal of bulbous stock coming into bloom. Easter, which is late this year, will find the market clear of this stock. Valley, Easter lilies, callas and orchids held their own last week.
Then there were plenty of calendulas, daisies, mignonette, snapdragons, etc.,
to swell the market.

Greens are always in demand and the market is well supplied daily.

Various Notes.

The members of the Retail Florists'
Association, instead of holding a regular meeting, invited the members to a banquet Monday night, February 20, at the American hotel. There were forty present, along with many ladies. Several interesting speakers entertained during the evening.

The automobile show last week created a steady demand for flowers. Florists here all report a busy week in decorations, corsages and blooming plants.

The St. Louis Florists' Club will hold its monthly meeting March 9 in the salesroom of the St. Louis Wholesale Cut Flower Co. A feature of the meeting will be an exhibition of cut carnations and miscellaneous cut flowers. The officers are to meet in a few days at the home of President Rowe to arrange the program.

L. P. Jensen, arboriculturist at the Missouri Botanical Garden, will give an illustrated lecture March 7 before the Ladies' Club, at Collinsville, Ill. His subject will be "Floriculture."

The florists' dance, given by the bowling league at Westminster hall February 24, was a great success. Nearly 300 attended. The team to which each member belonged was designated by the wearing of the flower for which the particular team had been named. Over 5,000 sweet peas were distributed among the ladies in honor of the leading Sweet Pea team. It was fortunate, indeed, that the Orchids were not in the leading place.

H. G. Berning reports that on and after March 1 he will handle all consignments from the Pevely Crescent Farm, at Crescent, Mo., formerly owned and operated by the late J. T. Milliken. The range consists of 200,000 feet of glass. Roses only are grown.

The preliminary list of the spring flower show, given by the Garden Club of St. Louis, will soon be ready for distribution. The show will be held May 20 and 21 at the Missouri Botanical Garden and will be free to the public.

The St. Louis Flower Growers' Publicity Association will hold its annual meeting at the Hotel Claridge March 7 for the election of nine directors and to transact other business. All growers paying for publicity at any of the wholesale markets are members, as well as all wholesalers. The meeting will take place promptly at 1:30, in Parlor A.

Association will meet at the Claridge hotel. This meeting will be of great importance and all chairmen of committees are requested to attend.

The St. Louis Association of Gardeners will meet March 1 at the municipal greenhouses, in Forest park. An attractive program has been arranged. Both President Pring and Secretary Schaff expect a large attendance.

Secretary Joseph Deutschmann, of the St. Louis County Growers' Association, says that, owing to bad roads on the way to the Eleven Mile House, the association has held no meeting for the last three months. A meeting will be held soon, however.

R. E. Blackshaw, of the Ove Gnatt Co., La Porte, Ind., was at the Hotel Statler last week, where he displayed a splendid line of samples. Mr. Blackshaw has been ill with influenza, but he is now fully recovered.

In bowling, February 22, the fast-moving Rose team, under F. Plotz, won the odd game from the second-place Orchids, and the leading Sweet Pea team won the odd game from the Violets. The Daisies surprised A. Bourdet's Carnation team by winning two of the three games. This, of course, makes it more interesting for the five teams below the Sweet Peas, who now have a lead of ten games, as follows:

	Won	Lost
Sweet Peas	45	24
Orchids	35	34
Carnations	34	35
Roses	34	35
Violets	33	36
Daisies	26	43

John Steidle, of Clayton, Mo., has placed an order with the Lord & Burnham Co., through its Chicago office, for an iron-frame greenhouse, 30x120. A. Jablonsky, of Olivette, Mo., finds the demand for young stock so strong that he is building a propagating house 16x220, also of Lord & Burnham construction.

Club Meeting.

The Scranton Florists' Club met on the evening of St. Valentine's day in the Elks' dining room. Covers were laid for fifty on appropriately decorated tables. Grip materially affected the attendance, many of the florists or members of their families being afflicted. Mayor Durkan was to have been present, but, owing to the pressure of business, he sent an able representative in the person of Mr. Barrett, assistant city solicitor, who spoke with a great deal of interest and expressed his surprise at finding the Florists' Club such a large and active body.

the business with dispatch. Communications from S. S. Pennock, John Young, Carl Hagenburger and L. C. Vinson were read. Charles A. Goudy, of the H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia, was present and expressed his delight regarding the flower show we held last November. William Bonacuse, son of one of our members, a 6-year-old songster who has wonderful ability and who shows marks of being a great singer, entertained us with several selections.

Plans were further laid for the fall show, to be held in the armory November 7 to 10 inclusive. The matter of attending the national flower show was taken up and many expressed themselves as planning to take advantage of this rare opportunity. It was decided the secretary should write the Chicago Florists' Club and ask some member coming to the New York show in March to stop in Scranton March 14 and speak before our club, which meets that night.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacDonald are basking in the sunny southland, expecting to return before Easter.

Miss A. L. Besancon recently returned from a trip to Florida.

Mark Rook, representing M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, paid Scranton a flying visit, exhibiting a fine line of baskets and supplies.

T. J. Nolan, representing the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia., has been giving the Scranton florists an extensive display of baskets at the Hotel Casey.

B. E. & J. T. Cokely are making great plans for their spring trade in seeds and supplies. J. T. Cokely has been afflicted with a boll on his right cheek. He is getting back on the job. B. E. Cokely

C. L. Seybold, superintendent of the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., parks, was at the last Florists' Club meeting and offered some interesting suggestions. The genial Charles H. The Market.

There was plenty of all kinds of stock to be had last week. No scarcity of any particular line prevailed. Stock of the finest grades could be had in any quantity desired. One year ago stock of every sort was scarce and high in price.

A prominent wholesaler was asked if he could state the reason for this difference in the two seasons. His reply was: "General conditions." Asked what was meant by general conditions, he replied that the public was not buying flowers as freely as a year ago. Asked if there was any difference in pro-cut hyacinths and Paper Whites. In many cases they had been held too long in the hope of a better market, were soft and lasted no time. Much of this stock spoiled before it left the wholesale house.

Roses are in fine supply and better stock was never offered on this market. The same may be said of sweet peas, fine stems and splendid shades, Mrs. Harding, blue, being an especial favorite. Local violets are now arriving in fine supply. The weather has been most favorable and splendid stock is coming into the market. Carnations, too, can be classed as fancy stock, Enchantress Supreme and Laddie being the leaders. Bulbous stock is in splendid condition, aside from the complaint noted above. Miscellaneous stock of all sorts is plentiful and good.

Various Notes.

On Charles street last week one would think he had been suddenly transported to the tropics. The week opened with the coldest spell we have had this winter. By February 23 overcoats were a burden, doors had to be left open and everyone was suffering from the heat. As one walked down Charles street, at the corner of Pleasant street he was greeted by the window of Samuel Feast & Sons, arranged in its usual attractive manner, with nothing but spring flowers. The window of John Cook was also attractive and there is one thing about the business that Miss Cook takes more delight in than any other. This is the fact that the Cook window can always be made attractive, and in doing this she certainly succeeds. There is one noticeable feature about the Cook window which makes this window stand out with distinction; it never has a crowded appearance. Usually some novelty is to be found in this window. It may be a fine vase of some unnamed rose of the Cook production, some seedling that is fine in itself, but lacks some point that keeps it from being put among the commercial varieties. They have a number of these seedlings, of which they grow a quantity. They are known to the Cook clientele only and are much sought after for the reason that they are exclusive.

Some well selected decorations were seen in the windows of the R. J. Halliday store, where Miss Groves is present proprietor. Service has the first place in this store.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

The Market.

Stock was plentiful last week, and quality good. Roses were in good supply and were well sold at all times. Carnations were also in good supply and, towards the end of the week, were almost too plentiful. Reds found a ready sale at all times, but pinks and whites went slowly. Sweet peas were plentiful, and some went to waste. The price came down, but seemed to have no effect on their sale. Freesias were in good supply and went well. The same can be said of Paper Whites, although they were a little more abundant. The supply of other flowers was good and, on the whole, the week was successful.

Various Notes.

M. A. Reimers returned the latter part of last week from Lexington, Ky., where he attended an Alpha Tau Omega meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kleinstark, Jr., left for Indianapolis. They will motor through in their new car.

a little scarce, while prices have been coming down steadily. Business has been slow, most of it funeral work and a few weddings.

There is a great shortage of greens, especially adiantum and plumosus. There is not enough to take care of the demand.

Various Notes.

The T. J. Callahan Co., of Dayton, O., handling greenhouse and ventilating equipment, has opened an office at 2611 Prospect avenue. Frank C. Viereck has charge of the office. Mr. Viereck reports that the firm has closed a deal with the Berea Greenhouse Co., of Berea, O., for material and glass for seven houses, 30x440 each. This range will be devoted to vegetables. It is to be erected as soon as possible and will be steam heated.

George Taffel, of Schloss Bros., Inc., New York, was a recent visitor.

The Zanesville Pottery Co., of Zanesville, O., had a large display at the Statler hotel last week and will soon, in conjunction with several other potteries, have a permanent display here on Detroit avenue.

CLEVELAND CLUB DOINGS.

The success of the second get-together dance and supper, given by the club, was a sure omen that Cleveland florists are, now more than ever, a real live-wire body. Over 200 were present, and the large hall was beautifully decorated. Everyone present seemed to be a committee of one to see that all of those present enjoyed themselves.

The cooperative spirit was much in evidence in the great work of the ladies' committee. Miss Dunn, Mrs. Temblett, Mrs. Witthuhn, Mrs. Schott, Mrs. Barnow and several assistants put on a supper which was a winner. Miss Dunn alone got over twenty cakes, and some cakes they were. The main point of these meetings is, how can we lose out with such determined effort to win? The building fund will also get a real boost. The writer spent most of the evening listening to the many growers and florists present, who are determined to put on a flower show in the near future. Brother Temblett sold $55 worth of tickets in two hours among his business associates.

The general report on the flower show held at the State theater was that it was the greatest advertisement which Cleveland has had in a long time.

WORCESTER, MASS.

Last week was one of the busiest that florists have had this winter. Several of them were too busy to entertain. Funeral work was excessive, and a general rush was made for flowers and other decorations for social work.

A lecture on fruit growing was given at the hall of the Worcester County Horticultural Society by a well-known professor from Amherst Agricultural College. The lecture was well attended.

CLIFTONDALE, MASS.

William Sim says there are signs in this section which would point to the introduction of new varieties of carnations in the not distant future which will far outclass existing varieties in all points. The trade will watch with interest any applicants for the position of rival to Laddie. Among the conspicuous novelties in this part of the country, one of the most notable is Mr. Sim's variety, Gold Dust. The color is a bronzy amber on yellow, with a tracing of white on the edges and with faint markings of pink and white through the flower. Visitors at Mr. Sim's greenhouses all admire it. Mr. Sim believes the flower growing business, particularly in this section, is on a sound and strong basis. So heavy has been the demand for flowers that it seems likely that a large area of glass will be erected in New England this year. The union of the various branches of the trade in Boston and vicinity, to pull together for the benefit of the business at large, adds

CLARA BUTT TULIPS.

Kindly tell me the length of time necessary to flower Clara Butt tulips, and what temperature they require.
F. P. H.—Can.

Much, of course, depends upon the time when the tulips are housed. If they are housed at the end of February, four weeks should be ample time to flower them in an average night temperature of 45 to 50 degrees, while a month later a week less time is all that would be necessary. If a hot spell of weather came on, it would advance them considerably.
C. W.

ELIMINATING SNAILS.

I have planted some celery in my greenhouse. The snails are eating the stems. Please let me know what to do to get rid of them.
F. D. W.—Wash.

Sprinkling air-slaked lime or black soot around their haunts and about the plants is a sure preventive of attacks from snails. The lime will destroy all that it touches. As it is the habit of snails to do most of their work in the evening, at night or on dark days, select such times to sprinkle lime on the floors or benches. This is the simplest and most effective remedy. Give your house a dusting of lime before planting, and a large proportion of the snails will be destroyed.

They will not cross a line of cork dust, sawdust or bran. Lines of salt will not

AVOIDING NEMATODES.

I should like to know whether or not nematodes attack the roots of gladioli, Mexican everblooming tuberoses, violets, zinnias, chrysanthemums and dahlias. I have a light case of nematodes on my place and should like to plant something that is immune from their attacks. A. G.—Okla.

Nematodes attack a wide variety of plants, over 400 in number. Among flowering plants which are liable to be attacked by this worm are roses (under glass), tuberoses, sweet peas, hollyhocks, snapdragons, morning glories, petunias and peonies. It is worse in light soils. Under glass, steam sterilization of the soil will control it. The best

DOUBLE PRIMULA MALACOIDES.

Are there any seed houses that handle double Primula malacoides seed? We should like to procure some if possible. F. P. H.—Can.

I do not know of any firm offering double-flowering Primula malacoides from seed, but I have seen advertisements of double plants. C. W.

RED SPIDER ON LANTANAS.

What can be used to rid stock lantanas of red spider? I have lost over 8,000 cuttings, although I have used all kinds of nicotine solutions. These pests are devastating my plant beds. L. P. F.—Pa.

I should judge that you must have had your atmosphere much too arid to have allowed red spider to get such a terrible foothold on your lantanas. It is no easy matter to control it, but you must keep a more moist atmosphere around them, dampening all dry places below the benches. Red spider flourishes in a dry heat. A force of water well directed from a fine spray nozzle will help to dislodge the spider. Merely to dampen the leaves will not bother them a particle. I suggest that you spray the plants with a nicotine solution and add a little soft soap to make it more adhesive, giving not only one, but several applications. Keep the atmosphere from becoming arid, and you will gradually overcome the pest. The plants can be dipped in the nicotine and soap solution if preferred. C. W.

NO PINK CALLA.

What is the difference between a pink calla and Godfrey calla, in addition to the color? How should they (the pink) be handled for flowers and to increase the stock? L. F.—N. J.

I am not acquainted with a pink calla. Calla Elliottiana is yellow. Is this the calla you have in mind? The Godfrey calla and the old Calla aethiopica are both white. C. W.

VIOLETS IN MONTANA.

A recent article in a Butte, Mont., journal, which features the violets of Helena, Mont., in a headline, nevertheless contains a glimpse at the scope of the work being done by the State Nursery Co.

After years of patient work, states the article, the State Nursery Co. has evolved a stock of violets that can easily compete with any in the United States markets. There are seven houses, containing 30,000 violet plants. Twelve thousand plants supply roses for cutting and seven houses are required to hold them. The article further states:

"The State Nursery Co. has fourteen carnation houses, of a size to equal twenty-eight ordinary greenhouses. There are between 35,000 and 40,000 plants, producing flowers in all months of the year. A year or so ago a store at Calgary had a grand opening. Five thousand red carnations were obtained for the event from the State Nursery Co. This shows the ability of

GOOD NEWS

Acquire a veritable Horticultural Library and

SAVE $8

The Review is able to announce that it NOW is in position to furnish

BAILEY'S STANDARD

Cyclopedia of Horticulture

at a new low price. The last printing was sold out at $48.00 the set of 6 volumes—a very reasonable price considering war-time costs of printing. Now a new printing is being made and the publishers authorize The Review to give its readers the benefit of the saving made in present competitive conditions in the book-making trades in the East. This means a new price of $40.00 per set for the CYCLOPEDIA—a saving of $8.00 per set.

Send your orders now—delivery about April 1

REMEMBER—BAILEY'S STANDARD CYCLOPEDIA OF HORTICULTURE is in 6 large volumes, over 3,000 pages. It is authority in all matters of plant names and spellings. Besides the purely botanical matter one would expect to find in such a work, there are many hundreds of cultural articles, chapters on insects, diseases, remedies, etc.—a veritable horticultural library, all carefully and completely indexed.

NEWPORT, R. I.

Horticultural Society Meets.

The meeting of the Newport Horticultural Society held February 14 was an important one, as plans were discussed for the holding of the convention of the American Garden Association here in 1923, and preparations were begun for the exhibitions to be held by the society during the coming year. There was a large attendance and considerable enthusiasm was manifested in the proceedings.

A communication was received from Prof. S. C. Damon, of the Rhode Island agricultural station, who recently lectured before the society on the subject of weedless gardens, correcting an erroneous impression in regard to the formula for the lawn fertilizer that chokes out the weeds, preserving the grass. This he stated should be as follows in formula for 1,000 pounds to the acre: Sulphate of ammonia, 300 pounds; acid phosphate, 400 pounds, and muriate of potash, 300 pounds.

It was announced that the grounds of the Art Association had been secured for the annual convention of the American Garden Association for next year, and the committee in charge of the arrangements for the convention reported that the preliminaries were well in hand and moving along in a satisfactory manner.

A committee consisting of President M. Dorward and William Grey, Bruce Butterson, Frederick Carter, Arthur Potter, Jr., and William G. Taylor was appointed to arrange the premium lists for the coming season's exhibitions and

The Market.

St. Valentine's day has come and gone. It was a much bigger day than last year, but in the cash balance it was shorter in most cases. That only means we must make up the short side by making more sales. One could get almost anything he wanted and the quality never was better. The fact is, there was so much choice stock in cut and growing plants that, in some cases, carnations did not move as they usually do. Sweet peas were never better and these sold at fair prices. Novelties were in excellent demand and the one with new artistic ideas brought in new sales from people who had never sent a floral valentine before.

Last week was a peculiar, radical and spasmodic week. While funeral work brought the bulk of the business to the retailers, it seemed to be in extremes. One day one florist would be rushed and the others idle. Few social functions are taking place and in those that do take place, flowers are noticeably absent. This has been a dull month for weddings. Roses are wholesaling at $4 per hundred for shorts and $9 to $12 for the medium grades, while the best are moving at $20 and $22. Columbia is by far the heaviest cropper, with Ophelia much off in color. Premier is coming back well, and during the week we should get some good roses. Carnations are plentiful at $6 and some move at $4, with the crop going off.

Bulbous stock continues ample, and of fine quality. Noteworthy among this stock are jonquils, tulips and a few Darwins. Tulips are selling at $6 and Darwins at $8. Jonquils and daffodils are holding their own and find a good demand at $6, while Paper Whites are sluggish at $4. Paper Whites have not been so satisfactory this month, as there were many complaints being received about their being soft. Violets are plentiful at 50 cents per hundred, but they do not clean up. Wonderful valley is to be had at $6 and $8. White peas are bringing $1 to $2 per hundred. Snapdragons are coming in at $8 to $12.

Smith Bottle Sprayer

Fits Any Ordinary Quart Bottle

Made Entirely of Brass with Brass Valve and no Parts to Wear Out. Nicely Nickel-Plated.

This sprayer consists of one seamless brass tube, working inside of an outer brass tube. The valves are of brass with no parts to wear or play out. It is made to fit any quart bottle, and is attached by simply setting it in the bottle, as you would a cork; the outer tube is provided with a cork, as shown in the illustration, which fits the opening of the bottle snugly, making the sprayer rigid.

Thousands used by florists for greenhouse spraying. Sells easily to your customers, for spraying house plants, flowers, etc. May also be used for general spraying purposes—disinfectants, etc. Throws a powerful, broad, fine mist spray. Easily operated.

Forget-me-nots are plentiful at $2 and $3 and the last of the freesias are coming in at $2 to $4. Callas of fine quality and size are in good supply and demand at $3 per dozen and they work up well in the larger sprays. Few formosums are being cut, and these are of an inferior quality. Among the novelties are wallflowers and stocks. Plants are still plentiful and move fairly well. T. E. E.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

BATTLING ROSE BEETLE.

How can the rose beetle be exterminated on an open field of roses grown for cut flowers? C. T.—Ariz.

In a badly affected area measures for the extinction of the rose beetle should begin with the soil and, in all probability, it will be necessary to use a new site for the roses, especially if they have been grown for many years in the same soil. Again, there may be other host plants belonging to the rose family, on which the beetles breed, such as the various raspberries, loganberries, strawberries, grapevines and many others. This being the case, the beetles are almost sure to attack the tender rose shoots in preference to anything else.

First of all, be careful to cultivate the soil thoroughly for at least two feet around the base of the plants, not once, but many times, and, if soot can be obtained, stir in a mixture of two parts lime to six parts of soot, using about one pound to the square yard. As soon as the young shoots begin to lengthen in early spring, spray the plants with a lead arsenate spray, made by mixing four pounds of neutral lead arsenate in eighty gallons of water. This should be mixed in a small quantity of water first, and further diluted as required for use. The spray must be well agitated while being used, or the arsenate will sink to the bottom. Ordinary acid arsenate should never be used on young rose foliage, though it may be used later, when the leaves are more consolidated or riper. This spray should be repeated frequently up to and including the formation of the flower buds.

It has been recommended that tangle-foot papers be laid under the bushes and the latter shaken to rid them of any full-grown beetles that may be on the plants. But constant and careful spraying is probably the safest and most likely procedure to keep this pest in check. Where, as noted above, there are neglected host plants of any kind around the rose field or rose garden, it will be a constant fight to keep the roses clean, the tender shoots and flower buds being so attractive to the insects.

H. R. R.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

Scarcity of good stock continues, although there is more cheap material for funeral work. A number of daffodils are being received from the north, but they are poor in quality and nothing like the local-grown stock. Other bulbous flowers are Chinese lilies, Soleil d'Or and other narcissi, tulips and hyacinths, but all show the bad effects of the constant drenchings they have had this winter. Since December 18 there have been rains or frosts almost daily, and this season will go on record as one of the worst ever known for growers. Indoor roses continue to arrive in fine shape and large quantities. Both indoor and outdoor carnations are more plentiful, but the quality of the latter is not good. Orchids are scarce, while valley is almost even with the demand. Acacia, peach and other shrub blooms are being sent in, but they are poor and washed out, looking as if they needed sunshine. Plumous and other greens are arriving in a little better shape.

Various Notes.

Roy F. Wilcox has been ill with the grip for a week, but is around again. His new residence is approaching completion and he hopes to move into it about a month from now.

Always anxious to give his customers the best stock and also to have it well cooled, C. Groen has built a concrete cellar for his cut flowers, which will enable him to cool everything thoroughly before delivery.

Under the title of Ye Floral & Art Shop, Mrs. Bonnie Valentine is opening a retail store at Inglewood. This town has previously had no flower shop, and it looks as though one can succeed there.

Frank Warner is sending in good daffodils from his Inglewood place and reports Dutch and Spanish irises coming along in fine shape. The sandy soil here apparently suits all bulbous stock well.

Jack D'Ortignac has returned to this city from Fresno and is handling a line of northern stock, of which some red helichrysum is fine.

Westrem Garland Florists have a fine store, well filled with good stock at all times, and a good business is reported.

Frank Reymond, of the Redondo Floral Co., is away from his post sick and E. J. Reynolds is taking his place temporarily.

H. N. Gage reports that his wife and son are both down with influenza. Since the oil covered the Long Beach place,

WE NEVER MISS

Lily of the Valley has always been one of our specialties. Before the War we forced a quarter of a million annually. Pips were cheap then and freight rates low. We could sell Valley at a profit at $3.00 to $4.00 a hundred.

You all know what the War did to the Valley business. Pips were scarce, poor in quality, high in price. Your customers accepted some substitute, but Valley has never lost its high place in their esteem. It is still the favorite flower of thousands of flower lovers. Its dainty waxen bells and delicate perfume have a charm peculiarly its own.

What flower is so altogether appropriate for the wedding bouquet?

We are now getting the high grade of Pips we had in the past. We grow five thousand each week. That is just twice as many as you see in the picture.

Arrange for your regular supply, and for your special Easter stock.

We know that you are interested in how our Easter Lilies are coming along. They look splendid, thank you. We may take their picture some day soon.

Warm rains and several sunny days have had the effect of greatly increasing the amount of stock. Everything cleans up each day, but several large funerals and much social work caused the demand to be unusually heavy. There are plenty of daffodils and the price has become reasonable. Potted tulips and hyacinths are also plentiful. Roses are being cut in large quantities, although the local and coast merchants are absorbing them. Freesias are still fairly plentiful, but they are nearing the end of their season. The Rainbow freesias and the yellow varieties are, however, in a class by themselves, and at no season can they be spoken of as being plentiful. Carnations are coming in fairly well, and the first daphne of the season is being shown in a few of the leading stores. This sweet-smelling flower only remains for about ten days. Acacia is excellent in color and has now become fairly plentiful. The market is showing more and more almond sprays, both pink and white. Narcissi are plentiful and pansies are just beginning to come in. Violets are now good and plentiful and everyone is gratified that some shipping can be done before the close of the violet season. Orchids and gardenias are at a premium and the heavy demand for lilies of the valley has caused these to be almost as hard to obtain as orchids. There is a general sense of satisfaction, however, that the stock shortage, so noticeable during the last few weeks, has now eased up.

Various Notes.

The Perry Dahlia Gardens, of Petaluma, Cal., have issued their 1922 dahlia catalogue, in the form of a 4-page folder, which shows the varieties on sale. California varieties are indicated in the catalogue by an asterisk.

Charles Brown, of Brown & Kennedy, who has been seriously ill, is now on the highway to recovery.

C. Kooyman, of the C. Kooyman Co., who has been on the sick list, has returned to his store. He was at home for about a week.

General A. J. Gooch, of Darbee's, has passed the convalescent stage and is now as hard at work as ever. He was ill for two weeks. Mrs. Darbee's violets have completely recovered from the effects of the severe weather, and are in excellent shape for filling all orders. The severe weather caused a good deal of sickness and Darbee's has been kept busy with orders for those who have been recovering from various illnesses. The store is near some of the city's large hospitals.

E. W. McLellan has been in a hospital at San Jose, but not because he was in any sense "under the weather." This well known grower met with an accident, an iron instrument having been accidentally drawn across his eye, neces-

Howard & Smith's New California Giant Non-lateral Branching Asters

Field view of our new California Giant Non-lateral Branching Asters.

We first distributed these strains in the season of 1921. Seed was sent to various growers throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. If we may judge from the voluntary reports we have received in commendation of their quality, we feel quite certain that the seed which we are offering this year will give every grower satisfaction. The stock has again been subject to rigid roguing to further perfect their remarkable non-lateral branching character. The flowers are of mammoth proportions, ranging from $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 inches in diameter and are borne singly on stems ranging from 18 to 24 inches in length. The advantage of the new class is that immense size is obtainable without the usual tedious work of disbudding. Anyone growing asters as commercial cut flowers will find this strain well worth while. We offer them in two distinct types of bloom, incurved or peony flowered and the curled or interlaced.

H. & S. New California Giant Peony-flowered Peach Blossom (Incurved). A superb new color, flowers of enormous size, stems 18 to 24 inches long. Per trade packet, $1.00.

H. & S. New California Giant Peony-flowered Light Blue (Incurved). A magnificent shade of pure azure blue, identical in habit with the preceding, flowers from $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 inches in diameter. Trade packet, \$1.00.

H. & S. New California Giant Peach Blossom (Curled and Interlaced). A magnificent new type with immense blossoms, the petals being curled and twisted after the style of the most ultra refined comet type, flowers borne erect on long stems non-lateral branching in character. Trade packet, $1.00.

H. & S. New California Giant Dark Purple. A fine companion to the foregoing, blossoms of immense size; petals beautifully curled and twisted. Trade packet, $1.00.

H. & S. New California Giant Rose. A beautiful shade of rich dark rose, otherwise identical with the two preceding varieties. Trade packet, $1.00.

H. & S. California Giant Light Blue. Identical in color with the peony-flowered type above mentioned. A delightful shade of pure azure blue. A variety which bears flowers of mammoth proportions. Trade packet, $1.00.

sitating a slight operation. P. Mortensen, manager of the E. W. McLellan retail store, in San Francisco, says that the McLellan Co. is fortunate in having planted a quantity of freesias in its greenhouses, and this crop will be coming in for some time.

J. A. Axell showed the first Romano ranunculi of the season, as well as a quantity of Soleil d'Or narcissi.

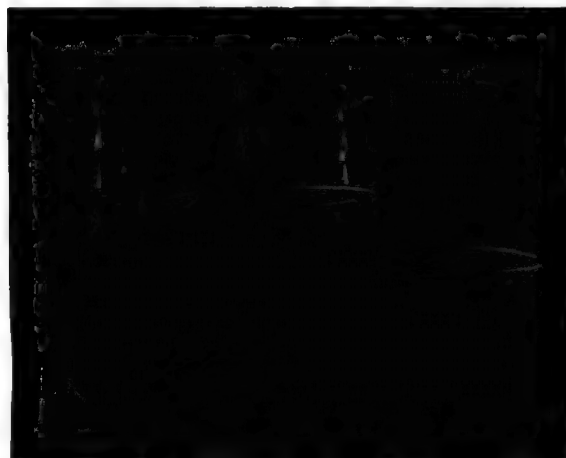

Domoto Bros. are cutting a number of fine Easter lilies and are getting good crops of roses from their nurseries. They are also handling a good many violets. Their nurseries are supplying some fine cut tulips.

Enomoto & Co. are cutting good crops of Columbia, Russell, Premier and hardy roses, as well as acacia sprays, carnations and spring flowers generally.

I. Inoue, manager of the United Flower & Supply Co., has returned home after spending all of the winter months in the east, chiefly Chicago. He visited all the leading cities of the middle west and finally came back via New Orleans and the Sunset route. Speaking of his impressions of trade in shipping, Mr. Inoue said that high express rates are the greatest drawback to California shippers. "In spite of this handicap, California is bound to do an express business to the middle west and the south in violets and chrysanthemums," he declared. "Our mum season is strongest during the two to three weeks in the fall, when greenhouse stock in the east has not begun to come in and our outdoor stock is being cut. When the greenhouse stock in Chicago and elsewhere east of the Rocky mountains arrives, it is more expensive than our stock, but express rates place us on a par with eastern growers, as far as prices are concerned." Mr. Inoue believes that chrysanthemums grown in northern California stand shipping better than those Toledo, Cleveland, Columbus and Indianapolis, but he did not call on florists on the Atlantic seaboard. "Sometimes flowers shipped from California reach New York in good shape, but it is too great a risk to make such shipments a really profitable business," he said, and added: "I believe that business is going to be excellent for the coming year, especially in strawflowers. The growing of strawflowers is largely a matter of climate and the bay region here is ideal for them. We know now how to dry them so as to preserve the colors perfectly."

Frank D. Pelicano, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., is at home ill. Manuel Roller, who has been ill, is now back at work. Business in funeral work has been rushing with this firm. Angelo Rossi, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., bought two cars at the automobile show just closed, a touring car and a coupé. He is so much in demand as chairman of various business organizations that he has to use his car a great deal.

The San Francisco Growers' Coöperative Flower Market has started an automobile collection and delivery system. Flowers are collected at the growers' places and later are shipped out to retailers.

Podesta & Baldocchi have been working to the limit of their capacity, on account of several big funerals as well as social affairs. For the funeral of Mrs.

Cyrus Walker, at San Mateo, they had to send three automobile delivery loads of offerings, as well as a great many to the funeral of the late John Johns. Both Victor Podesta and A. Baldocchi have recovered from recent illnesses.

Joseph's almost cornered the lily of the valley market for a day to make the remarkable pall they created for a late society woman. It was composed entirely of lilies of the valley, with the exception of a large spray of white butterfly orchids. Among table decorations designed by this firm, was one made by George P. Wagner for February 22. It consisted of milliners' cherries, so cleverly wired to real sprays with leaves that they looked like boughs broken from fruit-laden cherry trees. These were arranged as if growing from solid banks of daffodils.

F. C. Jaeger & Son have been busy with funerals. They have had expressions of admiration for a spring window, which consisted of banked yellow tulips, violets and heather.

The California Floral Co. managed to obtain enough lilies of the valley to make a beautiful bridal shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, arranged with orchids.

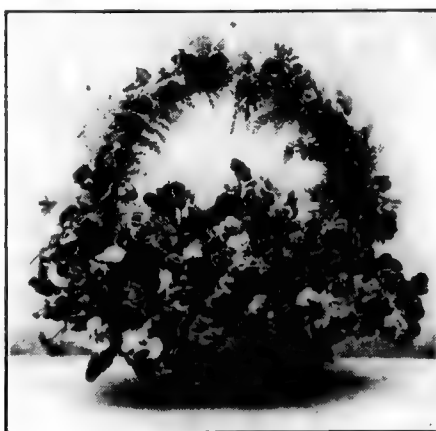

The Terminal Florist has been appointed the official florist for the annual ball of the San Francisco police department. The firm will supply all the plants and flowers used for decorations, etc., as well as the big bouquet of roses which Dan O'Brien, chief of police, will present to Mrs. Rolph, the mayor's wife, when she leads the grand march. The Terminal Florist will also install a flower shop in the main entrance of the Civic Auditorium, where the ball takes place. M. M.

SEATTLE, WASH.

The Market.

A material gain in business was noted last week, not only in comparison with the preceding week, but as compared with the corresponding week in 1921. The end of the week was marked by three of the largest funerals seen here in some time, so that offerings were well cleaned up and stock continues scarce on most lines. One of the funerals required Sunday morning deliveries to the amount of two truckloads from one store, more than one truckload each from two other stores and good-sized business for all of the shops.

The stock situation presents no notable changes. The trade faced the unusual situation of seeing calla lilies one of the most expensive offerings on the market, and to a certain degree this is still true. Growers of Easter lilies say growing conditions have been favorable and the market will be well supplied.

Home-grown sweet peas of good quality are being offered, but not in large enough quantities to care for the demand. Some good violets are coming in, but these are still scarce. There has been an increase in the supply of valley, while that on orchids has slackened up a bit. Roses continue short and the holiday and funeral demand had the trade scrambling for all available stock. The same was true of carnations, with some fine Pocahontas offered at present. Cut tulips are common and there are more than enough cut daffodils to go around.

There is a good, steady demand in potted plants, although this is hardly keeping pace with the heavier offerings in certain lines. Good cinerarias are hard to find, while the quality of Empress tulips has improved. Hyacinths sell well, since single blooms in 5-inch pots can be sold at prices which attract many buyers. Some shops report a surprising revival in the interest in medium-sized ferns.

Various Notes.

E. W. Osborne, lately with the Woodlawn Flower Shop, is now on the staff of Rosaia Bros.

The Seattle Fern & Moss Co. has remodeled its store so as to create an attractive salesroom in the front portion and has also increased its refrigerator space, so as to care for more stock.

The combined shipping and local demand kept the B. E. Hammond Co. busy all last week, and more stock than was available in a number of lines could have been disposed of easily. Roses were kept cleaned up at all times.

Heavy funeral work and a number of good-sized decorations were features of last week's business for the Woodlawn Flower Shop, combining to give a sales' total considerably in excess of that for the same week last year. There have been more weddings of late, using elaborate decorative schemes, and this shop enjoyed its share of this business. Fred Gust developed an attractive St. Valentine's day window for this shop, the chief place being taken by a large heart outline done in red leaves.

Further additions to the floor committee for the ball to be given by the Seat-the Florists' Association were made last week in the persons of Ray Geiser, of Rosaia Bros.; W. F. Holmes and Russell Jones, of the Hollywood Gardens; Carl Melby, of Melby's Flower Shop; Gene Sandahl, of the Burdett Co., and B. E. Hammond, of the wholesale house. Those already named were A. Moore, chairman, and T. V. Rhoades, of the Woodlawn Flower Shop; Eugene Lamb, of McCoy's; Peter L. Rosaia, of Rosaia Bros., and Sam Dunlap, of the Hollywood Gardens. Lambert Pedersen and A. B. Matthiesen have been named as sergeants-at-arms for the evening.

Irving Harris, of the Bon Marche Flower Shop, reports that there has been a ready sale of seeds lately, with the demand scattered among the various offerings.

Felix Rosaia handled one of the more novel of the recent club decorations, when one potted tulip was used at the large table for each invited guest, together with considerable valley.

The Hollywood Gardens have some excellent yellow narcissi. For one of the larger funerals last week this shop developed a blanket made of pink carnations, valley and roses, which attracted trade comment. An effective Washington's birthday window was arranged through the use of a large American flag draped from the window ceiling, before which was a bust of the first President on a black drape, and surrounded by cut flowers and potted ferns.

Miss Rodd, of the Hollywood Gardens, is again able to be at work, after having been confined to her home several days with a severe cold.

Morgan's Flower Shop experienced a heavy run of funeral work last week. Henry Morgan's activities as a fancier of fine American bull terriers have been the subject of comment in the local press lately.

Mrs. Lillian Kenney, of Kenney's, left last week for a visit with relatives in the north Atlantic coast states.

The special bulb window arranged for Rosaia Bros. during St. Valentine's week proved so effective that it was carried through for another few days. Some fine stock has been shown here. There has been an increase in decorations and funeral work has been heavy. Miss Laura Rosaia has been enjoying a several weeks' vacation and her place in the cashier's office is being filled by Mrs. P. L. Rosaia.

Funeral orders for the Pinehurst Floral Co. have been heavy, especially on the larger pieces. The best of current deliveries on carnations and violets have been featured in window displays.

Kenney's has effectively featured some fine Empress tulips in its shop lately, and reports an increase in general transient business. Business with the undertaking establishments has been big.

J. O. Hankins, of the Seattle Pottery Co., recently received an order for two carloads of pots for shipment out of the state.

The opening of the Woodward theater in the Orpheum building by a new dramatic stock company has been productive of more business for the Orpheum Floral Co. and is figured to help general sales permanently in this section of the city.

Lambert Pedersen noted a visible increase in business lately, with funeral orders predominating. H. M.

TORONTO, ONT.

The Market.

St. Valentine's day trade was good. There was a good supply of flowers, including roses, which are cheaper now than they have been since Christmas. They are also of good quality.

Retailers are now looking forward to Easter, and the growers state that they will have an abundance of lilies of better quality than have been obtainable for the last two or three years. There will also be a good cut of roses for Easter, according to present indications.

Spring flowers are available in abundance and they are selling well.

Various Notes.

The annual dance of the Toronto Retail Florists' Club, February 20, was a success, as usual. The assembly hall was beautifully decorated with smilax and flowers donated by the members. There was an attendance of about 200. For those who did not dance there was progressive euchre, for which a number of valuable floral prizes were awarded.

The regular meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Association was held February 20. A revised constitution was adopted and will be sent on to the government for approval. Prizes for the Canadian national exhibition were reviewed and several increases for some classes were recommended. The prize list for the Royal Agricultural Fair was recommended to be the same as last year. The latter takes the place of the fall mum show. The annual social arranged for February 20 was postponed, owing to the breakdown of the Niagara wires, caused by the storm. There was a consequent absence of light and car service. The social will be held in about a fortnight.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

GROWING contracts for peas and beans are noted by all the large growers as somewhat lower than they were last year.

THE Lexington Seed Co., of Lexington, O., has been incorporated. The capitalization of the firm is placed at $20,000 and the incorporators are A. B. Bleidt, K. Bleidt and G. Clay Goodloe.

COMSTOCK, FERRE & Co., Wethersfield, Conn., report a heavy demand. The entire force here has been busy filling contract and early orders for seeds. The flower seed department has been enlarged to care for the ever-increasing trade in this line.

TWO-YEAR-OLD asparagus roots are one of the short items this year and, with the ever-increasing demand, will be all sold out early in the season, reports a Hartford seedsman. Seed stores always have a large demand for the roots after the planting season is over, when almost everyone who has a garden wishes to have an asparagus bed.

CALVIN KEENEY, of N. B. Keeney & Son, Le Roy, N. Y., a member of the nomenclature committee for the United States government, reports having lost more than 100 varieties of beans which were being tested last season at his trial grounds. They were all killed by frost last July. Mr. Keeney was on a New England trip last week.

THE mail order seed business should be approaching flood tide, but it isn't. The general report is that both January and February have been a disappointment to those who looked for a return to the old-time volume of early mail orders. It is said that most of the mail order houses find that the average size of the orders is small again this year, in addition to their number being less than expected.

THE frost during the last few weeks has done absolutely no damage to any of the sweet peas or the growing crops of flower seeds in the vicinity of Guadalupe, Cal., states the L. D. Waller Seed Co. This company reports perfect stands of sweet peas. Many varieties of flower seeds are up and also show good stands. The planting this year is in advance of any previous year, and as there has been to date over ten inches of rain, which is more than the total rainfall of 1921 and more for this season than in any year for the last five years, prospects for good crops are believed to be excellent.

VEGETABLE SEED PRICES.

Lowest Since 1917.

Prices quoted for vegetable seeds, both by retail mail order and wholesale dealers, are almost uniformly lower than in 1921, and, for most items, the lowest since 1917, states the United States Department of Agriculture. The decline has been constant since 1918, when the peak was reached for most kinds. Tables of retail catalogue and wholesale prices on pages 122 and 120, respectively, show that prices of beans, peas, sweet corn, lettuce and vine crop seeds fluctuated less violently than did other seeds, including beet, cabbage, celery, spinach and turnip, of which large quantities normally are imported.

Any changes in the price of the former group, of which the domestic production is usually sufficient to supply the needs of this country, may be attributed largely to variations in the cost of production and preparation for market. The supply of the latter group, however, was not controlled by domestic commercial growers and, with imports suddenly cut off, the high prices prevailing in 1918 followed. Likewise the rally of domestic growers to supply the deficit thus created, followed by the rapid resumption of imports, caused these items to decline quickly to their 1917 price levels.

1922 Prices.

On the whole, wholesale prices for 1922 compared with 1921 show a greater reduction than do the retail catalogue prices. The wholesale prices of beans, peas, sweet corn, beet, cabbage, carrot, celery, onion, parsley, squash and turnip are fifteen per cent to thirty per cent less, while the retail catalogue prices of these items, with the exception of cabbage and English turnip, are only five to fifteen per cent less than last year.

Little change, if any, occurred in the wholesale prices of other kinds of vegetable seeds except tomato, which is quoted ten per cent less. The average retail prices of tomato declined eight per cent; spinach, fifteen per cent, and watermelon, nine per cent. Cucumber, lettuce, muskmelon, parsley, parsnip and radish were unchanged to slightly lower.

Wholesale Prices.

The retail catalogue prices of vegetable seeds are given in the table on page 122. It represents the averages of prices quoted for standard varieties by a number of representative mail order dealers.

A table of average wholesale prices per pound of standard varieties of vegetable seed, compiled, like the table of retail prices, by the United States Department of Agriculture, is as follows:

by the following story, which one seedsman told regarding another:

"A seedsman, whom we will call Brown, operated for a good many years a store in a fair-sized community.

"He was of the type that concentrates on what he is doing and doesn't use up energy on 'side lines.' He avoided social activities. He hadn't married and so there was nothing to prevent his having his way in this respect. I merely mention this so you will understand why, although this fellow Brown had a bank account and had to go to the bank frequently, he practically never came into personal contact with the officers of the bank and knew nothing about them or their activities.

"When the slump came, this fellow Brown got into a certain amount of trouble, like a good many other seedsmen in this country. He had stocked up and the kind of people that were his customers were among the first to feel the effects of the slump. As a result, Mr. Brown was stuck with one of the biggest stocks of goods he had ever laid in; he had bills facing him that had to be paid if he was going to go on doing business; and he was forced to dip into his own personal principal for his running expenses.

"Well, I told you he hadn't met the bankers of the town—didn't know them, hadn't talked to them or about them—and so you can understand that it never occurred to him to go to them. He went, instead, to the few close friends that he had, in the effort to borrow funds; even went so far as to offer an interest in the business in return for a small loan. He found them 'close' friends, all right, but he didn't get his loan.

"Well, the sum and substance of it all was this: Running expenses forced him to a point where the next check he drew on his bank would reduce his deposit below the minimum limit. Knowing what that limit was, and with the sole idea of getting special permission to draw below it, he went to his bank. Instead of going to the president, he went to the paying teller. Naturally, the latter was without authority, and referred him to the president.

"Brown was in this way forced to meet the president. In the course of his plea for 'leniency' he was also forced for the first time in his business career, to lay his cards on the table and describe his full circumstances from A to Izzard to somebody else. The president—and I bet his eyes twinkled when he did it—made Brown go back to his office, get his books, bring them back to

DREER'S Famous American ASTERS

We offer below the more important varieties. For complete list and descriptions see our wholesale Price List. Copies free to Florists on request.

ASTERMUMS.

This strain of Giant Comet Asters closely resemble Crego's Giant, but come into bloom fully two weeks earlier.

	Tr. pkt.	Oz.
White Astermum	$0.30	$1.50
Pink30	1.50
Lavender30	1.50

BEAUTY ASTERS.

This recently developed type is a most valuable introduction on account of its late flowering, coming into bloom fully two weeks later than our Superb Late Branching, and furnishing high-grade cut flowers from early October until killing frost.

	Tr. pkt.	Oz.
American Beauty. Rich cherry-rose, similar in color to American Beauty Rose	$0.40	$2.00
Lavender Beauty. Exquisite soft lavender.....	.50	2.50
Purple Beauty. Rich lustrous deep purple.....	.40	2.00
September Beauty. Delicate shell-pink.....	.50	2.50

CREGO'S GIANT COMET ASTERS.

Magnificent fluffy flowers, averaging over 5 inches across with long strong stems, the finest of this type. Comes into bloom in August, continuing well into September, and unlike most of the Comet sorts, stands when cut and is a good flower to ship. We offer five colors, our own saving, of the highest quality.

	Tr. pkt.	Oz.
White. Purest white	$0.30	$1.50
Pink. Delicate shell pink30	1.50

Lavender. A rich deep shade30	1.50
Finest Mixed. All colors.....	.30	1.25

EARLY BRANCHING OR ROYAL ASTERS.

One of the best Asters of recent introduction, and might briefly be described as an early flowering form of our Superb Late-Branching variety, having all the good qualities of the latter but coming into bloom in July or early August and lasting in perfect condition a long time. We offer six beautiful and distinct colors, viz.:

	Tr. pkt.	Oz.
Lavender. Soft lavender violet.....	$0.40	$2.00
Purple. Rich deep violet purple.....	.40	2.00
Rich Rose. Very bright and attractive40	2.00

Shell Pink. Very delicate tint.....	.40	2.00
White. Pure white.....	.40	2.00

DREER'S "PEERLESS PINK" ASTER.

This grand Aster may be briefly described as a glorified late branching shell-pink or Mary Semple. It has the same strong, sturdy habit of growth; comes into bloom a little earlier, bears freely almost globular flowers, rarely under 4 inches across and frequently over 5 inches. The color is rich shell-pink, similar in shade but more decided than the late branching. The center petals are prettily incurved, while the wide outer petals reflex, making a most artistic and finely finished flower, and stands cut longer than any other.

50 cts. per trade pkt., $2.50 per oz.

QUEEN OF THE MARKET ASTERS.

The leading early Asters, of good strong growth and bearing large flowers on long strong stems; begins blooming in July.

For many years we have made a specialty of high-grade Flower Seeds for Florists' use and offer extra choice strains of Antirrhinum, Calendula, Cineraria, Cyclamen, Pansy, Petunia, Primula, Salvia, Sweet Peas, Verbena, Zinnia, etc., etc. See our Wholesale Price List.

LATE BRANCHING
ASTERS

DREER'S SUPERB LATE BRANCHING ASTERS.

The finest Asters for late August and September blooming.

The plants form strong, branching bushes, 2 to 2½ feet high, bearing on long strong stems their handsome Chrysanthemum-like flowers, which, under ordinary cultivation, average 5 inches across. The form of the flowers, together with the length of the stems, places them at the head of Asters for cutting. They come into bloom from two to three weeks after the average type, usually being at their best during September, and filling in the gap between the general run of Asters and Chrysanthemums. We offer eight beautiful and distinct colors, viz.:

	Tr. pkt.	Oz.
Azure Blue. A rich, deep lavender.....	$0.30	$1.50
Pure White. Extra fine stock.....	.30	1.50
Shell Pink. An exquisite shade30	1.50
Rose Pink. A very desirable color.....	.30	1.50
Deep Rose. Rich and brilliant30	1.50
Deep Purple. Royal deep purple.....	.30	1.50
Lavender. A pale grayish-lavender.....	.30	1.50
Crimson. Very rich rosy crimson.....	.30	1.50
Finest Mixed. All the colors.....	.25	1.00

KING ASTERS.

The "King" Asters form a distinct class or type, and have many sterling qualities to recommend them to lovers of fine Asters. They are of strong, sturdy habit, growing fully 18 inches high, and bear from August to October very large double blossoms, the petals of which are more or less quilled, forming very attractive flowers, which have splendid keeping qualities when cut.

	Tr. pkt.	Oz.
Dreer's Crimson King. A brilliant new color in this type, which originated with us. It is the richest and deepest crimson variety known to us.....	$0.40	$2.00 the bank and go all over them, in this way finding out just what Brown's sales had averaged over the period of years he had been in business, just what his running expenses were, how economically the business had been run, where the 'leaks' were, what his turnover was, and so forth and so on.

"After two sessions like this, which consumed about eight hours altogether, Brown was called to the president's office for the third time. The banker began asking him some more questions. The strain on his nerves of the other two interviews, the worry about his business and the necessity of some immediate cash with which to meet current bills had brought Brown to a state bordering on hysteria. It had been like pulling teeth for him to go to the president in the first place and now, with what looked like another session ahead of him, he couldn't control himself any longer.

"Say!" he ejaculated. "How much more of this sort of thing do I have to put up with? Do you put everybody through this mill that comes with a simple request about his checking account?"

"The old bank president was a blunt man and didn't hesitate to answer tartly: 'Why, you blank fool!' he said, 'I'm not thinking about your checking account. I'm trying to figure out just how much the bank will have to lend you to tide you over the next couple of years!'

"The reason I tell this story is this: There are hundreds of men in this trade just like Brown—men that don't tie up with their bankers and only go to them when they have to. These fellows seem to think that all a banker has to do is

CHOOSE CHOICE CANNAS

THE "GOOD LUCK" SORT ARE SUPERIOR

Best by test, you'd say, if you'd follow Mr. Wintzer in his work of the past twenty years—improving the size, shape, color, texture and endurance. The newer sorts remind you of Mallow Marvels in size and of Orchids in color effects. It's time to make your plans and time to order, too. Select from the following list and you'll get winners:

- AMERICAN BEAUTY. 5 ft. This is the richest colored Canna we know—a velvety, oriental carmine or translucent cerise. It is unusually attractive, with its large flowers of tropical magnificence held on firm, straight stems in rich bouquets well above the soft green foliage. Practically every stalk produces at least two heads of bloom. 3 for $2.50, 10 for $7.50$50 ...
- CANDELABRA. 5 ft. After 22 years of painstaking cross-hybridizing, Mr. Wintzer has succeeded in producing this prodigy. Three to five flower branches on each stalk at one time is the average, and every single branch is ablaze with a torch-like flame of fiery orange-scarlet bloom. The branches are erect and sturdy; the foliage is rich green, and very vigorous. Our 1921 stock plants of this marvelous Canna have renewed our enthusiasm for its beautiful color and unparalleled production of bloom. 3 for $2.50, 10 for $7.50... 50 ...
- SUSQUEHANNA. 3 ft. A sturdy growing dwarf with dark, olive-green foliage, shaded with bronze. An early bloomer with large, old-rose-pink flowers borne on strong, bronzy stems. The pink flowers mounted upon bronze foliage make this Canna very distinct and its dwarf habit makes it especially valuable. 3 for $2.50, 10 for $7.50..... 50 ...
- CORONET. Fine yellow, constant bloomer, handsome and desirable. 3 ft.... 4 $35
- E. M. BYRNES. Intense brilliant scarlet 7 60
- GAIETY. 5 ft. Reddish-orange mottled with carmine and edged with yellow. A spectacular bedder 6 50

- STATUE OF LIBERTY. 6 to 7 ft. This Canna outstrips exaggeration. We believe it is, without exception, the largest Canna in existence. Like the Statue of Liberty, it overtops anything of a similar nature that can be compared with it. Its foliage is bronze, leaves half as large again as its nearest rival, and of a rich, luxuriant, ebony shade. It holds aloft a fiery flaming flower, orchid-type, blazing flame-red in color. The flowers are of large size and good form. The effect is massive and impressive. 10 for $3.....$25 ...
- FLAG OF TRUCE. 4 ft. "Best Near White Canna in Commerce"..... 15 $125
- CITY OF PORTLAND. 3½ ft. Glowing pink, deeper in color than its parent, Mrs. Alfred F. Conard; profuse bloomer. A great favorite for bedding..... 10 80
- GLADIATOR. 5 ft. A leader for years. Color is bright yellow, spotted with red. No other bedding Canna in this color can surpass this sturdy, robust grower 5 40
- GOLDEN GATE. 4 ft. The flowers open pure gold but soon become rayed with orange-crimson and apricot, centering to the throat. Unusually attractive..... 6 50
- HUNGARIA. 3½ ft. Rose-pink, a very free bloomer, possessing a delicate shade of color not known in any other Canna 8 70
- INDIANA. 6 ft. Glistening golden orange, like silky flags. Most attractive.... 5 40
- JANE ADDAMS. 4½ ft. True, bright buttercup-yellow. The buds are pretty, dark maroon..... 6 50

- KING HUMBERT. 4 ft. Bright orange-scarlet, streaked with crimson. Magnificent bronze foliage $8 $50
 - LAFAYETTE. 4 ft. Intense brilliant scarlet..... 7 60
 - NOKOMIS (New, 1918). 5 ft. Large, vivid crimson flowers with a rich, silky sheen on the petals; bronze foliage 7 60
 - THE PRESIDENT. 4 ft. In color, a rich, glowing scarlet, and the immense, firm, rounded flowers, 7 in. across when open, are produced on strong, erect stalks well above the large, rich green foliage. "The President" is superior to any other red variety in the quantity and also quality of bloom, and the firm flowers resist drought and heat to a remarkable degree. A large bed of this variety was planted last year in front of the White House and received the unqualified admiration of every lover of Cannas. "The President" has proved to be the most satisfactory red Canna ever produced. Get your order placed now for delivery at planting time 8 75
 - QUEEN OF HOLLAND. 3 ft. Color deep rich orange. Dwarf 7 60
 - UNCLE SAM. 7 ft. Brilliant orange-scarlet flowers 5 40
 - WAWA. 3 ft. A new shade of soft pink..... 6 50
 - WM. SAUNDERS. 4 ft. Individual flowers often 5 in. across, bright scarlet; foliage bronze 7 60
 - WYOMING. 7 ft. Flowers orange 4 30

BULB DEALERS PLEASE NOTE.

There is more advertising of gladiolus bulbs in the Classified section of The Review than appears in all the other horticultural trades' publications put together. The Classified section of The Review makes the market and is the market place in the gladiolus bulb trade. It works like this:

Will say for your information that we are getting very good results from advertising in your journal. In fact, we are getting more returns than we had ever hoped to secure from these small ads.—C. B. Bovier, Jr., the Burton Seed Co., Denver, Colo., February 21, 1922.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising, you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

J. C. Roozen Haverkamp, Overveen, Holland.—Illustrated wholesale catalogue of bulbs, including "specially prepared hyacinths"; fifteen pages and cover, in pocket form.

William Toole & Son, Baraboo, Wis.—Wholesale list of hardy perennial plants. Those considered especially suitable for the production of flowers for cutting are marked with an asterisk.

Martin J. Cullen, Denver, Colo.—Illustrated catalogue of seeds, bulbs, plants and nursery stock; sixty-four pages and cover. Mr. Cullen maintains that Colorado is "the best seed and nursery location in the entire world."

Van Zanten & Co., Hillegom, Holland.—Thirty-eighth annual American edition of wholesale bulb catalogue; a comprehensive, accurate, clearly printed book of seventy-two large pages, in a serviceable and handsome brown and gold cover.

R. M. Henley, Hartford, City, Ind.—A well printed 4-page circular with reference to the Henley specialty, pelargoniums. "We have discarded all but the best twelve varieties," says Mr. Henley. These twelve varieties include Easter Greeting and three of its sports.

Alexander Forbes & Co., Newark, N. J.—Two seed catalogues, general and wholesale, both first-class as to quality of typography and illustrations, accuracy of editing and attractiveness of appearance. Both covers are exquisitely colored. The general catalogue contains fifty pages, and offers bulbs, roots, plants, implements and supplies, as well as seeds; a few of the illustrations are colored. The wholesale list is condensed to thirty-two pages.

Rock's Flower Gardens, Independence, Mo.—"Rock's Garden Book," a decidedly attractive, well illustrated catalogue of seeds, bulbs, roots, perennials, miscellaneous plants, roses, shrubs and vines; ninety-six pages, in a pleasing black and white cover, on which an artistic design serves as the border for two beautiful outdoor scenes. "In presenting to you our first annual garden book," says Mr. Rock, "we do so with the first thought that it will help solve your many troubles in selecting seeds or shrubs suitable to our local conditions."

Elmer D. Smith & Co., Adrian, Mich.—Two chrysanthemum catalogues, wholesale and retail, containing twenty and thirty-two pages, respectively; both are finely illustrated and both are bound in tasteful black and white covers. Since this company has specialized in chrysanthemums for thirty-three years and has long made use of the slogan, "The only firm in America devoted entirely to chrysanthemum culture," and since members of the trade are more or less familiar with the numerous varieties of mums which this company has originated, florists scarcely need to be told about the completeness, the systematic arrangement and the authoritativeness of these catalogues. This year the company is offering fifteen novelties, all of which have been awarded first-class certificates by the Chrysanthemum Society of America.

Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J.—Two superlative catalogues, both notable for accuracy in the spelling of varietal names and in other editorial particulars; both about as near perfection as is possible in quality of paper and typography and in general effectiveness of arrangement. The smaller book, entitled "American-grown Roses for America," contains thirty-two pages, besides a full-page colored plate; preceding the descriptive list of roses are two pages of cultural directions and a complete alphabetical index of the varieties, numbering more than 400. The other catalogue, containing eighty-four pages, is devoted to "American-grown Nursery Products," including extensive assortments of both hard-wooded and herbaceous stock. Both books are strongly and tastefully bound, the rose book in white and the other in gray.

Burton Seed Co., Denver, Colo.—"Burton's 1922 Seed Book," a comprehensive, illustrated catalogue, containing 144 closely printed pages, in a colored cover of unique and striking style. Nursery stock is included. Farm and garden implements are particularly well represented. Enclosed is a "special quantity price sheet."

299 Broadway, New York City

Peacock Dahlia Farms, Berlin, N. J.—"The World's Best Dahlias; New Creations and Old Friends," a well printed, illustrated catalogue; sixteen large pages, in a strikingly handsome, artistic cover, all four pages of which show dahlias in their natural hues; the group of nine single varieties on the back cover are especially beautiful. A dozen introductions for 1922 are listed.

John Connon Co., Ltd., Hamilton, Ont.—Wholesale catalogue of flowering and decorative plants, bulbs, ornamental nursery stock, perennials, vegetable roots, currant and grape plants; a businesslike book of twenty-eight pages, without illustrations. The cover, green, printed with black, has a good index on its third page and some realistic telegraph-delivery propaganda on its back.

Henry Field Seed Co., Shenandoah, Ia.—"Hubam, the Universal Clover," a large, 16-page circular, containing an illustrated explanation of this new annual white clover, sometimes designated as "the clover that saves a year." Mr. Field recommends it not only as a profitable crop in immediate returns, but also as a fertilizer and humus-former when plowed under in a green state.

Fred H. Thayer Co., Baltimore, Md.—"Seed Annual," an illustrated 32-page book, which seems to fulfill requirements in both attractiveness and accuracy. The cover is embellished with colored pictures of a dozen varieties of sweet peas and a residence with beautiful grounds. The nursery department is limited to a page of the catalogue.

Wedge Seeds, Albert Lea, Minn.—A clearly printed, illustrated catalogue, with "some ideas on gardening"; forty pages, in a colored cover of original and attractive design. An introductory paragraph, after explaining that Wedge Seeds is the name of a company consisting of Ralph F. Wedge and Paul H. Petran, advises the reader, when in need of nursery stock, to write to the Wedge Nursery, of Albert Lea, a separate establishment, conducted by Clarence Wedge and Robert C. Wedge.

NEWARK, N. J.

Prices here have fallen considerably. This is the result of the flood of spring stock that has been pouring into the market. The large influx of tulips, hyacinths, narcissi, sweet peas, carnations, etc., is reflected by the window displays. These are now a mass of color. Pussy willows have been prominent in window displays the last week.

William H. Witheridge states that business is fair, but not quite up to normal for this time of the year.

The Washington Florists report a considerable amount of funeral work, as well as fine transient trade. R. B. M.

Flora, Ill.—The Flora Greenhouses are again under the control of A. J. Kernstein. These greenhouses were sold by Mr. Kernstein about two years ago. They consist of about 12,000 square feet of glass and are now being stocked up.

are now so well known and are in such great demand that you, as a grower or florist, cannot afford to be without them. No other strains are now so popular, nor can you secure so many beautiful blooms from any other. They always bring top prices in the markets.

Heretofore there has not been a sufficient supply to afford growers a share in their great sale.

*I offer you a

for the first time to secure a select collection of about ninety choice varieties listed and described in my wholesale price list. All authorities are agreed that my new strains represent by far the greatest improvement in gladioli today.

You will miss many of your best customers if you let them go elsewhere for their cut flowers and bulbs.

Send for my wholesale list above described, and also a copy of my new retail catalogue, both free.

Ball's White Aster

Introduced by us last season and although a most unfavorable year for asters, has given very general satisfaction. It is a well rounded flower, pure white, exceptionally free flowering and distinctively double. $\frac{1}{2}$ oz., 75c; $\frac{1}{4}$ oz., \$1.35; 1 oz., \$5.00.

We take this opportunity of thanking our customers for their letters of appreciation of this Aster.

The Ball Calendula

We take this opportunity of announcing the introduction of the Ball Calendula for July, 1922.

This new orange Calendula represents a very great improvement in size, length of stem, and fullness of flowers. It has exhibited these superior characteristics uniformly for the past 4 years not only with us but with other growers, whose testimonials, with further announcements, will appear later. Although an average crop of seed is expected, we suggest you place your order with us at once. Trade pkt. of $\frac{1}{4}$ oz., \$3.00; oz., \$5.00.

Ball's Summer Peas

For the past 15 years we have grown summer Peas extensively and we annually make most searching tests of new varieties. We have stocks of the following kinds ready for prompt shipment and know this list cannot be improved upon for standard varieties. NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

THE Milburn Nurseries is the trade name which has been filed for the nursery business conducted on Main street, Milburn, N. J., by Edward D. Pannell.

WASHINGTON nurserymen estimate that there will be 1,000 acres of new orchard land set out in the Oroville section this year, the greater majority going into commercial varieties of apples and the remainder to nuts and soft fruits.

THE nursery firm at Kankakee, Ill., known as the Lowry Nursery & Landscape Co. has opened an office at 147 North Delaware street, Indianapolis, Ind. Mr. Lowry of this firm has been a member of the Indianapolis park board for many years.

SEVERAL acres of land have been acquired by John Molnai and two other men of Painesville, O., and these men will enter the nursery business. Outdoor roses will be their specialty. Mr. Molnai has been in the employ of the Storrs & Harrison Co. for many years.

GRAPE growers in the Niagara district in Canada are greatly increasing their acreages, setting out more vines than were planted during the war. Nurserymen are being swamped with orders for fruit trees of all sorts. Sour cherry trees are short, but other fruits are plentiful.

BUSINESS in the Miami valley looks highly encouraging, report nurserymen there. The retail inquiries are heavy. Sales at the present time are rather slow, but the nurserymen feel sure everything will be cleaned up this year. There is no overstock of anything in the valley this year, it is said, and it would be pretty hard to go out on the market in that district and pick up any shorts at the present time. It is believed this is the case, not only in the Miami valley, but practically the country over.

WHY FRUIT TREES DIDN'T SELL.

The American farmer earned less in 1920 than he has earned in any year of the last ten, if his income is reckoned in dollars having the same purchasing power as in 1913. Figures from a report of nation-wide survey show that the country's 6,450,000 farmers, in 1920, earned approximately $7,200,000,000—a drop of $3,650,000,000 from their income for the year before.

ILLINOIS NURSERYMEN PLAN.

A plan to make Illinois a better state will be put into operation during the month of March by the Illinois State Nurserymen's Association. The plan is the outgrowth of a discussion started at the convention of the association, at Chicago in January, by J. A. Young, secretary of the association, and is being ably promoted by him. It was felt by the nurserymen that their association was the logical one to conduct a campaign of reforestation. The association, with the aid of the state press, will enlist the services of all civic and agricultural societies in a campaign for which slogans have been provided, such as "Plan to Plant Another Tree," "Save Our Forests," "Build Our Orchards,"

PLAN TO PLANT ANOTHER TREE.

We plan our homes, our churches, schools,
Our boulevards, our parks and pools;
We plan our music, songs and books,
Our gardens and our ingle nooks;
We plan our children's hours so they May have some sunshine every day;
We plan our lives and with a sigh
Cease planning only when we die.
But all through life how seldom we Plan to plant another tree!

So plant a tree and watch it grow,
Through it some of your blood may flow;
It may become a safe retreat
That friends will seek with eager feet,
And 'neath its shade in cool content
Bless it—your living monument;
A tree that sings a lullaby
To every pilgrim passing by,
And reaches out a friendly limb.
As if to shade and shelter him.
Selfish—selfish indeed is he Who never plans to plant a tree.

A tree, a shady, sheltering tree,
Is like a living prayer to me,
A prayer that grace and comfort lends
To mortal man e'er it ascends
In thankfulness to bless the hand
That planting it, both worked and planned.
"A tree whose thirsty mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;
A tree that looks at God all day,
And lifts its leafy hands to pray;
Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree."
—T. H. Kendall.

"Plant Home Grounds" and "Plan in March What to Plant in April."

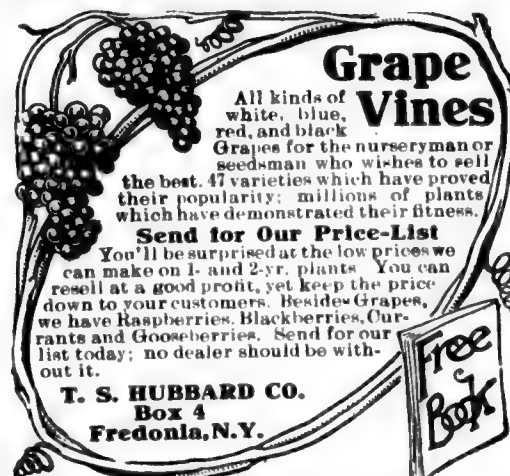

The articles which it is hoped to have appear in the daily papers will treat of such subjects as, "Winter Spraying—How, When, What and Why," "How to Prune Fruit Trees," "Making a Garden," "A Planting Plan for a Farm Home." An appeal will be made for the coöperation of public and private schools, chambers of commerce, farmers' clubs, Rotary clubs, women's clubs, the Boy Scouts, automobile clubs, advertising clubs and bankers' associations, in order to create an interest in this movement. All merchants advertising within the state of Illinois will be asked to insert the slogan of the Illinois State Nurserymen's Association, "Plan to Plant Another Tree—Illinois—More Fruitful and Beautiful," in their copy. It is hoped thereby to call the attention of the public to the need for better gardens, better lawns and better fruit orchards. It will create an interest in public welfare and give the business of the nurserymen a boost.

Secretary J. A. Young says regarding the campaign: "The slogan our association is trying to put over, 'Plan to Plant Another Tree,' holds the attention, suggests two kinds of action, and undoubtedly will get a lot of people to thinking. Anybody can plan, but everybody will not plant; consequently, if everybody plans to plant, someone is sure to do that planting. The big week will be March 12 to 19. If we are able to make a hit and get on first base this year, another year we may be able to make a home run. Florists and nurserymen generally can aid this movement by using a rubber stamp on all their mail and by using the slogan in their literature. It will not be a bad idea for nurserymen and florists to advertise in March, especially during the week of March 12 to 19."

arborvitæ and such decorative plants as holly and laurel, used as Christmas decorations, from the ravages of the gypsy moth (Porthetria dispar), a proclamation superseding all other proclamations on this subject has been made by Governor Len Small, governor of the state of Illinois. This proclamation prohibits and makes unlawful the importation of the above-named trees and decorative materials from certain parts of the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut and Massachusetts, the department of agriculture of the state of Illinois having found this dangerous insect pest prevalent in these states. The prohibition takes effect from February 1, 1922, and will be in force until otherwise proclaimed by the governor.

PAINESVILLE, O.

"The nursery industry ranks at the present time as one of the most important industries in Lake county." The speaker was John H. Dayton, secretary of the Storrs & Harrison Co., who addressed the Chamber of Commerce and interested citizens of Painesville and vicinity at a banquet in the Y. M. C. A., February 27.

The spring season has opened. This fact is obvious when one watches the huge truck loads of express shipments that are being sent out by the Storrs & Harrison Co.

Claude Reynolds, of Mentor, O., who makes a specialty of peonies and delphiniums, intends to increase his acreage the coming season.

George Martin reports business good and is shipping many orders of perennial stock.

Mark Welch, the Madison avenue nurseryman, says that, judging from the orders booked ahead, the spring season of 1922 will surpass all previous seasons.

IRIS CHECK LIST.

The American Iris Society, though one of the youngest trade organizations, has already done a great work. As bulletin No. 4, dated January, 1922, it has issued its iris check list. This has been distributed to members of the organization and copies will be sold to non-members for a small sum.

The iris check list was originally prepared for inclusion in the Official Catalogue of Standardized Plant Names, now so near completion under the direction of J. Horace McFarland and Harlan P. Kelsey. The iris check list has been published in advance of the larger work in order to facilitate its checking and correction. A few trade members of the American Iris Society made this possible by subscribing to a special publication fund.

The work of compiling the check list was done by President John C. Wister. He has spent a number of years at it and has done a remarkably fine piece of work, although he himself admits that it is not so complete as he would like to have it.

The check list includes as far as possible all species and varieties now in American commerce. The names are arranged alphabetically in three groups. Group one includes the bearded iris, or pogoniris, and is fairly complete, except for the fact that obsolete varieties which appeared on the check list of the American Iris Society are omitted, as well as newly named varieties which have not yet been introduced into commerce. Group two includes the beardless iris, or apogon, and the crested iris, or evansia. This group is not so complete as the first, especially as regards Japanese iris. Mr. Wister states that the present chaos in the nomenclature of these varieties is due to (1) the carelessness or unscrupulousness of certain Japanese nurserymen in sending out varieties incorrectly labeled, (2) the difficulty of spelling Japanese

The next stop was made at the range of Thomas R. Fries, who built himself a new place last year, consisting of six greenhouses, filled with choice potted plants. Mr. Fries grows many thousands of bulbs and he and his son are busy men. At Albert M. Herr's we saw endless quantities of geraniums, benches of choice rooted cuttings and thousands of stock plants. stone snapdragons and Lenox stocks were extra fine.

At Peter Brown's geranium and pansy establishment we were escorted by Mr. Brown and his son. After going through this well kept place, we were served with refreshments by Mr. Brown, and these consisted of wine and cigars. From here we went to Fred Ritchy's place, where geraniums are the only output. Endless quantities of fine stock were seen here. Mr. Ritchy annually handles many carloads of lettuce and celery and other produce. At Fred Ruof & Sons' carnations and sweet peas are in fine condition. They also grow many potted blooming plants and handle immense quantities of bulbs over the Easter season. The sons also conduct a well regulated market stand and do a fine business.

At Suter, Bauman & Caldwell's we saw some of the best carnations noted throughout the trip. Sweet peas and daisies for cutting were noticed. The new iron-frame house, which is planted to roses, was admired by all. This firm does a fine business. It is located near the Greenwood cemetery. Dinner was secured at a café, after which H. D. Rohrer's Sons were called upon. In carnations, Enchantress Supreme and White Enchantress are grown, with promise of a heavy cut of blooms. Several houses are planted to peas. An immense crop of Primula malacoides, in 4-inch pots, found a good sale. Cinerarias and Primula obconica in 5-inch pots in quantity are well grown. Several houses of Grand Rapids lettuce, to be followed by geraniums in 4-inch pots, were noticed. Several houses of cyclamens were grown during the season just passed and a fine lot of seedlings are to be seen in 2½-inch pots.

The next call was made at the range of W. B. Girvin. Carnations there show that a good crop has been cut throughout the preceding months. The rose houses seem to be breaking well. The new iron-frame house, which is planted to roses, is possibly the finest in Lancaster county. A new battery of boilers has been installed and a model heating plant is to be found here. At Charles M. Weaver's range we found the houses are almost entirely planted to roses. Lloyd Weaver, the son, is in charge of the rose houses and he is to be congratulated upon the fine condition of the crop. His police dog, Jack, seems to thrive in the rose temperature. Carnations are the only flowers considered worth growing at the place of J. Wade Gayley. His carnation stock is extraordinary. These plants began to bloom last October, and he has been cutting from them all winter. His Laddie are superb. Two benches of Beacon, left in for two years, are a forest of growth and bloom. In white, Matchless is the favorite. Ward also is a profit-maker with him.

Quality is the word at Charles B. Herr's range. Carnations only are grown, and his stock is unsurpassed. Belle Washburn for red, Matchless for white, Ward for pink, are the favorites. Lassie will be discontinued. Elmer J. Weaver's pink seedling will be grown another season. Mr. Herr's Laddie plants are real top-notchers. The last call of the day was made at the range of A. N. Rohrer, the pioneer carnation grower of that district. His stock is up to its usual fine form, and one is always benefited by a visit to this fine old grower. The party then returned to Lancaster, leaving for Reading at 6 p. m.

Various Notes.

E. P. Hostetter's new sweet pea is attracting the attention of florists from many points. Among those who called on him last week were W. Atlee Burpee, Jr., and George W. Kerr, who were impressed with the vigor and make-up of this wonderful new variety.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Herr celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary this week, and entertained some of their friends at dinner.

John F. Moore, of the Rosery, had an

MARCH DELIVERY

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

PRODUCING CIRCULATION.

We operate two Foley greenhouses, 20x110 feet each, and heat them with hot water. The boilers are the American No. 36-5. It is almost impossible to keep the temperature up to that required for our purposes and we find that the water in the boiler will boil over before the pipes in the greenhouse get warm throughout one-half of their length. It is our belief that this condition arises from the fact that the circulation is sluggish, but we should like to have your opinion on the matter. We have been advised that circulating pumps are the things we need to obviate this difficulty. How can we remedy this condition?

O. H. W.—N. D.

Nothing in the above statement affords any idea of the cause of the trouble. An electric pump would undoubtedly improve the circulation, but without knowing more regarding the arrangement of the radiation, it is impossible to state absolutely that this would correct the difficulty. The Union Pump Works, Battle Creek, Mich., makes a specialty of pumps for this purpose.

In most cases a sluggish circulation is caused by using too small flow pipes, or by having the returns below the top of the boiler. To maintain 50 to 55 degrees when the outside temperature is 30 degrees below zero, in a house 20x110 feet, with thirty inches of glass in the side walls, it would be advisable to use five 2½-inch overhead flow pipes and fifteen 2-inch returns. For two such houses a boiler rated for 4,000 square feet of hot water radiation will be needed for use with soft coal. The circulation will be greatly improved if the flow pipes are overhead and run downhill, and if the lower ends of the returns are above the top of the boiler.

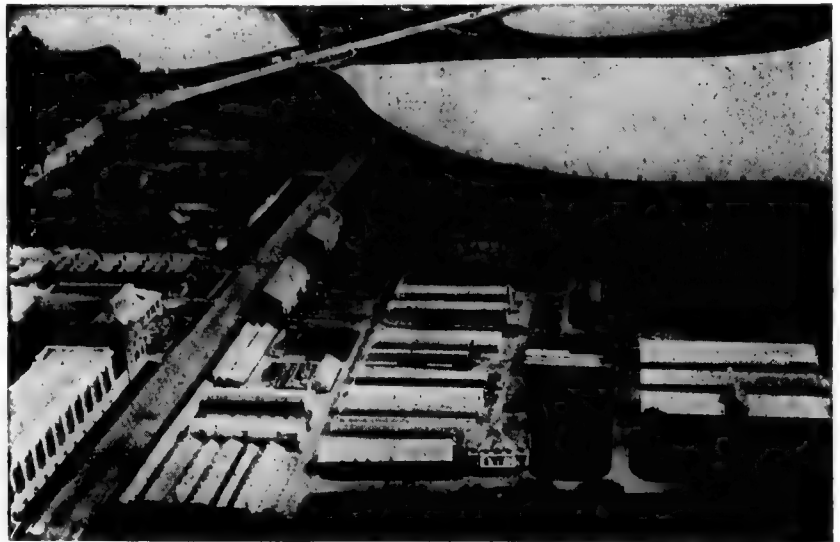

The use of a mercury generator, or some similar method of securing a closed system, thus placing the water in the system under pressure, will not only improve the circulation, but will, in a measure, correct troubles due to a deficiency in the number or the size of the flow pipes, and will also increase the efficiency of the return coils.

DETERMINING BOILER CAPACITY.

Will you kindly instruct me as to how the capacity of a boiler is determined?

W. H. B.—O.

The capacity of a boiler varies with the type of boiler in use, the quality of the fuel burned and the height and diameter of the chimney. It is, therefore, impossible to give any exact rule in answer to your question. However, a hori-

Uncle Sam's Greenhouses

When Uncle Sam builds a greenhouse he is mighty particular about how it is built and what goes into it. He employs the best brains available to develop and maintain the departments of the government where botanical and horticultural research and experiments are conducted.

Merit alone is responsible for the selection of Kroeschell Boilers for heating the Conservatories of the President, the Plant Introduction Garden of the Department of Agriculture, the U. S. Propagating Gardens and many other government houses all over the country, too numerous to mention in this space.

Where there are rigid requirements, Kroeschell Boilers are invariably picked to fulfill them, because a highly successful service performed for years has made Kroeschell Boilers stand far above all other boilers.

Install a Kroeschell Boiler in your greenhouses, and it will not be long before you realize why millions upon millions of feet of glass are heated by Kroeschell Boilers.

zontal, return-flue, tubular boiler might have five or six times as much direct fire surface as its grate surface and fifty or sixty times as much indirect flue surface. On the other hand, a horizontal, sectional boiler would have not much more than three times as much direct fire surface as it has grate surface, while the indirect heating surface would be less than ten times and possibly only five times as large as the grate surface, especially if soft coal is to be used as fuel. With either a tall chimney or one with a large diameter, the relative amount of indirect heating surface could be materially increased.

The efficiency of either direct or indirect heating surface will be inversely proportional to the amount of surface. This relates to the heat that would be supplied and not to the economy gained. The latter would, of course, be increased if there is a reasonable amount of indirect radiation. From the foregoing, therefore, it will be readily understood that unless one knows the type of boiler, the size and the relative amount of direct and indirect heating, one can not tell how many feet of either direct or indirect heating surface there should be.

In the case of steam boilers an old rule was to estimate that each horsepower of the boiler will supply 100 square feet of radiation, but while this would be approximately correct for large boilers where there is a regular fireman, it would be more satisfactory if the radiation is limited to fifty square feet of radiation for each horsepower if the boiler is a small one. When hot water is used nearly double as much radiation can be carried per horsepower as with steam.

A simple and fairly accurate method of estimating the horsepower of a tubular boiler is to consider that each tube three inches in diameter and twelve feet long will furnish steam equivalent to one horsepower. For tubes longer or shorter than twelve feet or more or less than three inches in diameter the boiler will be proportionately more or less than one horsepower for each tube.

PIPE and FLUES

ALL SIZES of second-hand pipe, with new threads and couplings, in random lengths or cut lengths. Also make a specialty of handling boiler flues for retubing boilers or for greenhouse piping. All flues are trimmed and thoroughly cleaned by machine.

Keep a Daily Record of Temperatures in Your Greenhouses

J. K. Alexander, the dahlia king, East Bridgewater, Mass., writes, under date of Dec. 7, 1921: "Your thermometer is the best I have seen for my business."

Records are as important in the growing business as in any other business. Progressive growers who spare no effort in raising highest grade stock use Standard Recording Thermometers and know the great aid of keeping records of temperatures. Your equipment is far from complete if you have no Standard Recording Thermometer.

The actuating element of the Standard Recording Thermometer is of lamina metal, which, besides being extremely sensitive to temperature changes, is practically indestructible. Record charts are furnished either daily or weekly, and the whole mechanism is contained in an attractive metal case fitted with lock and key, which insures the record from being tampered with.

The clock movement is of extremely high grade; everything about the instrument is up to the highest possible standard of manufacture.

The Market.

The market has not been so active of late as it previously was. Stock has had a chance to accumulate. Carnations are plentiful and are selling at from $4 to $6 per hundred. Laddie brings $10 and $12, but large lots can be had for less. Roses are more plentiful, but the prices of these are the same, $6 and up. Sweet peas, with short stems, are abundant. The better grades of stock are not so plentiful. Jonquils sell at $5 and $6 per hundred. Paper Whites are on the wane.

Lilies are in evidence; callas make $2 to $2.50 and Easter lilies bring $3 per dozen. Pussy willows are selling at $4 per hundred sprays. Other available stock includes violets, valley, mignonette, stocks and calendulas. Potted plants have been in demand for sick rooms.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

The final days of the pre-Lenten season have been busy ones for the florists. Sales in potted plants in bloom have been active. While there has been a slight shading off in wholesale prices, it has not been reflected in any material change in the retail figures. Although there have been no large social functions so far this season, as a whole, it has been a fairly satisfactory one, the larger number of small gatherings having created a demand that has kept pace with the supply.

Various Notes.

The Better Business Bureau of Providence has been organized in this city for the purpose of improving trade by the elimination of untruthfulness from advertising and selling arguments. Among the charter members of the organization are the Westminster Greenhouses, the New Dimond Co. and the Colonial Flower Shop.

Smith, the Florist, Reuben Popkins proprietor, now located in the Washington market, corner Washington and Union streets, has taken the lease for the florist's store in the new Providence-Biltmore hotel.

MaeNair has recently renovated his enlarged store, corner Chestnut and Broad streets, and now has a handsomely furnished sales room.

Max Villers made a business trip through southeastern Massachusetts last week for J. E. Koppelman.

Ed. Brooke, of T. J. Johnston & Co., was in Boston last week, looking for novelties.

Vose had the decorations for the recent Cavedon-Jalbert wedding, at Woonsocket.

The general assembly has voted an appropriation of $16,000 for the suppression or extermination of gypsy and brown-tail moths in this state.

G. Bohl had the elaborate decorating of Rhodes-on-the-Pawtucket for the annual ladies' night of Harmony Lodge of Masons last week.

N. M. Silverman, of Boston, who recently closed a branch store in New London, was in the city last week looking for a location. W. H. M.

Gonzalez, Fla.—J. H. Iddings is expecting to grow plants for the trade. He will specialize in bulbs.

Lakewood, N. Y.—A third greenhouse at the range of Williams & Phillips is just being completed. This firm is having a large demand for tomato and cabbage plants.

The Market.

Carnations in large quantities could be bought last week as low as $6 per hundred. The warm weather brought them out in large numbers and they are good in quality. Democracy and Laddie are $10 and $12 per hundred. There was a surplus each day on carnations, but the market cleaned up well February 26. The market as a whole was brisk and, although there was a lot of stock offered, it cleaned up pretty well. Roses also are much more plentiful, the prices ranging for good stock from $8 to $25 per hundred. Hadleys are bringing from $20 to $40 per hundred. Some American Beauty roses came into the market at $9 per dozen.

Easter lilies are being offered at $20 per hundred, but they are not in demand, owing to the large quantity of cheap carnations that are available on the market for funeral work. Freesia is priced at $1.50 to $4 per hundred.

Sweet peas also have taken a drop in the market. The best peas are to be had at $2, while some of the shorter-stemmed stock was offered at $1.50.

Cattleyas flooded the market during the week and these sold as low as $35 per hundred. The sale of lily of the valley was slow at $8 and $10 per hundred. Jonquils moved fairly well all through the week at $6 per hundred. Selected stock brought $10 and $12 per hundred. Single violets, locally grown, were plentiful, and are of excellent quality, prices ranging from $7.50 to $10 per thousand.

A large stock of potted primroses at 50 cents to $1 each were offered, but the market failed to absorb any quantity. Potted hyacinths and tulips have been in good demand.

Various Notes.

Gude Bros. Co. have announced that they will begin the erection of three large houses and a garage at their north-east range. The houses will be 45x250 feet, and will be devoted largely to the production of carnations, Easter lilies and greens. As soon as these houses are completed, Mr. Gude plans to go ahead with additional construction work. He anticipates a continuance of the present good business throughout the summer months.

ASK FOR OUR CATALOGUE

It costs but 25¢ to fumigate the average greenhouse

ASIDE from its deadly certainty, the most satisfactory feature of Hall's Nicotine Fumigator to a greenhouse man, is its remarkably low cost. Three cones of this deadly tobacco powder will rid the average greenhouse (20 by 100 feet) of aphids, thrips and similar soft-bodied, sucking insects. There are about thirty cones in a 2½-pound tin.

Hall's Nicotine Fumigator retains its strength indefinitely—12½% pure nicotine guaranteed.

It lights quickly, burns evenly and will not go out. No waste—every particle is consumed.

Ten-pound tins, $8.50; 2½-pound tins, $2.50; 1-pound tins, $1.25.

Buy from your dealer. If he is not supplied, order direct from us.

Other Hall Nicotine Insecticides are: Hall's Free Nicotine; Hall's Nicotine Sulphate; Hall's Tobacco Dust.

The Market.

The reports from the St. Valentine's day business were, without exception, better than ever before. Plants and little novelties caught the eye of the trade. Business last week has averaged equally good. Prices are on the decline, and the florists are looking for an increase in the quantity of orders. Bulbous stock is in profusion everywhere.

Various Notes.

An extra amount of funeral work has kept the force at the Lanternier store busy. One might almost call it "blanket week," inasmuch as the call has been for an unprecedented number of them.

The Flick Floral Co. furnished elaborate decorations for a bridge party that was held in the ball room of the Anthony hotel. The decorations consisted of palms and ferns, large baskets of cut flowers and blooming plants, all carrying out the idea of spring. On each table was a little basket containing four nose-gays, which were later given to the guests. This firm also furnished the decorations for a luncheon at the Goldman home, where a large number of guests were entertained. The table decorations consisted of large bunches of roses and spring flowers and a small colonial bouquet for each guest.

The Knecht-Freese Floral Co. has an attractive new delivery car.

The Doswell Floral Co. was kept busy last week with funeral work and the automobile show. S. N.

Piqua, O.—Clarence McVety has purchased the Petersimer business here and will go into the business of growing cut flowers and plants for the trade.

as we have specialized on CYCLAMEN for years, and are constantly improving our strain and methods of growing.

Through the use of a specially prepared compost, we have produced wonderful root action and a fine foliage, in fact we have never had a finer lot of seedlings of the very best known varieties.
We established a new record with our CYCLAMEN plants last fall when we shipped them in full carload lots to the East.

Remember—Our plants have no trace or sign of the mite or any other diseases CYCLAMEN are subject to.

Orders booked in rotation. Satisfaction guaranteed.

REMINISCENCE.

THE COLEMAN BULB FARM,

Joe Coleman, Grower, Ravenna, O.

At this time I wish to thank my customers, old and new, for their liberal orders. It is now ten years since I learned the difference between a Gladiolus and a Sunflower; then as a traveling salesman I saw a field of Glads in bloom from a car window on my way from Columbus to Richmond. I doubled back to New Madison and went out to see this field and talk to the owner, Mr. Coblenz. Then proceeded to buy a half bushel of Mrs. F. King bulblets; thus my start in the bulb business. Some of my customers have bought their bulbs of me year after year for eight years. These have been busy years; my hobby has been hybridizing and bringing out new varieties. The COLEMAN originalations won the A. G. S. Silver Medal at Detroit, 1919, and again at St. Thomas, Canada, 1921. My bulb farm is located joining the city limits of Ravenna and occupies 26 1/2 acres; have a new storage and ample equipment for "carrying on." Come see us. In this week's issue will price bulbs per hundred for convenience, but in most cases can furnish them by the thousand.

VERY SPECIAL!

For $12.00 I will send 5000 selected bulblets of the new pure white Gladiolus Lilywhite and include 10 blooming size gratis. Lilywhite is the long desired pure white Gladiolus of vigorous, healthy growth; great multiplying power; straight spikes opening six to eight blooms at a time; an ideal forcer, early as Halley and the best commercial pure white to date.

Awarded first prize by New York, Massachusetts and St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada, Horticultural Societies and American Gladiolus Society. This variety will be grown eventually by the million and practical florists will get stock at once.

Send for our descriptive list of cut-flower varieties suitable for retail florists; also testimonials from leading growers.

GRAPES

WHY PAY A BIG PRICE

For No. 3 Grape plants, when you can get my No. 1, from 3 to 6 cuttings, for 1 cent, and one good strong cutting will grow a very superior plant to the No. 3 stunted, feeble growth vine? See the point?

The No. 3 plant is a cull from the nursery row, and was grown from a weak cutting that lacked life and vitality enough to make a vigorous, strong, "full of life" and vigor plant. Send for list and prices of good, strong cuttings of Agawan, Campbell's Early, Catawba, Concord, Delaware, Moore's Diamond, Moore's Early, Niagara, Worden, etc.

NASH NURSERY, THREE RIVERS, MICH.

GRAPE VINES.

Concord, 2-yr. No. 1, 6c each; Concord, 1-yr. No. 1, 4c each. Niagara, 2-yr. No. 1, 10c each; Niagara, 1-yr. No. 1, 6c each. Moore's Early, 1-yr. No. 1, 7c each. Cash. Can ship at once or in the spring. Packing free.

BUNTING'S NURSERIES.

Box 6, Selbyville, Del.

GRAPE VINES.

Strong, vigorous, No. 1 Concord, $7.50 per 100, $60.00 per 1000. F. o. b. Packing free.

Concord, the standard grape for eating and for wine, thrives and yields heavily where other varieties will not.

R. G. TITUS, PORTLAND, N. Y.

PELARGONIUMS

WE ARE ON THE MARKET WITH

a large stock of 3-in. Easter Greeting.

This stock is "Templin Quality," and if purchased during March, shifted into 4's and 5's, will quickly develop into prize stock for spring sales. If shifted in early March they should bring from 500 per cent to 1000 per cent profit. This is not imagination, it is the history of Easter Greeting. There is nothing like it as a money getter. It can be grown on Geranium space and will bring three times as much. It has stood the test since we introduced it in March, 1914. It has steadily grown in favor. We offer this fine 3-in. stock for immediate or future shipment at 10c each in any quantity. The plants will be packed perfectly, so no leaves will be broken and no extra charge. Our packing and plants have our reputation at stake. When you see the plants you will want more.

RALPH E. HUNTINGTON, PAINESVILLE, O.

HYBRIDIZED DAHLIA SEED.

This seed is raised from the most up-to-date Dahlias in existence. No place in the world have Dahlias been brought up to such perfection as they have been around San Francisco. This mixture contains all colors and types of Peony, Cactus and Decorative varieties. Our rainless California summers make it possible to get seed even from the very double varieties, a result extremely difficult in States where it is rainy during the time when the seed should set.

The seed we sent out in previous years was highly praised by all who raised Dahlias from it, but this seed is far superior to what we have sent out in previous years. The seedlings will commence to flower two months after sowing and almost a month earlier than plants raised from bulbs.

Walden, N. Y., Feb. 14, 1921.

Richard Diener Co., Kentfield, Cal.

Gentlemen: The Dahlia Seed received from you last year turned out fine. Could not think Dahlias could be grown from seed in such short time. Had some very fine blooms. One yellow Peony flowered that was extra fine, some 8 inches and a clear canary-yellow. Everyone who saw it was amazed at the size grown from seed. Had a clear flesh-pink; beautiful under lamp light. Respectfully,

Wm. McBrier.

The Handiest Thing About the Greenhouse

Florists find almost daily use for the Auto-Spray in controlling aphids and other insects, in preventing plant diseases and for watering "flats" in which small seeds have been planted.

Auto-Spray No. 1, shown here, operates by compressed air, giving a fine even spray. Two pumpings—12 to 15 strokes each—will furnish pressure enough to empty the machine. An extension rod enables you to reach climbing vines.

Write for FREE catalogue and descriptive Spray Calendar, prepared by Cornell University specialists. Ask your dealer to show you Auto-Sprays No. 1, 5, 6 and 25.

HORTICULTURAL BOOKS

DISCOVERED BY RICHARD DIENER.

A discovery of tremendous importance to everyone interested in plant-breeding and plant life. Any form and size of flowers, fruits and grains can be obtained by application of these laws, in the quickest possible way. They are the first workable laws ever discovered in plant and animal-breeding. Included is an explanation of What Plant Life Is; Animal Life in Relation to Plant Life; What Plant Sports Are, and other valuable information. A pamphlet of sixteen pages, elegantly printed and illustrated. Price, $5.00.

GREENHOUSES

60-FOOT KING STEEL FRAME HOUSE BUILT FOR W. B. GIRVIN, LEOLA, PA.

“Proved Performance Houses”

IT IS ALL VERY WELL TO DISCUSS A GREENHOUSE BEFORE IT IS CONSTRUCTED, BUT THE REAL TEST OF VALUE IS BASED ON PAST PERFORMANCE.

IT IS ON THIS THEORY THAT KING GREENHOUSES ARE DESIGNED AND CONSTRUCTED.

IT IS ON THIS BASIS ALSO THAT KING HOUSES HAVE BECOME KNOWN AS “PROVED PERFORMANCE HOUSES.”

MR. GIRVIN WRITES:—“IT IS THE BEST GROWING HOUSE IN THE WORLD.”

AGMCO VEGETABLE HOUSE—MEN PLANTING LETTUCE.

AGMCO PRICES ARE DOWN TO BED ROCK NOW

If you are going to build this summer and you put off letting the contract another month or six weeks, you will very likely pay more for the house than you can buy it for today. Every greenhouse manufacturer depends on original sources for his supply of raw material and when the market stiffens with a spring building boom throughout the country the price of greenhouses will go up. When every greenhouse manufacturer is busy in the months of May, June and July, you cannot expect special concessions on price and you cannot get special service. Our prices on our standard stock houses are very low and you will find it pays to get our figures before you buy.

OUR MISTAKE

Last week we showed the above picture and entitled it as having been furnished for Hardy F. Hill of Charleston, Ill. This should have read "Claude Wisely of Murphysboro, Illinois." The photographs are very similar.

Dear Sirs:—

You will note your ad on the back of The Review this week. You have the wrong name on this; it is the photo of the house you built for me; I know it when I see it, for she is a dandy; haven't had a broken glass in it as yet.

Yours, Claude Wisely.

Compare These Details Of The Two Constructions And Come To Your Own Conclusions

Right you are, the Semi-Iron house has our regular guaranteed wrought iron post, galvanized angle eave plate and sash bar clasps, but it has no steel rafters.

The new Number Two Construction, which costs not a penny more than the Semi-Iron, has a complete iron frame. It has steel rafters extending from the eave post to the ridge.

With the Semi-Iron there are no rafters, so the roof bars have to be larger, and the roof stiffened and given the needed extra support, by purlins and columns. That's why the Semi-Iron has so many columns, while the Number Two Construction has but two columns, even in a house forty feet wide.

Not only do you get a full Iron Frame House in the Number Two Construction, but you get one of L & B's, high class in every particular.

How we can sell you such a house, up to 40 feet wide, for exactly the same cost as a Semi-Iron, is hard for you to figure out.

The fact is, we can do it, so what more do you care?

Quick deliveries. Quick erections. You act quick, and you'll get quick action.

The Semi-Iron House has no rafters. The post stops at the eave.

The Number Two House, really extends its post, as a rafter, right up to the ridge. Note that good rugged splice plate. It's double—one on each side.

Compare These Details Of The Two Constructions And Come To Your Own Conclusions

Right you are, the Semi-Iron house has our regular guaranteed wrought iron post, galvanized angle eave plate and sash bar clasps, but it has no steel rafters.

The new Number Two Construction, which costs not a penny more than the Semi-Iron, has a complete iron frame. It has steel rafters extending from the eave post to the ridge.

With the Semi-Iron there are no rafters, so the roof bars have to be larger, and the roof stiffened and given the needed extra support, by purlins and columns. That's why the Semi-Iron has so many columns, while the Number Two Construction has but two columns, even in a house forty feet wide.

Not only do you get a full Iron Frame House in the Number Two Construction, but you get one of L. & B's, high class in every particular.

How we can sell you such a house, up to 40 feet wide, for exactly the same cost as a Semi-Iron, is hard for you to figure out.

The fact is, we can do it, so what more do you care?

Quick deliveries. Quick erections. You act quick, and you'll get quick action.

The Semi-Iron House has no rafters. The post stops at the eave.

The Number Two House, really extends its post, as a rafter, right up to the ridge. Note that good rugged splice plate. It's double—one on each side.

Lily of the Valley

PRODUCES

A POT PLANT "PAR-EXCELLENCE"

For Easter Sales April 16
For Mothers' Day Sales May 14

Our "Supreme" Quality Berlin Pips Make Production Easy

Lily of the Valley is always in great favor with the flower-buying public and when offered in pots or pans containing 25 or more blooms, invariably finds a ready and quite profitable sale, especially at such times as Easter and Mothers' Day (one Chicago grower having disposed of over 2000 pots last year in a wholesale and retail way). Berlin-grown Pips, of which our "Supreme" Quality is a selected strain, can be flowered inside of 25 DAYS FROM TIME OF PLANTING, and are of the easiest culture. Book your order now for a liberal supply of these high grade Berlin Pips, and we will express them to you in good season, so that you can produce blooms for sale on two of the most active Florists' Merchandising dates of the year.

PRICE "SUPREME" QUALITY BERLIN PIPS	}	250 for $10.00
		500 for 15.00
		1000 for 28.00
		Case of 2500, per 1000, $26.00

Do not miss this grand opportunity to have a supply of these real "profit-makers" on hand for the two live flower-selling dates of the year—especially Mothers' Day, when pot plants are usually at a premium.

NOTE—When ordering, please state number of Pips desired for both Easter and Mothers' Day, as same will be forwarded on different dates in order that growers may bring them into flower in time for the respective occasions.

Hardy Lilies

A few cases of Hardy Lilies planted now will likely come in very handy, blooming at a time when stock is usually in short supply. These flowers last longer than many others. Furthermore, they improve the character of design work when used in connection with other flowers. The quality is A-No. 1, and we ship

Don't Be Caught Short Without our patented cardboard Wreath Forms

Experience has shown us that most of our trade has paid too much for their Wreath Forms because they held back their orders until shipment had to be made by express. This increased the cost of the merchandise from 25 to 35 per cent. Besides, our customers lost business because they did not have the goods on hand—their customers would not wait when delivery could not be made at once. The profit on such specialties comes through having the goods on hand when wanted. It does not pay to approach the Christmas holidays with little goods on hand.

Therefore we suggest to you that you place your orders now for full requirements in Christmas Wreath Forms.

Send for our line of samples of cardboard Wreath Forms as illustrated in this advertisement. Do it now. Prices and samples will be sent gratis on request. We make the following sizes:

- Wreath Forms—4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 16-inch.
- Star Forms—4, 6, 7, 9 and 12-inch.
- Heart Forms—5, 6 and 7-inch.
- Cross Forms—14x21-inch and 18x30-inch.

Write us today about your requirements.

Easter Plants

We are now preparing a large stock of Easter Plants, such as Easter Lilies in pots, Otaksa and French Hydrangeas in all sizes, Rambler Roses tied in shapes, making a splendid growth in Dorothy Perkins, Excelsa and Tausendschoen. Our Lilies are looking fine and will be just right for Easter. Would suggest, whenever possible, to have Lilies shipped while in white bud, as it avoids all bruising in shipping. Orders solicited now for shipment at any time before Easter. There will be a scarcity of good Easter stock this year, so protect yourself by ordering early.

Hydrangeas will range in price from 50c to $3.00 each according to value.

Rambler Roses from $1.00 to $3.00.

Lilies, 25c per bud or flower.

Asparagus Sprengeri, 3-inch, 7c each.

DIGGING OUT OF THE DEPRESSION

That florists have suffered less than other merchants in the business depression of the last eighteen months is partly due to circumstances which favor this trade, but the especially satisfactory records of many are due to their own determined fight for sales. Here is how Horgan got his.

PERHAPS you are located in a community which has passed through the period of business readjustment without serious setback to its merchants. A number of florists in various localities throughout the country report that conditions have been thus kind to them. But more likely, during the last year and a half, you have had reason to note with apprehension the unwillingness of the public to spend money with the liberality that it did the two seasons before. Doubtless you have been seeking a way to meet the situation as it has confronted you, in order to maintain profits at a satisfactory level. In this case you will be particularly interested in this article, for it relates the way a florist of the south—a section hardest hit by the depression—put forth efforts to increase his sales to make up for the economical trend of his old customers.

Dan C. Horgan is well known south of the Mason and Dixon line and the name of his firm, the Idle Hour Nurseries, is familiar to florists all over the country. He put the situation this way:

Conditions Not What They Were.

"No one can fail to appreciate the fact that conditions are not now what they were, a fact particularly true in this section. Right in the center of the cotton belt, we are in a section that seems to have been worse hit and has suffered more than any other part of the country I know of. You doubtless know that 'old man boll weevil' got all of our cotton this year, which leaves our customers all in pretty bad shape."

"In such a condition of affairs," said Mr. Horgan, "one might think a florist foolish to put money into advertising. If the public cannot buy, it would seem to be throwing money away to urge it to do so."

But that was not the way Mr. Horgan looked at the problem.

"We figure that the worse conditions are and the duller things get, the more one is necessarily compelled to advertise. We also figure that people read advertisements more when conditions are bad, for the reason that they are continually hunting bargains in the newspapers, and while they are hunting for and reading the bargain advertisements, they are bound to take in the florist's advertisements also. For this reason if the florist does not get any immediate results in the way of business from the bargain-seeking persons, he at least is hammering his name into their heads. They are unconsciously soaking it in, so to speak," says Mr. Horgan.

How strongly Mr. Horgan backs up his beliefs with action is indicated by his statement: "I do not mind telling you that since this depression set in so strongly with us, about October 1, we have spent for advertising, during the four months of October, November, December and January, the total amount of $4,199.32."

When St. Valentine's day approached, Mr. Horgan saw in it the opportunity to move the flowers that were becoming more and more plentiful. A short time before February 14 he began placing small advertisements in the daily newspapers of Macon and gradually worked up to a large-sized advertisement at St. Valentine's day. The early advertisements were small, occupying only two inches in two columns or five inches in one column. The first ones were simply reminders. One, for instance, was headed with the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," and beneath it offered only the suggestion, "Flowers are the most delicate, intimate and appropriate offering for a valentine."

Another small one read: "Flowers for your valentine. Is there a better day than February 14 to interpret one's sentiment? Aren't flowers—glorious, radiant jewels of nature—symbols of sentiment, affection, devotion? Rely on this sagacious florist to 'fix up' the precious St. Valentine bouquet with flowers fresh cut daily from our own greenhouses."

St. Valentine's Day Opportunity.

Other small advertisements carried similar messages. One talked about the appropriateness of flowers for St. Valentine's day and the quality of those from the Idle Hour Nurseries. One suggested a corsage as a valentine for the young lady going to a St. Valentine's day party. Still another suggested to the young man that he "tell her with flowers" on St. Valentine's day. The first two mentioned in this paragraph are reproduced on page 22.

Most important was the attractive appearance of these small advertisements. Small sketches of appropriate subjects appeared in each one, serving to attract the eye and immediately show the point of the advertise-

Tell Her with Flowers

St. Valentine's Day is the one time of the year when flowers carry their most expressive message. Make this year's Valentine a Valentine of flowers. We have many special ideas in floral Valentines that will please her immensely. If she is far away we can arrange to deliver the flowers to her by wire.

Our flowers are fresh cut daily from our own greenhouses.

ment. As the holiday came nearer the size of the advertisements was increased to five inches in two columns. In these no sketches appeared, but the display type, which was of large size, and captions designed to attract the eye, took their place. One of these read:

RIGHT NOW—

You will find us prepared to execute appropriate Valentines of Flowers. Each an exquisite gift—for the Sweetheart, the Wife, the Mother or the Friend.

And if you want your Valentine's entertaining to harmonize perfectly with the day, let us arrange the decorations.

It will be to your advantage to place your order early.

Buy your flowers of a flower shop.

At the bottom of each advertisement appeared the trade slogan, "Say It with Flowers," and also the individual slogan of the Idle Hour Nurseries, "Quality Plus Service."

Another of the advertisements of this size appealed particularly to the young man. It read:

WE LIKE

To be called on to assist young men in the selection of "just the right kind" of a pretty bouquet to send out to HER as a Valentine Gift.

You fellows who know by experience appreciate that "human element" which is found at this shop.

We can't help but be interested in the welfare of our good customers.

Below was a price list of the leading flowers offered for the day.

Telegraph delivery was not forgotten. Indeed, a particularly good advertisement was used to tell of this service. It read as follows:

NOT SO BAD

You had meant to call us a week ago and ask us to make arrangements to have a box of pretty flowers delivered to her home on St. Valentine's Day.

—and she lives a thousand miles away.

DON'T WORRY!

Florists' Telegraph Delivery—of which we are a member—enables you to send flowers just as quickly as a telegram.

Phone Us Now—Number 224.

The large advertisement which was the climax of the St. Valentine's day publicity was nine inches deep on three columns. An illustration depicted a girl receiving her valentine flowers. Below the advertisement read:

FLOWERS FOR ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

Flowers make a fitting expression of your sentiments on St. Valentine's Day. Always indicative of kindest regard and thoughtfulness, they convey an additional touch of esteem and love on this day.

Say it with Flowers this Valentine's Day. A bouquet in a handsomely decorated Valentine box makes a highly desired gift.

We have a splendid variety of flowers and plants from which to choose.

A price list of the leading cut flowers for the day, at moderate figures, appeared prominently in this advertisement.

Result of Study.

Mr. Horgan's ability to plan and carry through so effective an advertising campaign is the result of his careful study of, and close attention to, florists' advertising. First, he receives clippings of advertisements of florists all over the United States. He has obtained further assistance by subscribing to four different advertising services. In addition he uses the folders prepared especially for florists by several firms.

He has made a study of the situation in his own city. He says: "We have in our city both a morning and an evening paper. At one time we thought it was best to advertise in only one paper, but we have found by experience that it pays to use them both. I personally handle the advertising department of our business. I am thoroughly convinced that this is one end of the flower business that the manager or proprietor should look after himself."

Special Sales.

Special sales as a means of attracting customers to the store are occasionally held at the Idle Hour Nurseries. Mr. Horgan says: "We find this a paying proposition. For instance, one week we sold rose bushes for 10 cents each. Another week we sold 3-inch pots of Asparagus plumosus for 15 cents each. Another week we put on a sale of pansy plants for 25 cents a dozen. Then we had a sale of 6-inch Boston and Whitmanii ferns, when we offered $2 stock at 50 cents a plant. Two weeks before Christmas we put on a special sale of red ruscus for 25 cents a bunch. This enabled us to dispose of all this stock a week ahead of time and so we did not have to fool with it during the Christmas rush. Three days after Christmas we found ourselves with about 20,000 Paper White narcissi coming into bloom. So we put on a special sale of them for 35 cents a dozen and they went like hot cakes.

"Frequently we lose money on the stock we sell at special sales. But since we put these on as an advertising feature, this does not concern us. We know these sales are the means of bringing people into our shop to buy flowers again who stopped purchasing of us when flowers became so high-priced during the war."

Has Made Success.

Mr. Horgan's views on advertising are particularly interesting in view of his notable success at Macon, Ga. He started in the florists' business there in May, 1905, with, as he says, "a plug horse and a mule nerve." He now has twenty-five greenhouses, comprising 100,000 square feet of glass, and forty-five acres of land, on which the greenhouses are located and on which are also eight cottages for his growers to live in comfortably and the same number of houses for his colored help. Mr. Horgan's energy has permitted him to take active interest, at the same time, in civic affairs. He was a director of the Macon Rotary Club for two years, was vice-president of the country club for several years and is at present a director of the Macon Chamber of Commerce and a member of the county road board. Mr. Horgan is now and has been for several years state vice-president of the Society of American Florists and state representative for the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association. Perhaps his St. Valentine's advertising was so successful because his heart was in it, for he, to use his words, "attributes his success in life to having the best wife God Almighty ever gave man."

Cumberland, Md.—John Paul has acquired possession of the Strand Flower Shop, on Liberty street. This store will be operated along with the store on Center street. Mr. Paul will be manager of both.

Flowers For St. Valentine's Day

SURELY there are fewer things that are more expressive of St. Valentine's day than Flowers. They make the most acceptable and appropriate of gifts. They must be artistically arranged with the latest and finest quality ribbons and the newest style baskets. The acknowledged superiority of our Flowers and service give that much desired dignity and worth to the gift. Only the best is to be had here, fresh cut daily from our own greenhouses.

THE RETAIL STORE

A PAGE OF HINTS AND HELPS FOR THE RETAIL FLORIST

CAMPAIGN FOR MOTHERS' DAY.

Though Mothers' day is two months away, the campaign for business on that day has already been begun, in at least two of its phases.

A firm which styles itself "creators of advertising specialties" has sent a circular letter to confectioners headed with the question, "If $18,000,000 are spent for flowers on Mothers' day, why not for candy?" The letter quotes as a statement of one of the officers of the National Association of Confectioners this sentence, "Every confectioner, whether retailer, jobber or manufacturer, owes it to the industry to encourage the campaign—Make Mothers' Day a Candy Day." It asserts that the campaign as an experiment received endorsement last year and adds, "The success of this campaign is already assured. From an official source we learn that $18,000,000 is spent annually for flowers on Mothers' day. The biggest drive to overcome the advantages of the florist will be staged by the confectioners." It further urges that the candy merchant place his order for posters and mottoes at once, because the drive will start early and all confectioners will take part.

To offset this threat against the florists' business for Mothers' day appears a knight errant in our behalf in the person of "Uncle Robert." This individual is a New York business man who gained his title in the newspapers by the Christmas parties he gave to poor children at his home. In traveling over the country at the present time he is interviewing newspaper editors, mayors, governors and other persons in prominent places, in a campaign to make Mothers' day more universally recognized. He is urging that all flowers be held symbolic of Mothers' day and not carnations alone—something which The Review and leading florists have urged since the holiday was first conceived. Uncle Robert is working for florists and with them. He has broken into print in the newspapers in a number of cities and doubtless will secure still more publicity.

But even with Uncle Robert's aid, we shall have to step lively if we are to cope with the candy men's competition for business the second Sunday in May.

FLOWERS FOR THE SICK.

Among the uses for flowers which have been given publicity by the trade in the effort to promote a constant demand for flowers throughout the year, that in the sick room has been one of the most emphasized. It seems, indeed, one of the most important as well, to judge by the favor which the propaganda of the florists in this direction meets.

Last week, in one of the St. Louis newspapers, appeared three small advertisements of the Ayres-Tabbesing Flower Co., Fred C. Weber and the Mul-lanphy Florists, above and below a space of about four inches in two columns, which contained the following in prominent type.

There is someone to remember who now lies sick.
And to this one whom you love a suggestion of the fragrant outdoors may work wonders.
"Say It with Flowers."

Not a bad way of putting it. Other florists might use the same idea profitably.

MAKING PRICES POPULAR.

Florists all over the country have noted the demand of the public for lower prices and the most successful members of the trade are seeking to satisfy that demand. It is not possible, of course, to cut the price of expensive merchandise to anything like a popular level, but it is possible, especi-

Fleischman flowers are the very finest they must be expensive."

GETTING THE MONEY.

How to get the money is a question of increasing importance to those florists who sell on credit—and who does not?

M. L. Cohen, of the Jackson Floral Shop, Chicago, uses a form letter which he clicks out on his typewriter on the rainy evenings, as follows:

Dear Sir: The only thing in the wide world that we can find the matter with business is just this: There is not enough money in circulation.

This condition can be easily remedied. And we'll do our share if you'll do yours.

If you will send us a remittance of $..... to balance your account we will immediately see that the amount is kept circulating. Then we will both sleep better for having done our share to place business back on a normal basis.

"We have had wonderful results from this letter," says Mr. Cohen. "Business has been good in this section and I am looking for a still larger increase in flower buying as the prices get within reach of everyone."

MOUNT VERNON AT LYNCHBURG!

Washington's birthday the J. J. Fallon Co., of Lynchburg, Va., entertained its patrons and many others to a colonial lawn reception at Mount Vernon, all of which took place in the company's display window.

The reception proper was well attended by a group of miniature French dolls, all of whom were fittingly and prettily robed in appropriate colonial costume. And in their arms they bore lovely colonial corsages, while they bowed and gamboled on a lawn of moss before the Washington mansion on Mount Vernon, which was realistically established on a miniature painting at the rear of the window.

Here and there on the lawn were other corsages, placed to appear to the best advantage. Each doll was illuminated by an electric light and a spotlight was arranged to throw a brilliant flood on the home of Washington. Without doubt these winsome lassies succeeded in "vamping" considerable business into the store.

GLOECKNER ON THE JOB.

In January the New York state legislature convened at Albany, and at that time William G. Gloeckner, of Albany, with useful foresight, sent messages to many florists in the state who do a telegraph delivery business and reminded them that it was customary to send flowers to local representatives at the time of convention. Result? Many of those florists did a big business and Mr. Gloeckner was rewarded for his alertness by a great deal of free publicity in the daily press and elsewhere. Now the legislature is about to close and, as Mr. Gloeckner promised at the time of its opening, he has made another big ally at this time, to offer the public values which are attractive because they are reasonable. The customary flood of spring stuff is on its way and there is an abundance of potted bulbous plants at low prices.

Taking advantage of the situation, the Fleischman Floral Co., whose clientele in Chicago is of the highest class, appealed to the public demand for popular-priced merchandise by an advertisement in the Chicago Tribune, March 2. It occupied about ten and a half inches in two columns and read as follows:

"For $2.50 we will deliver to any address in Chicago this beautiful pot of growing tulips. They come in rich reds, sunshiny yellows and delicate pinks. Or for the same price a pot of growing hyacinths in lavender, pink or white. Of course, there is some one you want to make happy and such a gift will make any room cheerful for a week or so.

"Yet some people think that because play. This is his letter to New York state florists:

The New York state legislature will probably close during the week beginning March 10. As you are, no doubt, aware, quite a few of the senators and assemblymen receive flowers from their constituents or from the political organizations in their districts. The Albany county Republican organization always sends roses to the senator and each of the assemblymen from this county. Schenectady, Rensselaer and other county organizations do the same. As a rule, they spend about $10 for each bouquet.

I think this is a part of our business that we have neglected in the past, but there is no reason in the world why every senator and assemblyman should not have a basket or vase of flowers on his desk on closing day.

Do not confine yourself to political organizations alone. Clubs and friends of the members will willingly send flowers if their attention is called to the matter. You can point out that the senators and assemblymen work night and day for a meager salary of $1,500 and the only way their constituents can show their good will is by sending them a few flowers when their work is done.

You have just about two weeks to work this thing up, so do not put it off until the last minute. Get at it right away and get an order. Please remember—if ever you get them started it means an order for you at least twice a year—on the opening day in January and on the closing day in March or April.

GUDE BROS. CO. TO MOVE.

Steps have been taken for the removal of the business of Gude Bros. Co. from 1214 to 1212 F street, northwest, Washington, D. C. Bids are being requested for construction work and refrigeration engineers have been consulted by William F. Gude, head of the firm, preparatory to making the new quarters one of the handsomest flower shops in the city of Washington.

The premises are now divided into two stores and it will be necessary to remove the dividing wall. In accomplishing this, large iron beams will have to be installed. This will take a considerable length of time, and the entire interior will have to be redecorated.

According to the plans which are in a preparatory stage, two large iceboxes will be put in on the first floor, one for storage and the other for display purposes. The refrigerating plant now at 1214 F street will be transferred to the new quarters. The office will be located at the rear of the store and will be equipped with all modern office fixtures by Buchbinder Bros., Chicago. New fixtures will also be installed in the sales department and will include marble-topped tables, pier glasses, and modern devices for increasing the efficiency of the Gude service.

While it is planned to begin this work within the next few weeks, it will probably be July 1 before the firm can move in. The property was recently bought by Gude Bros. Co. in anticipation of this move. At the time of purchase the front was remodeled and new display windows installed that will prove adaptable to the new business. Until recently the two stores were occupied by firms dealing in women's wear of high grade.

F. H. B. CONFERENCE

DR. MARLATT EXPLAINS.

Call for Conference.

Though Dr. Marlatt has termed the notice of the coming conference on quarantine 37 as "complete and fully informing," members of the trade have been so insistent in their queries as to what it was to be about that he has at length issued a statement of explanation. Under date of March 2, the following announcement was made by him:

"Recent correspondence indicates that the call for a conference at Washington April 19, to discuss the classes of plants to be admitted under the limitations established in regulation 3 of quarantine 37, is not clearly understood.

"Since the establishment of quarantine 37, the classes of plants included under regulation 3 have been criticised as either including too much or not enough; in other words, the criticisms have been of such contradictory character as not to warrant making any changes in the operation of the quarantine.

"The Federal Horticultural Board has, however, repeatedly announced that it was ready at any time to confer with propagators and also importers to consider any additions to the classes of plants included under regulation 3 which could be shown to be justified and reasonably safe. The board has given hearings also to two foreign delegations; one from Belgium last May and the other from Holland last June, and promised them that a conference on the general subject of regulation 3 would be held sometime during the present year. The call for the conference recently issued is, therefore, in response to individual requests and carries out the promise to these foreign delegates.

Fruit Stocks in Danger.

"As representing another phase of the subject, during the last season the infestation of fruit and rose stocks has been unusually heavy with larval nests of the brown-tail moth and also with similar but much smaller larval nests of an insect new to the United States, which might possibly prove to be a serious enemy to the horticulture of this country. In spite of repeated warnings to European shippers, the condition in this respect of imported stocks does not appear to be improving, and it becomes necessary to consider what further steps should be taken to protect the country from the entry of these and other pests in connection with the importation of such stocks.

"The board does not feel that at the present time it has sufficient information to warrant making any changes in the classes of plants included in regulation 3, but hopes to secure from this conference information that will clearly justify action on one or more of the following propositions: (1) The continuation of the classes now in regulation 3, (2) the need, if any, for restricting the classes of plants now included in this regulation, and (3) the need, if any, of adding to the classes of bulbs or plants under this regulation.

"Except as outlined above, the board has no program, drastic or otherwise, of changes in regulation 3 in mind, and has merely opened the subject, in response to requests, for free and full discussion. There is no thought of weakening in any material way the protection which the quarantine now gives, but it is possible that some minor amendments can be made without risk. C. L. Marlatt."

TO ENLARGE BOTANIC GARDEN.

The first definite step was taken March 4 toward enlargement of the National Botanic Garden, Washington, D. C., looking forward to making it one of the greatest botanic gardens in the world, when Lieut. Col. Clarence O. Sherrill, officer in charge of public buildings and grounds and executive officer of the fine arts commission, assured a joint conference of senators and House members that he is ready to turn over to the Botanic Garden the requisite land already owned by the government.

It was agreed that land south of the present site of the Botanic Garden, which lies on Pennsylvania avenue between First and Third streets, and following the line of the old James Creek canal bed from Third street to the Capitol power plant, and thence south to the Potomac river, joining the grounds of the War College on the south and Buzzards point on the east, should be turned over to the jurisdiction of George W. Hess, director of the Botanic Garden, for development.

A joint resolution authorizing the transfer is to be introduced this week in the House by Representative John Langley, of Kentucky, chairman of the House committee on public buildings and grounds, and in the Senate by Senator Bert M. Fernald, of Maine.

This plan for extension of the garden has long been advocated by Director Hess, who is ambitious to develop it into the greatest botanic garden in the world and who has received promises of co-operation from many foreign countries.

NATIONAL FLOWER.

The mountain laurel will become the national flower of the United States if the joint resolution introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative Taylor, of New Jersey, is adopted by Congress. The resolution sets forth that, whereas the United States is without an official national flower and whereas there has been much discussion throughout the country in regard to the adoption of a suitable flower for that purpose, the mountain laurel be adopted and thereafter be recognized as such an official national flower on all official occasions and ceremonies, both foreign and domestic, where the United States or its representatives are participants.

BUSINESS EMBARRASMENTS.

New York, N. Y.—James G. Bruce, Inc., wholesale florists, 43 West Eighteenth street, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy March 2. The liabilities are given as $3,534, with assets of $2,742. The principal creditor listed is Clarence Slinn, $2,249.

New York, N. Y.—Charles Shongood, auctioneer, will sell March 13, by order of the court, the assets of Sam Seligman, whose bankruptcy was reported in last week's Review. The sale will take place at 10:30 a. m. at 116 West Twenty-eighth street, the office of Mr. Seligman, and will include his assets, consisting of florists' supplies, novelties, office fixtures, etc. The place will be open for inspection of the assets from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. March 10 and 11.

CONSIDERING TODAY'S CANNAS

By FLOYD BRALLIAR.

THE first installment of this article, which appeared in The Review for March 2 under the title, "Taking Count of Today's Cannas," dealt with cannas from a point of view of their culture, the selection of soil, the methods required for success, etc., and described some of the best varieties in whites, pinks and bronze-leaved pinks. The discussion is here concluded and deals with cannas of still other colors, the first of which is the yellow canna.

I have long hoped that the day would come when we might have a good yellow canna. Possibly no variety did so much to popularize the canna as Florence Vaughan, which is classed as yellow, in spite of the fact that it is spotted with red. Although this variety should have been discarded long ago, it is still grown widely, and its production of bloom and brilliancy of color cannot be gainsaid.

Many yellow cannas have been introduced since the advent of Florence Vaughan, but all of them have shown notable weaknesses. Either the petals are fragile and break in the wind, they sun-scald, or some other notable weakness is evident. When Buttercup was introduced I hoped a good yellow canna had appeared, and in some respects this was true, but on the whole it proved a disappointment. Queen Helen, the yellow King Humbert, which was introduced a few years ago has already become popular and possibly it is the best of the generally known yellow cannas today, but this variety is also speckled like the old Florence Vaughan, and is too fragile.

Richard Wallace, which was introduced a number of years ago, is, perhaps, still the best solid yellow canna that is plentiful enough for general planting.

Golden Gate.

For a time Golden Gate bade fair to surpass it and certainly it is a much better yellow, for Wallace at its best is only a deep sulphur color and sun-scalds badly. Golden Gate, however, turns red in the throat to such an extent when the weather is hot that it is already losing its popularity. Jane Addams is a much improved Golden Gate, lacking the red center, but for some reason it is not generally known. It is better than Wallace or Yellow Humbert. Juanita, a bronze-leaved variety, has beautiful flowers that are almost orange yellow, but it is not free enough and the flowers are too small.

For the last five years I have been breeding for a good yellow canna and have been rewarded with a Firebird seedling crossed with Juanita and then crossed with Golden Gate that is the best yellow canna for this climate that I have seen. There are only a few plants at present and they may not hold up so well as they appear now, but, so far, the flowers have been almost as large as The President and have been a pure pumpkin-blossom yellow. During its second season, in the hottest weather some of the flowers faded somewhat and showed red in the throat after the order of Golden Gate, but there was not enough red to be noticeable at a distance of ten feet. I had the misfortune of having half of this stock stolen last fall, but will be able to increase the remainder this year and give it a thorough trial.

Features That Attract.

The Conard & Jones Co. has introduced the only other yellows in recent years, Wilmer Atkinson and Mrs. Antoine Wintzer, that show real merit with me. Mr. Wintzer sent me several as yet unnamed yellow seedlings that have made a good showing and the varieties Wilmer Atkinson and Mrs. Wintzer, which have been offered to the trade for the last two years, are both good. Apparently all of these are Buttercup crosses and resemble Buttercup, except in size. Both have large flowers, as well as large trusses. Both have the weakness of fading under our hot southern sun, but neither fades so badly as Richard Wallace, and either of these is therefore superior to any other variety that we now have on the market. Mrs. Wintzer is much the better of the two and comes nearer to the ideal yellow than any other canna on the market, and even at the high price is a good buy.

It seems best to consider the spotted and parti-colored cannas together, especially as none of them is of any distinctive color. A few years ago Henry A. Dreer, Inc., originated several good cannas at the establishment at River-ton, N. J., three of which have proved to be exceptionally good, at least in this country. Eureka has already been considered as one of the best whites. The other two are Gem and Favorite. Gem is creamy yellow, speckled and spotted with red. Favorite should be described as a large-flowering, free-blooming yellow, heavily mottled with faint red spots. It could be described as a much improved and glorified Florence Vaughan. For bedding work in large parks its general effect is yellow and I like it much better than Yellow King Humbert, its nearest rival. It is one of the freest blooming cannas we have; it is of just the right height for bedding, and both the individual flower and the flower heads are large. Of the reasonably cheap cannas for bedding, I believe this is the best variety. As soon, however, as some of the varieties previously described are plentiful enough to be had at moderately low prices, I predict that they will displace this variety. Gaiety is a moderately large-flowered and wonderfully free orange and scarlet canna, bordered and mottled with yellow. It gives a brilliant effect and is rightly named.

Candelabra.

Panama, Candelabra and Niagara are all splendid new varieties of differing shades of orange red, blotched and bordered with yellow. All are good, but Candelabra is clearly the best of the lot.

With us this Candelabra has been exceedingly free-flowering, and both the size of the individual flower and the flower head is larger than either of the other varieties. In general appearance it is a deep reddish orange. The foliage is good. Its one outstanding feature is the fact that each stem produces five heads of bloom, instead of three, the standard number, and this means that the older plants are still blooming freely when the young shoots are in full bloom, thus producing an unusually heavy show of flowers in the bed. These four cannas have always appealed to me, but the public does not seem to appreciate them. They are as great improvements over such older varieties as Gladioflora and Gladiolus, which should now be discarded. Mme. Crozy, an old and universally known variety, still has a place. It is dwarf and produces such a wealth of brilliant red flowers, with a yellow border, that it is perhaps more popular than any other of the variegated cannas, even though the size of the flower is small. No one has, to our knowledge, duplicated the brilliant color combination of Mme. Crozy in a large-flowering canna. I succeeded in getting it one time, but lost the seedling over winter. It seems to me that here is a field for canna breeders to exploit.

Canna The President.

I am fully aware that there are many varieties of both yellow and variegated cannas offered to the public, but in my estimation they should all go together into the dump as back numbers, beautiful indeed and valuable in their day, but that day has passed.

Red Cannas.

The time was when I should have mentioned a long list of red cannas as being valuable and worthy of propagation, but today I mention only a few, because the others are out of date.

Firebird was introduced by Vaughan's a few years ago with a great flourish of trumpets, and immediately attracted wide attention. It comes as near to being a marvelously good canna and to being wholly worthless at the same time, as any variety, perhaps, that has ever been offered to the public. The size of flower, the color and the shape are all that could be desired and have never been surpassed and perhaps never equaled. But the foliage is so weak that by the time the plants get a good start the foliage begins to burn and die. I have never seen a single plant of Firebird that grew throughout the season without the foliage burning and dying so badly that it was an eyesore, although I have grown this variety ever since the year it was introduced and have tried hard to select the best plants, in order to overcome this difficulty. Firebird, however, has proved to be one of the most valuable cannas ever produced for the canna breeder, and practically all of the best cannas that have been introduced in the last five or six years contain blood of this variety. Weak, diseased foliage seems to be recessive when anything is crossed on Firebird, and the size and shape of flowers seem to be dominant. I have seen but one exception to this. I grew one Firebird seedling whose foliage was so exceedingly bad that we never could get it to bloom. The foliage always burned and died by the time the flower buds began to show, and while an abundance of new shoots came from the roots, they died before they had a chance to open their flowers. I mention this because it should be of interest to the plant breeder, for it is an unusual thing for a character which is recessive to appear strongly dominant in a particular cross.

Fiery Cross was the first of the good Firebird seedlings to be offered to the public, being introduced by the W. Atlee Burpee Co. I consider it as good a canna as there is in existence today. Its height and habit of growth are just right. The flowers are large and of the most intense fiery crimson scarlet. Two hundred plants growing at Chattanooga, Tenn., last summer attracted unusual attention and praise. No one can go wrong in planting this variety.

The President is the second of the Firebird seedlings offered to the public and was introduced by the Conard & Jones Co. It is now generally supposed to be the best canna in existence. Growing it side by side in our fields with Fiery Cross, I have not been able to decide which is the better. In fact, were it not for The President's distinct touch of yellow in the throat and a thread of gold on the edge of the petals, I am not sure that if the two became mixed, I could sort them out and be sure that each kind was true. I have seen The President growing in quantity in most of the canna-growing districts of the United States, and unhesitatingly say no one should be without either this variety or Fiery Cross. Possibly The President has a little better foliage and is a little more robust, but I am not sure of this.

Last summer I saw several large beds of a new canna in the grounds of the Department of Agriculture at Washington and was told it was a Firebird seedling produced in the government greenhouses. I did not get this officially, however; neither did I succeed in learning the name. At any rate, it is a third candidate for the place of the best red canna. Fully as large and fully as free-blooming as any of the others, it is not quite so brilliant a red, but is no less beautiful for this reason. Doubtless, it will soon be offered in quantity to the public.

Cheerfulness is nowhere nearly so superb as the three varieties just mentioned, but it is an entirely different shade of red and is an appealing color. In our canna fields all visitors are attracted by Cheerfulness and I predict that, unless a better variety of the same color is offered, this canna will soon become popular. It certainly deserves a place among our best cannas. Cheerfulness really should be described as a blending of orange and scarlet, with a brilliant golden border. Without apology, I pass all the other red cannas with green leaves, as they are out of "dare," in spite of their many good qualities.

Bronze-Leaved Cannas.

Bronze-leaved cannas have always been popular and deservedly so. King Humbert has been long recognized as the standard variety and today it is still one of the best varieties of its color. It has two or three outstanding weaknesses, however, and is bound to be superseded in time. First, the foliage does not remain a good bronze, but runs green, especially when the weather becomes hot; this is not so noticeable in the north and east as it is in the south; second, King Humbert is a decided cropper and, where the season is as long as it is with us, we have periods in which it is almost out of bloom. For this reason many of our park superintendents prefer planting the much inferior David Harum, because David Harum is always a mass of brilliant red and has better foliage than King Humbert.

Wyoming undoubtedly has the most beautiful bronze foliage of the standard cannas. It is a strong grower and is a little too tall for some places, but is exceedingly good. The flowers are a little larger than those of King Humbert, and are brilliant orange in color. There is no other canna of its color worth considering and it is, therefore, one of our best varieties.

Statue of Liberty is a new candidate for public favor and has more beautiful bronze foliage than any other canna, the leaves being twice as large as those of King Humbert. It is a much more beautifully colored flower, being fully as large as the old Wintzer's Colossal, which was almost worthless, simply because the flowers usually "flopped" within an hour or two of the time they opened. Statue of Liberty has flowers practically as large, which are stiff enough to stand up, except in the worst weather. I do not think that enormous individual flowers are any particular advantage, especially when only two or three are open at a time, but two or three of these make as big a show as a dozen of the common varieties. The greatest weakness of this canna is the fact that it is from seven to nine feet tall. Where an especially tall canna is required, it is the best thing ever offered to the public.

In my estimation Nokomis is the most beautiful of the bronze-leaved cannas. The flowers are large and are an intense, velvety vermilion red. The heads are large and the plant is a fairly good bloomer; but it does not multiply as rapidly as I should like. The variety is still high-priced and I have never seen it grown to any extent except in our own trials, so cannot speak as enthusiastically of it as I might.

Louis Reverchon is a canna that is as cheap as King Humbert and, I think, much better. The foliage is just as good; the flowers are much brighter and do not show the tendency to run orange or yellow, a thing that is so noticeable in King Humbert. At the same time, it is a much freer bloomer and is not a cropper.

The Future Canna.

We are always interested in looking forward to what ought to be accomplished in cannas. We must and, I believe, soon will, have a yellow canna that is as good as The President or Fiery Cross. I also believe it is going to be possible to produce a large-flowering yellow with good bronze foliage. These two cannas are much needed at present. There are fragrant wild cannas in the world and I have been trying for two or three years to secure their seeds or roots. It seems to me that the canna is getting to be pretty nearly perfection in present lines, but new advancement should be made along the lines of fragrance and lasting qualities when cut. If we can produce a canna that will stay in bloom three or four days after it is cut, we shall have multiplied its usefulness by ten. Already I have seedlings that I have used in table decorations with good results where they only had to be kept one or two days. May it not be possible that by growing a multitude of seedlings and selecting carefully we may yet produce the cut flower canna?

THE GLORY FERN.

Adiantum Glory of Moordrecht.

Adiantum tenerum is a species that was discovered in Mexico many years ago and since then has been found in various other places, but, although this fern has been in cultivation such a length of time, more than a century in fact, yet it is by no means common in the American trade of the present day. But, as we sometimes find in genealogies, the second or third generation may be more famous than the first, and such a condition sometimes appears in the world of botany also.

The first great departure from the regular form of Adiantum tenerum was found in Barbados about 1865, when that lovely variety known as Adiantum Farleyense was discovered, and this still remains the most beautiful of its family. But A. Farleyense is tender and needs careful handling in order to be useful commercially, and in addition to this it does not produce spores, with the result that propagation depends upon division of the crowns.

These are disadvantages that are not easily overcome, and when that later form of Farleyense appeared, within the last two decades, the one now commonly known as the Glory fern, but correctly labeled Adiantum Farleyense Glory of Moordrecht, it was soon found that this was a commercial fern of the Farleyense type, and one that has been received with open arms by the progressive florists of the country.

Comes True from Spores.

The Glory fern produces spores that will germinate, and it comes true from the spores, and this naturally helps its trade popularity, and while it does not produce spores with the same freedom that Adiantum cuneatum and many other maidenhair ferns do, yet sufficient may be had to make a crop, if they are gathered right, sown right and taken care of.

It is a warm house fern, requiring a temperature of 60 to 65 degrees at night, full light in the winter, and only light shading in the summer to protect it from the strongest sunshine. And when given plenty of moisture, reasonable ventilation in warm weather, and a good, open soil containing some dried cow manure, this fern makes quite rapid progress. The accompanying illustrations afford comparison of Farleyense and the Glory fern. That of the latter shows clearly that this fern does not need much staking in order to make a presentable specimen in a 5-inch pot. W. H. T.

FOR DAHLIA GROWERS.

In August, 1920, the Wholesale Dahlia Growers' Association was organized. At the last meeting, held in New York in September, 1921, J. K. Alexander, East Bridgewater, Mass., was elected president; I. U. Underhill, of the Babylon Dahlia Gardens, Babylon, N. Y., was elected vice-president, and N. A. Hallauer, Ontario, N. Y., was elected secretary and treasurer.

This organization has for its purpose the advancement and protection of the dahlia-growing industry of this country. By coöperation through its secretary, information valuable to both growers and buyers will be kept on file. If you are a buyer of dahlias in wholesale quantities, it will pay you to keep in touch with the secretary. If you are a grower, not already affiliated with the association, write our secretary at once and join the association. Your coöperation is necessary; moreover, you cannot afford to grow dahlias and not belong to the association. Full information may be obtained from the secretary,

N. A. Hallauer, Sec'y.

Lorain, O.—At 10 a. m., March 25, the sheriff of Lorain county will sell in partition proceedings the Stehle greenhouses here. The property consists of 30,000 feet of glass and is conservatively appraised at $11,000. The sale will take place at the courthouse at Elyria.

OPEN LETTERS from READERS

DO EASTER LILIES PAY?

Does it pay to grow lilies, or does it not? The price of giganteum lilies, which are the most popular variety, has, like the price of the French Roman hyacinths, been gradually advancing until, where we used to get them at $40 per thousand for the size 7 to 9, we now pay $49.50 for a case of 300. But the cost is not so much the cause of the question as the number of buds and blooms. Where we used to get an average of from three to seven buds and blooms, we now get two to four, or less than 300 buds and blooms to 100 bulbs. Besides, whereas there used to be less than five per cent diseased stock in Japanese giganteums, now we expect twenty per cent, and in some cases fifty per cent of the total bulbs are diseased.

Here at St. Catharines, Ont., a case of 7 to 9 bulbs costs $49.50, or better than $57 with freight, exchange and customs tax. This is an average of 19 cents per bulb. Now, if 2,000 bulbs, potted, are worth $500 and twenty per cent of these are lost on account of disease, leaving 1,600 plants, an average of three buds or blooms to a plant, making a total of 4,800 buds or blooms, if sold at a top market price of 25 cents, will produce returns of $1,200. Upon deducting the $500, one is left $700 as the return on a bench 6x100 feet, which is the space needed from November 1, when lilies are potted, until roughly six weeks before Easter, or March 1 this year. During the remainder of growing time to finish this stock double the space will be required for hardening the plants off.

In my opinion, formed from growing lilies the last twelve years, lilies are due for a setback, such as French Romans received, unless the Japs either reduce the prices or furnish us with stock that will produce a higher percentage of blooms, as it takes as long to finish a lily with two to three blooms as it takes to finish a plant of four to six blooms and both occupy the same space.

Some one may say, use large bulbs, of the 8 to 10 size. I might say that I have done so the last two years, and the difference does not pay. W. W. Walker.

HOW TO AVOID TROUBLE.

Somebody is always trying to take the joy out of life; I read the article headed "Ban on Rose Bushes," in The Review for February 9. No doubt, the doctor mentioned will tell the farmers to kill their hogs because they have hog lice; to kill a cow because she has cattle ticks; to kill a chicken because she eats eggs; to burn the beds and the house because there are bedbugs about; not to plant eggplants because the potato bug will eat the eggplants; not to plant cucumbers because green aphids will kill them all; not to plant tomatoes because the tobacco worm will eat the whole bush; not to plant vegetables in the ground because grub, cut and eelworms will eat them up, and not to kill moles, field mice, etc., because they stir the soil when they get under the roots. I say that there is a medicine for all these pests, if the growers will leave out the get-rich-quick and grow only enough potatoes to insure adequate handling. My trouble is that the price of the medicine for these pests has gone too high. F. W. C.

TOBACCO DUST HALTS SNAILS.

We noticed the reply to F. D. W.'s query on "Eliminating Snails," in The Review for March 2, and have something to say in that respect from our own experience. We have heard several ways suggested to get rid of this greenhouse pest and we have tried most of the "remedies," but we are sorry to say that we have found them of little effect.

So we tried out a few things for ourselves. And we found that the most positive way is to use tobacco dust. The snail appears to dry up the moment it comes in contact with the dust. The tobacco dust is sure death. The slime on the snail absorbs the tobacco and the effect is immediate. This remedy can be used freely, because it will not destroy plant life. Try it and see the result. Fairview Greenhouses.

BULBS STARTED TOO LATE.

I brought in three flats of jonquils from the outside. They all came like these I am sending you. I put them in flats November 18. Also what is the matter with my hyacinths? They are not coming along as well as others I see. Specimens have been sent for inspection. J. S.—O.

Your bulbs were placed in the soil too late. October 1 would have been a better time. They did not have time to fill the flats with roots and make a suitable top growth before being forced. If you had left them a month longer, they would, undoubtedly, have come all right. C. W.

DELPHINIUMS

LARKSPURS FOR FORCING.

Perennial and Annual.

Delphinium Belladonna is probably the most popular color in hardy larkspurs. I do not, however, find it to force so well as D. formosum and the various hybrids, all of which latter are more robust in habit and produce much larger and stronger flower stalks than Belladonna. A good many growers today do not know what Belladonna is, and those who have had the best success in forcing delphiniums have used few of that popular outdoor variety.

The amount of sunlight makes a great difference to the growth of delphiniums under glass. The largest and most successful grower of delphiniums under glass prefers to start his plants cool, at 40 to 45 degrees at night, advancing to 50 to 52 degrees as growth progresses. Another successful grower allows his plants to freeze in the beds indoors, using plants a second season. His plants are in solid beds. It is a question, however, whether it would not pay better to discard the plants after forcing them once and utilize the beds for some other flower crop.

Plants started the previous winter prove to be better for forcing than older clumps. Plants kept in flats outdoors and somewhat starved have forced well and seem more immune to damping off than the larger, field-grown clumps. Everyone who has grown these plants indoors admits that careful watering is a necessity, and in the early stages of growth it is always safer to run a little on the dry side rather than the reverse. Well rotted cow and stable manure used as a mulch has proved a good stimulant. Chemical manures seem to make the flowers more flabby.

Stalks five to six, or even eight, feet high will be produced on many of the plants. While mixed hybrids give a fine range of colors, those of the Belladonna color and the deep blues seem to take the best. Anyone can, by careful seed selection, soon make up a fine strain of his own. Some remarkably fine strains are now to be had abroad and California is said to have good ones also. The latter would probably not do so well in the east as the European strains.

Delphiniums ship well 300 to 500 miles. I have not tried shipments of longer distance. I should say, however, that the best success would be had where the grower was fairly convenient to a big wholesale market, one to which he could make deliveries in his own automobile. While forcing delphiniums is not a new practice at all, these plants have come into favor only in the last two or three seasons, and much has yet to be learned regarding their proper treatment. Forcing earlier than February 1 has so far not proved satisfactory. Like all other hardy herbaceous perennials, the plants need a certain period of rest.

Annuals for Spring.

The annual larkspurs do best if sown in January or February for flowering in late spring. They are exceedingly valuable for Memorial day. The fall-sown plants do not move much in the dead of winter, but I have always been able to bloom some in March. Sown in late February or early March, the plants would attain ample size for May sales. They make highly desirable bedding plants, especially for mixed borders, but I should not say they were specially good for window boxes. I consider rosy scarlet the best color, with light pink, dark blue and lavender blue next in favor. White I should class as the least desirable. Though this flower is not a dirty white at all, still, colored flowers as a rule sell better than white. C. W.

FEATURES OF BIG SHOW

NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

Indianapolis, March 25 to April 1.

A rousing meeting of all the Indianapolis local committees was held Wednesday, March 1, Chairman Irwin Bertermann presiding. George Asmus, chairman of the national flower show committee, was present, with Secretary Young. There was a 100 per cent attendance of members. The reports presented showed all detail work to be remarkably well advanced. Executive work is being handled splendidly by Claude Wallin, and the work of the publicity department, in charge of Fred Millis, is all that could be desired; in fact, there is nothing wanting in the way of publicity. Chairman Bertermann is working night and day in the interests of the show, devoting practically all his time to the undertaking. The same might be said of Homer Wiegand, who is chairman of the committee on interior decorations; in addition to show work, he is giving some oversight to the preparation of an exhibit to be made by his house in the large garden class.

Some exhibitors are showing unusual interest in the show. A prominent Chicago lumber dealer is writing to all his customers as follows: "Do you intend to visit the national flower show at Indianapolis, March 25 to April 1? If so, the writer wants to meet you and talk to you. Every time I have written you a letter, I wished I could make a personal visit, but if we are going to continue giving the best values I cannot go to this expense. The national flower show gives me just the opportunity I have been looking for." This might offer a good suggestion to other exhibitors.

Attractions.

Trade space in the show is now being taken up rapidly. Exhibitors realize that the location of Indianapolis is ideal for purposes of an exhibition such as the national flower show, travel facilities being unusually favorable. It is confidently believed that the number of exhibitors will be fully as large as at the last show. Prospective exhibitors should lose no time in getting in touch with the secretary, 602 Chamber of Commerce building, Indianapolis. Floor plans have been sent out to all in the trade, and if anyone has been missed, copies can be had on application to the secretary at the address mentioned. An exhibit at Indianapolis means a personal contact with the trade from Chicago, Louisville, Cincinnati, St. Louis and many other central and adjacent cities.

The competitive exhibits will be numerous and of a high order of excellence. The national flower show committee considers that the removal from Cleveland has affected the scope of the show little, if at all. The strong support of all local bodies, both inside and outside the trade, has tended to remove all difficulties, and there is little anxiety existing now as to the ultimate result.

The automobile show is now being held in the Manufacturers' building, and the committee has had an opportunity to see the lighting effects possible in the building, and the verdict is that they are wonderful. Without question, the show is to be housed in the finest building so far available for a national flower show.

Street car service out to the Manufacturers' building is excellent, the building being reached in a short time, with frequent cars.

The reduction in rates made by the railroad associations is favorable to a large attendance. The reduced rates apply not only to members of the S. A. F., but to all members of affiliated organizations; in fact, to members of any club or association represented on the society's executive board.

The final schedule has been distributed, being circulated far and wide. Anyone not receiving a copy should drop a postal to the secretary with a request for one. John Young, Sec'y.

PREPARING FOR BIG SHOW.

Hoosiers Busy.

The various committees of the S. A. F. are working harmoniously for the fifth national flower show to be the greatest show on record. The transportation committee has made great headway. All necessary arrangements have been completed for an American Railway Express station at the Indiana state fair grounds. This station will be open several days before and during the exhibition. Carload shipments can be shipped directly to a switch at the state fair grounds. Smaller shipments sent to Indianapolis and marked "fair grounds" will be given special and immediate attention. The interurban company will also take care of express. Carload shipments will be sent directly to the state fair grounds.

Officers Named.

An executive office has been opened by Irwin Bertermann in the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce building. Claude Wallin, who is well known for his ability to organize and produce an exposition of this kind on a large scale, has been named secretary of the executive committee for the exposition.

Fred Millis, of Indianapolis, will be director of publicity. Both Mr. Wallin and Mr. Millis have had a broad experience in the handling of such affairs. Mr. Wallin was exposition director for the Indianapolis Industrial Exposition, which was held in October, 1921, while Mr. Millis was in charge of the publicity.

E. H. Mann, of Richmond, Ind., the Irwin Bertermann.

chairman of the out-of-town exhibits committee, has received reports from many of the larger centers, which indicate that large shipments of exhibits may be expected. Mr. Mann recently toured the upper part of Ohio and the region about Pittsburgh in the interest of the flower show. He obtained entries from a large number of florists. Numerous Indiana flower growers who had not entered for the Cleveland show have announced that they will bring exhibits to Indianapolis.

The transportation committee has announced that steam roads have put in effect for florists a reduced rate of one and one-half times a single fare for the round trip to Indianapolis from any point in the United States and Canada. Indiana interurban lines will sell round-trip tickets to the general public during the week of the exposition on the basis of one and one-half times a single way fare. Negotiations are now under way for a similar reduced fare for the general public on steam lines operating within the state.

The fact that the week selected for the national flower show coincides with the spring vacation period in Indiana schools, when hundreds of school teachers from all parts of the state will be in Indianapolis for the semiannual institute, as well as the fact that thousands of children of school age on vacation will be able to take advantage of reduced fares, assures a capacity attendance at the exposition.

Some Important Exhibits.

According to reports received by Irwin Bertermann, chairman of the executive committee, A. L. Miller, of Jamaica, N. Y., past-president of the S. A. F., will bring an exhibit of flowering plants to Indianapolis, and Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass., also a past-president of the society, who is noted for his acacias, is to have a large display of these.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., will bring a carload of stock, including flowering plants and blooming roses; he will also enter an exhibit in the class of 1,000 cut roses.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., and W. K. Harris, of Philadelphia, will bring a car lot of palms and specimen ferns. F. R. Pierson, of Tarrytown, N. Y., who has a splendid collection of fancy ferns, will bring a carload of them.

Efforts are being made by the flower show management to induce Roy F. Wilcox and Howard & Smith, of Los Angeles, and the MacRorie-McLaren Co., of San Mateo, Cal., to send a carload of ericas, and to have E. B. Washburn, of Pasadena, enter an exhibit of palms.

The national flower show management has received word that there will be an exhibit by W. A. Manda, of South Orange, N. J. By his decision to enter a display is assured a splendid exhibit, including trained boxwood and yews.

An added attraction for the aquarium will be a fine exhibit of alligators by A. Wiegand's Sons Co., of Indianapolis. The committee on special features, of which Clarence R. Greene, of Indianapolis, is chairman, is making attractive arrangements for a Chicago day, a Cleveland day, an Indiana State day and Chamber of Commerce day, which will be planned for exposition dates, when there are to be the finest displays of roses, carnations, sweet peas, etc.

From Massachusetts will come the product of leading carnation growers, including S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass.; M. A. Patten, Tewksbury, Mass.; W. R. Nicholson, Framingham, Mass.; William Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., and W. D. Howard, Milford, Mass. C. S. Strout, of Biddeford, Me., will also enter a fine exhibit.

Among the rose growers who will have large displays at the fifth national flower show are John H. Dunlop, of Toronto, Canada, and E. G. Hill and Joseph H. Hill, of Richmond, Ind.

Trade Tickets.

Charles Pahud, of Indianapolis, chairman of the admission committee, announces that special trade tickets will be offered in multiples of 100, which will be available to members of the trade at one-half the regular price of admission; namely, 25 cents each, which includes the tax, or $25 per hundred.

The national flower show committee has agreed to offer a limited number of these trade tickets for the benefit of the trade and large organizations throughout the country.

Judging from inquiries already received, the number of trade tickets authorized will be readily taken up, and the amount exhausted within a few days after their release.

Chairman Pahud has planned to release the trade tickets about March 9 and urges all in the trade desiring such tickets to place their orders now. Checks must accompany all orders, addressed to national flower show headquarters, 608 Chamber of Commerce building, Indianapolis, Ind.

INFORMATION COMMITTEE TELLS.

Points Worth Noting.

It is the aim of the information committee to give the best possible service to the visiting florists at the fifth national flower show.

The registration desk, where all members of the trade are asked to register, will be in the trade exhibition building.

In addition, there will be an information desk in the flower show building, where those in attendance will be prepared to handle mail, lost and found articles; make announcements as to special features, take care of show card writing, etc. They will have time-tables of all railroads and traction lines out of Indianapolis. They will be provided with a list of the local florists, whether retailers or growers, and will have information as to how to reach their places. Besides the men at the desks, there will be several members of the committee scattered about the hall at all times, prepared to give any information as to the exhibits and exhibitors.

A booklet is being prepared by private interests, which will be made use of by the committee. It will contain a map of the city, information on street car service, traction time-tables and directions for reaching the fair grounds, where the show is to be held. Attractions at the various theaters during the week of the show will be listed, as well as places of interest in the city. These booklets will be distributed at hotels, ticket offices, etc.

The committee is conferring with the

WHAT BIG SHOW MEANS.

To the Trade and the World.

The national flower show is the big horticultural jubilee of the flower lovers and producers of America. The S. A. F. and its auxiliary organizations can well be proud of this event that shows our industry in its best dress, bringing down the work of centuries of the world's greatest hybridizers to its present-day state, and we all agree that the advancement in our profession has kept stride with that of any other industry that we know of. When comparison is made between the varieties of flowers and plants that we are now growing and those of former years, we may, indeed, well be proud of our accomplishments. Therefore it is fitting that every few years we celebrate when we say to the public: "This is what we have done, this is our work, and we give all to you to enjoy, to plant, and to make life more beautiful. It is our share in the work of making the world more beautiful and better to live in." Thus it is that the busiest men in our profession unite in this effort, growing especially for this exhibition the best they can, the choicest and rarest of varieties of plants and flowers. That also is one of the big reasons that the attendance by the trade is many, many times greater than at any convention or other event in horticultural circles. Then, there is the artist, the retailer, who is planning to do his bit. As Shakespeare has said, "This is an act that doth mend nature; change it, rather, for the art itself is nature." And finished product will be there at its best.

The Coöperators.

The F. T. D. is preparing an exhibit that will surpass anything the association has done in the past, something that will portray to the people the workings of the wonderful organization.

Just as necessary as are producer and retailer are the men who have the creating of ideas and novelties for the retailer to use in finishing the product. Also may be mentioned the hundreds of exhibitors in the trade section who will have something to offer, and the builders of greenhouses and conservatories, who also are a big factor in the quality of flowers as they are produced today. If the greenhouse builders had not kept pace with the times, no such flowers could have been produced. And so with all of the exhibits.

The busy florists must depend on trade exhibitions to keep abreast of the times. So I believe you will agree with me that we can well call this wonderful exhibition a jubilee of our profession. The committee having this work in charge will be bitterly disappointed if we do not have 100,000 people or more to see our exhibits. No matter what the expense may be, it will be money well spent to visit this great and triumphant exposition of your business.

National Flower Show Committee.

TOLEDO STARTS CAMPAIGN.

February 27 J. L. Schiller mailed an invitation to all growers and retail florists in Toledo, O., to attend a banquet at the Waldorf hotel. About forty responded to the invitation. While the banquet was on, some fine musical selections were rendered by an orchestra procured by F. Schramm. The tables were decorated with individual cut flower vases filled with daffodils and calendulas.

J. L. Schiller was appointed toastmaster by acclamation. Mr. Schiller suggested that all present rise to their feet in token of our sympathy and high esteem for Mr. Bayer, thereby showing our willingness to aid and sustain him in the loss of his father, the late George J. Bayer. Everyone responded in silent testimony.

Mr. Schiller stated the purpose of the meeting as follows: That we agree on a basis of advertising more extensively the sale and use of potted plants and flowers for various uses in Toledo, thereby helping all growers and retailers everywhere; that we use a percentage of our gross income, one or one-half of one per cent, for this purpose; that the meeting be opened for discussion by all present, as to methods and means to be used to procure a working capital; that all personal names of florists be eliminated from the "Say It with Flowers" advertisements in their season; that we discuss how we can best work and best agree to encourage the public to buy and enjoy more flowers while we live; that, if galoshes be good for nothing else, the open tops be decorated with sweet peas. The last statement brought such applause that Mr. Schiller was obliged to open the meeting for discussion. The questions were liberally discussed from all phases, resulting in a subscription paper being passed, each florist pledging the yearly amount he was willing to pay in quarterly payments in advance toward a general advertising fund.

Harry Heint suggested a regular club be formed. Mr. Metz suggested as a name the Toledo Florists' Advertising Club. The name was adopted.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, A. A. Suder; vice-president, Edward Bayer; secretary, F. E. Thompson. The advertising committee is composed of J. L. Schiller, H. Heint, Mr. Magee. H. Heint is treasurer of the advertising committee. The entertainment committee is made up of the following: Mr. Metz, William Krueger and Mr. Avery.

A motion was made and carried that all of the out-of-town shippers submit one-half of one per cent of value of their shipments toward the advertising fund, which directly benefits them.

We have twenty-eight stores and fourteen growers, making a total of forty-two in the business, or an average of about one for each 6,000 people, including Thompson's Flower Store, at Maumee, a suburb of Toledo.

BRITISH GROWERS' CAMPAIGN.

An advertising campaign is being inaugurated by growers of tomatoes under glass in England, having been set on foot by the Lea Valley and District Nurserymen's and Growers' Association, which called a meeting March 2 in London of all associations of greenhouse tomato growers and independent growers as well. The purposes of the campaign are set forth as follows:

- (1) To fight foreign competition in the British greenhouse industry.
- (2) To procure a larger demand for British greenhouse produce.
- (3) To mitigate, as far as possible, the serious slump anticipated in the prices of British greenhouse produce during the present and future years.
- (4) To encourage and facilitate the use of non-returnable packages for all British greenhouse produce.

In order to carry out this campaign on a national scale, it has been decided to form a new association of greenhouse growers under the title of the British Glasshouse Produce Marketing Association, Ltd.

"Perennials for Cut Flowers," by Prof. H. B. Dörner.
Address by E. G. Hill, Richmond, Ind.
Unfinished business, new business and election of officers.

MARCH 14, 8 P. M.

Entertainment by Horticultural Club of the University of Illinois, at Morrow hall, Agricultural building.

MARCH 15, 9:30 A. M.

"What Florists Ought to Know," by Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer.
Open forum concerning the greenhouse on topics of vital interest to growers, conducted by Prof. H. B. Dörner and Dr. P. A. Lehenbauer.

Rates and Arrangements.

At the Inman hotel a single room without bath costs $1.50 to $1.75; a double room without bath costs $3; a single room with bath costs $2.25, $2.75 or $3.25, and a double room with bath costs $4, $5 or $6.

At the Beachley hotel the rates are as follows: Room without bath, $1.50 per person, and room with bath, $2.50 per person.

Luncheon can be had on the campus, either at the university or at the Illinois cafeteria.

Trains leave the Illinois Central depot, Chicago, at 8:45 a. m. The fare one way costs $4.56.

INTERNATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

New York, March 13 to 19.

On the eve of the opening of the ninth international flower show, preparations are fully complete, and the 1922 show bids fair to eclipse in quality and number of exhibits all its predecessors.

The committee is to be congratulated on a number of phases of the show this year, all tending to make the general ensemble different and more attractive to the public. The committee all along has fought against any approach to sameness, and it is believed that when the show opens on the afternoon of Monday, March 13, it will be found that the plan of the show will create a forgetfulness of its predecessors.

The space set off for trade exhibits has been practically all sold. One or two late comers might, however, still

NARCISSUS BULBS

IS THERE A LARGER PLANTING?

Lawler's Narcissus Bulbs.

On the outskirts of Tacoma, Wash., George Lawler grows, on a 10-acre tract, principally bulbous flowers for the city market. Approximately one-half the acreage is devoted to narcissi. The soil is particularly favorable for these and Mr. Lawler has gradually increased his plantings year by year until today he has more than a million narcissus bulbs in the ground. Hitherto, Mr. Lawler has grown the plants for cut flowers to ship to florists of the city of Tacoma. Of late, however, he has been making tests to determine the value of the bulbs he is able to grow for greenhouse forcing. One of the leading bulb men, who has traveled all over the country, declares that Mr. Lawler's planting of narcissus bulbs is the largest in the United States.

Mr. Lawler is located four miles east of Tacoma on the tide flats in the valley of the Puyallup river. The soil is silt, formed by washings from the mountains. It is hundreds of feet deep and finely drained, although but a few feet above sea level. There is abundant moisture in both the soil and atmosphere, with no extremely hot summers or cold winters. Two degrees above zero is an exceptionally cold night temperature. The soil and climate at Tacoma are peculiarly favorable to bulb growing.

In a test of the forcing qualities of the narcissus bulbs grown by Mr. Lawler, made by a Tacoma grower, it was found that, with the same treatment as that given Holland bulbs, the home-grown bulbs bloomed ten days to two weeks earlier and produced a better crop of blooms, according to Mr. Lawler.

Bloom Earlier.

Sir Watkin placed in flats last fall, two weeks after Holland bulbs of Golden Spur, bloomed two weeks earlier than the Holland Golden Spur and bore twice as many blooms. Golden Spur bulbs grown at Tacoma bloom much earlier than imported bulbs, says Mr. Lawler. He adds that Emperor blooms about the same time as Holland bulbs, but has much better blooms in both size and substance.

Mr. Lawler believes there will be rapid growth of the bulb-growing industry in the United States. He asserts it to be the patriotic duty of Americans to produce bulbs of all sorts in the country as fast as men and money are available. He thinks an association of those interested in the actual growing of bulbs would be a good thing.

Plantings by Variety.

The plantings of narcissus bulbs by George Lawler, at Tacoma, include the following varieties and numbers of each:

Double Von Sion	4,000
Golden Spur	35,000
Princeps	48,000
Sir Watkin	90,000
Emperor	120,000
Empress	9,000
Van Waveren's Giant	1,500
Olympia	1,000
Bicolor Victoria	90,000
Sulphur Phoenix	35,000
Orange Phoenix	9,000
Horsfieldii	45,000
Glory of Leiden	18,000
Madame Plomp	45,000
Minnie Hume	3,500
M. M. De Graaff	4,000
Barril Conspicuous	95,000
Elvira	9,000
Mme. De Graaff	5,000
Grandee	10,000
Jonquills	8,000
King Alfred	10,000
King George	10,000
Minister Talma	1,000
Apricot Phoenix	100
Glory of Sassenheim	1,000
Lucifer	1,000
Mrs. Langtry	1,000
White Lady	1,000
Masterpiece	100
Poeticus ornatus	35,000
Pheasant's Eye	150,000
Alba plena odorata	105,000
Total	1,000,200

There are also small plantings of Bed-be accommodated, through limitations which the management has power to make. Personal inquiry as to this is now necessary.

The big gardens will remain the "piece de resistance" of the show, and there are five of them this year.

Innovations will be plentiful this year. Realizing that the public is always interested in anything showing possibilities for a more extended use of flowers, the flower show committee is sparing no effort to create interest. A feature to be inaugurated this year will be found in altar and pulpit decorations. Liberal space has been apportioned to an exhibit demonstrating floral decorations in churches, confined, of course, to the altar and pulpit. Clergy of all denominations have for a number of years regretted the absence of flowers in the services of their different churches, and it might be said that the suggestion for this form of exhibit came directly from pastors. The decorations will be carried out by florists, different decorations for each day of the show. The auxiliaries for the different settings will be somewhat standard in character, but the series of exhibits will be wholly undenominational in character.

Other Features.

Another feature will be a duplicate representation of the wedding bouquet of Princess Mary, used at her nuptials in Westminster abbey, London, February 28. The committee has been in touch by cable with the proper source, and photographic details are expected to be in their hands in time for the exhibit to be staged on the opening day of the show.

The office of the International Exposition Co. has been moved from the Canadian Pacific building to the Grand Central Palace, and all orders for trade tickets should be sent to the company at the new address. The rate is 50 cents per ticket in quantities from fifty to 100, and for 100 or more 40 cents each, with a full rebate for tickets not presented. These tickets all bear the general admission price of $1.

The tea garden this year, operated for the benefit of the Girl Scouts, Inc., and the Virginia Day Nursery, offers unusual attractions, and will be an important feature of the show.

The musical program has been placed in the hands of the Wolfsie orchestra, and Miss Gertrude J. Van Deine will again be the prima donna soprano.

The exhibits of the Garden Club of America promise to be on a greater scale than expected, the interest shown by the different membership clubs being rather remarkable. The list of entries in this section insures that all the space allotted to the section will be filled.

WHO'S WHO IN THE TRADE AND WHY

HUGH SEALES.

OLD England has long been famous for her lovers of the garden and of the hound. So it is not strange to find in Hugh Seales, of Birmingham, Ala., who was born in Manchester, England, a combination of florist and dog fancier. The dogs from Mr. Seales' kennels have won him praise and blue ribbons from many points of the country. Mr. Seales, by the way, is a sportsman in an absolutely uncommercial way. Among his many winners have been Seales' Workboy, Honest Joe, Honest Bob, Seales' Harry, Puritan Mary and Parmitchie Fritz, the marvelous English setter which is today pulling in the ribbons for his master and which appears with his master above. Besides being one of the founders and for a long time vice-president and then president of the Birmingham Kennel Club, Mr. Seales is head of the Alabama Field Trials Club, charter member and director of the Southern Field Trials Club, a member of the Atlanta Kennel Club and the Georgia Field Trials Club. He has been connected with the florists' trade since he was 10 years of age.

sponsible. Primula malacoides and obconica sometimes have diseased foliage. It is usually due to the water supply or a too damp and close atmosphere. The rose may have developed a form of leaf-spot; in this case try spraying occasionally with Bordeaux mixture. If only an occasional plant is affected, do not worry; better discard the plants right away and burn them.

C. W.

NARCISSUS BIFLORUS.

Will you kindly identify the narcissus plant which we are mailing to you? We have lifted one in the bud stage, with the hope that the flower will be open when it reaches you. We have a number of these bulbs, but do not know to what variety they belong. They bloom in this latitude in January and February, but never come in so that they could be used for Christmas.

W. L. H.—Tex.

The specimen submitted for identification is Narcissus biflorus. It is not frequently met with in this country, but has a wide distribution in southern Europe. It is regarded as a hybrid between N. tazetta and N. poeticus. It is of little value from a commercial standpoint.

GEOGRAPHY IN FLOWERS.

Each summer at Lansing, Kan., at the National Military Home, there is an attraction of beauty that annually draws many spectators. It is a lesson in colors, composed of bedding plants, bearing a geographical trend. There is a huge globe towering over a brilliant bed. And so carefully is the idea carried out that on the globe can be distinctly seen North and South America, the Isthmus of Panama and other geographic points in the hemisphere.

A sphere with wooden surface, about eight feet in diameter, is covered with nine inches of soil. This sphere stands on raised ground and covering it, in geographical arrangement, are alternantheras and red and yellow santolinas. On the raised ground about the globe is a mass of S. A. Nutt geraniums, single all phases, resulting in a subscription paper being passed, each florist pledging the yearly amount he was willing to pay in quarterly payments in advance toward a general advertising fund.

FOLIAGE TURNING YELLOW.

We are sending you two specimens, a primula and a Cecile Brunner rose. You will notice that the leaves have turned yellow and have the appearance of being burned. We shall feel greatly obliged if you can advise us as to what causes this.

F. S.—Cal.

The plants were so completely dried upon receipt that it was not possible to determine what your trouble had been. If only a few plants are affected, it may be due to sunburns through the glass. Fungoid affections may be responsible. Primula malacoides and obconica sometimes have diseased foliage. It is usually due to the water supply or a too damp and close atmosphere. The rose may have developed a form of leaf-spot; in this case try spraying occasionally with Bordeaux mixture. If only an occasional plant is affected, do not worry; better discard the plants right away and burn them.

WHO'S WHO IN THE TRADE AND WHY

HUGH SEALES.

OLD England has long been famous for her lovers of the garden and of the hound. So it is not strange to find in Hugh Seales, of Birmingham, Ala., who was born in Manchester, England, a combination of florist and dog fancier. The dogs from Mr. Seales' kennels have won him praise and blue ribbons from many points of the country. Mr. Seales, by the way, is a sportsman in an absolutely uncommercial way. Among his many winners have been Seales' Workboy, Honest Joe, Honest Bob, Seales' Harry, Puritan Mary and Parmitchie Fritz, the marvelous English setter which is today pulling in the ribbons for his master and which appears with his master above. Besides being one of the founders and for a long time vice-president and then president of the Birmingham Kennel Club, Mr. Seales is head of the Alabama Field Trials Club, charter member and director of the Southern Field Trials Club, a member of the Atlanta Kennel Club and the Georgia Field Trials Club. He has been connected with the florists' trade since he was 10 years of age.

C. W.

NARCISSUS BIFLORUS.

Will you kindly identify the narcissus plant which we are mailing to you? We have lifted one in the bud stage, with the hope that the flower will be open when it reaches you. We have a number of these bulbs, but do not know to what variety they belong. They bloom in this latitude in January and February, but never come in so that they could be used for Christmas.

W. L. H.—Tex.

The specimen submitted for identification is Narcissus biflorus. It is not frequently met with in this country, but has a wide distribution in southern Europe. It is regarded as a hybrid between N. tazetta and N. poeticus. It is of little value from a commercial standpoint.

GEOGRAPHY IN FLOWERS.

Each summer at Lansing, Kan., at the National Military Home, there is an attraction of beauty that annually draws many spectators. It is a lesson in colors, composed of bedding plants, bearing a geographical trend. There is a huge globe towering over a brilliant bed. And so carefully is the idea carried out that on the globe can be distinctly seen North and South America, the Isthmus of Panama and other geographical points in the hemisphere.

A sphere with wooden surface, about eight feet in diameter, is covered with nine inches of soil. This sphere stands on raised ground and covering it, in geographical arrangement, are alternately red and yellow santolinas. On the raised ground about the globe is a mass of S. A. Nutt geraniums, single mixed petunias, mixed verbenas and red and yellow varieties of coleus. Around the border of the entire figure are geraniums and Centaurea gymnocarpa.

The work is done each year by the attendant of the grounds, a landscape gardener, and, according to Mrs. T. A. Moseley, of Kansas City, Kan., the effect is worth coming a long way to enjoy, especially in July or August, when the huge sphere is at its best.

SPOT ON VIOLETS.

Will you tell us what the trouble is with the violet leaves which we have enclosed? L. C. F.—Wis.

The leaves are affected by the violet spot or disease in virulent form. Pick off and burn all the badly affected leaves. Pull up and burn any plants which seem hopelessly affected. Maintain a cool, dry atmosphere; a temperature of 40 degrees at night is ample. Do not throw any of the diseased leaves on the floor or below the benches. Cleanliness is a great help in fighting all fungoid diseases. Spray with Bordeaux mixture once a week; it will help a good deal. C. W.

NEW YORK'S CAMPAIGN.

The chairmen of the various committees of the Allied Florists' Association are all working hard to bring their reports on subscriptions up to 100 per cent. Frank H. Traendly, of the Twenty-sixth street wholesalers, is the first to hand in this perfect score. W. H. Badgley, of the Eighteenth street market, reports seventy-five per cent pledged to carry on their last year's subscriptions through 1922. Percy Rigby, of Twenty-eighth street, just back from a short trip, already has forty per cent pledged. Roman J. Irwin, of the seed and bulb committee, is still away, but is expected back the first of next week. Emil Schloss reports a record of eighty-five per cent from the supply houses.

The following is a list of subscriptions collected to date by the above committeemen:

The retailers, in general, have been highly enthusiastic in their responses as to their interest in the matter of co-operative advertising to better the trade. As to their financial pledges, they are but waiting to use the most practical method that the coming mass meeting will recommend.

The circular explaining the association's advertising policy, together with the announcement of this proposed mass meeting for all those interested in the trade, will be sent out soon.

The latest information about the return of A. M. Henshaw, president of the Allied Florists' Association of New York, is that he is expected back from England this week.

AMERICAN SWEET PEA SOCIETY.

W. A. Sperling, president of the American Sweet Pea Society, has appointed William Gray to the vacancy caused by the resignation of E. C. Vick, who felt compelled to give up the secretaryship owing to pressure of business. Mr. Gray was formerly secretary for several years and is well known as a good grower as well as a good secretary.

The invitation of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society to hold the fourteenth annual exhibition and convention in Horticultural hall, Boston, has been accepted, and the exhibition will be held in conjunction with the combined rose and sweet pea show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society June 24 and 25. Secretary Gray is at work on the bulletin-tin-schedule of the American Sweet Pea Society, with the intention of having it issued, if possible, by May 1.

Offers of prizes have been received from the W. Atlee Burpee Co., Stumpp & Walter Co., H. F. Michell Co., Peter Henderson & Co., and the National Association of Gardeners.

Advertising to finance the bulletin has been received from the above firms and also Hitchings & Co., Burnett Bros., Thomas J. Grey Co., William M. Hunt & Co. and Henry A. Dreer. Further announcement will follow and the bulletin-schedule will be mailed to members, and to anyone else on request, when issued.

Ionia, Mich.—George Dysinger, a former employee of the Ionia Pottery Co., suffered the loss of a thumb and three fingers while inspecting a machine in an automobile body plant. Mr. Dysinger traveled for the Ionia Pottery Co. for more than ten years, resigning his position with this company about three years ago on account of ill health. Some years ago he lost an arm in an accident.

SELECTING SWEET PEA SEED.

Can you tell us how to select sweet pea seed? We have not been successful in gathering our seed; it has never come true. Although picked from perfect Rose Queen plants, the seeds produce small flowers and of all colors, like the garden peas. We understand there is a trick in picking seeds according to pods. Is there anything to this idea? F. G.—Pa.

There is no trick in connection with the production of sweet pea seed under glass, which is what we assume you mean. The variety Rose Queen will reproduce itself fully ninety-five per cent true if properly rogued.

George J. Ball.

TROUBLE WITH SWEET PEAS.

I have sent you a specimen of my sweet peas. You will note that there is a troublesome club at the roots. I have had this trouble for several years and I should like to know a remedy. What is the best way to have sweet peas sprout from the bottom?

A. J.—Pa.

This abnormal growth occasionally develops in sweet peas, without, apparently, interfering with the growth. It seems to be of a fungous nature, using the sweet pea plant as a host, and, if the plant is weak, it is unable to support the fungus and produce a normal growth. I can give no information as to the cause of this, but I would suggest a change of soil next season, as well as a change of location for the soil supply.

As to sweet peas sprouting or breaking from the bottom, young plants will naturally do this, unless the house is dark or the root action is interfered with. The stronger the growth, the more actively these breaks will appear. Keeping soil excessively wet during the dark months, especially in a dark house, will result in a weak growth from which no breaks may be expected.

Allow the soil to become fairly well dried out between waterings. This encourages white or feeding roots to form, which will put new life into the plants. Plants one foot high or more use up their energy in general development. I look for breaks from the bottom only in small plants.

George J. Ball.

CAUSE LIES IN SOIL.

What is the trouble with our sweet peas? The vines are rank and full of buds, but just before the buds open they turn yellow and drop off. We are watering them but little and the weather has been bright. The temperature has been the same as that which we have used for carnations.

L. Y. F.—Ind.

A poorly drained soil or one containing an oversupply of nitrogen will produce this excessive growth and blasting of buds. If a water level rises to within one or two feet of the surface, the soil is not well drained. If the water does not collect in a hole of this depth, the trouble is probably due to an excess of the fertilizer referred to. Harden the growth by giving the plants all the air possible day and night and, with increasing sunshine, they should soon get into crop in a carnation temperature.

George J. Ball.

POINTERS ON POT PLANTS

HYDRANGEAS FOR EASTER?

Can hydrangeas be brought out for Easter in a temperature of 55 degrees at night and 60 during the day?

J. S.—O.

It is too late now to start hydrangeas for Easter. Plants should now be well advanced in growth, with the flower heads just peeping through. C. W.

SPOTS ON PELARGONIUMS.

What causes spotted leaves on Pelargonium Easter Greeting? H. K.—Wis.

Spots on pelargoniums may be caused by burns from defective glass or a too moist atmosphere. Spraying the plants may also cause it. Keep a dry atmosphere, elevate the plants well to the light and avoid overhead spraying. Fumigate for aphids rather than spray.

C. W.

TROUBLE WITH PELARGONIUMS.

We have sent some leaves of pelargoniums. Will you tell us what causes the brown spots on them? This trouble first started on our calla lilies and is now spreading to the geraniums and pelargoniums. Will you also suggest a remedy?

W. H. N.—Tex.

The leaves present the appearance of being sun-scorched. This frequently happens to both callas and pelargoniums at this season. If this is not the trouble, it is, no doubt, a form of leaf-spot, induced by peculiar climatic conditions or by the atmospheric conditions of your house.

If the trouble is quite general, it would be advisable to spray with a good fungicide, like Bordeaux mixture, two or three times at intervals of a week. Throw away badly diseased plants. The furnace is the best place for them. Do not throw any diseased foliage on the floors or benches. Keep the house freely ventilated, with a dry, buoyant atmosphere, and do not spray overhead. Space the plants apart from time to time, so that they are not crowded. C. W.

MITE-INFESTED CYCLAMENS.

We have sent you some specimens of diseased cyclamens. Will you tell us the causes of the disease and suggest remedies, if there are any? Will it pay to keep the plants over for next season?

F. F. C.—Ill.

All the plants came in a spell of zero weather and were frozen solid, but one glance sufficed to show that mite was, undoubtedly, the trouble, and it would never pay to carry such affected plants over; in fact, it does not pay to carry over cyclamens anyway. Throw your plants away and do not, under any consideration, dream of carrying them over. It would be wasted effort. Mite usually spoils nearly half of the cyclamen plants in the country.

Constant fumigation, spraying, dipping and cleanliness all around are necessary to produce good cyclamens.

It would be advisable not to try cyclamens next season and to start again a year later with clean, young stock. Mite is hard to control, but successful growers find it pays to fumigate or spray with a nicotine solution once a week and, where signs of trouble appear, dipping in a mixture of nicotine and soap has proved good insurance. C. W.

CARRYING OVER CYCLAMENS.

Will you let me know what the best method is for keeping cyclamen bulbs through the summer? E. H. H.—Mo.

The plants should be placed either on shelves or on a bench in a cool, airy, sunny house. It will never pay to stand them below the benches. A shed might answer, but it would be better to give the plants full light. The plants must not be kept dust-dry, but should be watered a little occasionally. When the new growth commences, shake out and repot the plants. I doubt the wisdom of carrying over the cyclamens. It is a practice almost generally abandoned. You will be far better off financially to purchase some young stock now, and grow them on, than to attempt to carry over old plants. C. W.

CYCLAMEN MITE AGAIN.

I have sent some cyclamen blooms that are affected in some way. The plants, in some cases, have perfect blooms and deformed ones at the same time. It has occurred to me that the trouble might be thrips. Is this right?

P. S.—Mich.

The cyclamen flowers came entirely black and were almost rotten on receipt. While your trouble may be thrips, it is more probably the dreaded and quite prevalent cyclamen mite. It would be advisable to throw away all the affected plants. If you attempt to grow any cyclamens another season, start with clean, young stock; attend to the plants religiously and keep them and the house containing them clean. This means constant care, especially in fumigating once a week, and, if you see any trace of mite trouble, start to spray with a nicotine and soap mixture or, better still, dip the plants. Fumigation or spraying regularly is the best preventive for the cyclamen mite. C. W.

TROUBLE WITH PRIMULAS.

We are sending you several specimens of Primula malacoides, which show signs of rot near the heart of the plant. A close examination will reveal the presence near the heart or the roots of each plant of a number of small worms. Will you kindly advise what is destroying these plants and how we can exterminate the worms? F. F. Co.—Ill.

You can readily dispose of the earth worms in your pots by watering with lime water. Immerse a small lump of lime in a 3-gallon can of water. When the lime is dissolved and the water has again cleared, pour off the clear liquid and apply this to the plants. The worms will soon vacate the premises. I do not, however, think that worms have anything to do with rot on your plants; it is more likely to be caused by wetting the hearts of the plants when they are watered. Primula malacoides rots badly during midwinter if the water is poured into the centers of the plants, especially when we get several, successive sunless days. Be careful to water around the sides of your pots and then your trouble will disappear. Some years ago, when P. malacoides was new and we knew little of its proper culture, we saved seeds in February along with P. sinensis, P. kewensis and P. obconica and before fall had tremendous plants. We found, as winter came on, that these big plants, densely crowded with foliage, rotted badly at their hearts, no matter how carefully we watered them, and in succeeding years we guarded against trouble of this kind by delaying the sowing of seed until early in July. This date we find is sufficiently early to give plants in 5-inch to 7-inch pots for winter flowering. This plant, furthermore, loves a cool house and does its best where the night temperature averages about 45 degrees. C. W.

TROUBLE WITH BEGONIAS.

Will you kindly examine the specimen of Chatelaine begonia which I have mailed you? This plant is infected with some kind of disease, which has a tendency to spread. The leaves curl up and then die and, in some cases, the entire plant acts in the same way.

C. J. D.—Kan.

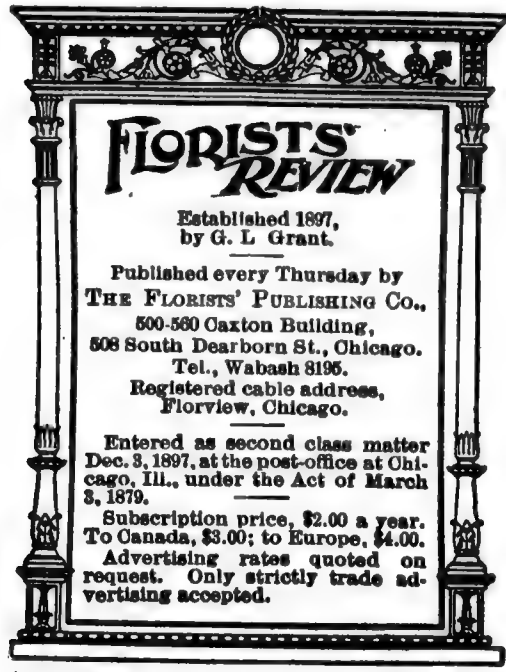

The cuttings came badly decayed after their long journey and I could not tell whether an insect or a disease was responsible for their condition. If it is a disease, I would consider the most probable cause to be an oversupply of water and too low a temperature. If it is an insect pest, I would suggest spraying well with a nicotine solution. If your plants are badly infected, a dip of nicotine containing a little soap will prove effective. C. W.

LEAF EDGES DRY UP.

What causes the drying up of the edges and finally the whole leaf of violets, Primula obconica, the large-leaved begonias and Boston ferns? Would alkali or foreign elements in the water cause such trouble? I have grown plants for thirty years, and in many states, but I have never encountered such difficulties. W. C. K.—Kan.

Trouble of the kind mentioned can be caused in several ways—a surplus of water and a too low temperature, fumigation with tobacco stems, or, as you suggest, the presence of some injurious, foreign matter in the water. I think it will be a good idea to write to the horticultural department of your state college, and perhaps send a small flask of the water at your range, in order that the real trouble can be located.

HAVE you a national flower show poster in your window?

INCOME tax returns must be filed by next Wednesday, March 15.

"BUSINESS is good," is the general report, "but the public will no longer pay high prices."

IRELAND is free. It will be a great St. Patrick's day in America. Are you ready with your shamrocks, little high hats and other accessories?

POITEVINE geranium is scarce again this year. Some of the rooted cutting specialists have been weeks and months behind their orders all season.

THE heads of many of the large concerns in the trade are having The Review sent to their homes. They want to read it more thoroughly than they find time for during business hours.

HOLLAND bulb salesmen traveling in this country have become so numerous that they impede one another's efforts merely by their number. And this season many are doing little more than increase the railroads' receipts.

THERE is no bad luck in The Review's having reached 13,000 in circulation. Rather is it the best good fortune for advertisers, who are now able to get the attention of the largest number of readers ever reached in this field at prices no higher than those asked for far smaller circulation.

THE other day the opinion was expressed that florists and nurserymen had passed through the period of business readjustment best of all the industries of this country. The reason was given as underproduction. And to avoid excessive prices consequent on heavy demand when prosperity is again at the zenith, we shall need to begin enlarging our facilities for production now.

RENT is assuming constantly increasing importance to retail florists. Given sufficient volume of sales and rent is an insignificant matter, but when volume falls off high rent quickly drives the average florist to the wall. Unless conditions take a new turn, the day is not far distant when florists will be driven out of the high rent districts of all the principal cities, as, indeed, many of the best flower stores now are located in residence sections.

INCREASE of glass area in this country has been far behind the expansion of the flower market. To prepare for continued good times ahead, it would be wisdom to make possible greater production. What are you doing?

No florist would pay the same price for 24-inch roses that he would for 48-inch. But many seem willing to pay practically the same for an advertisement that goes only to 3,500 or 5,000 readers as for one that is read by several times that number.

THE Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville and the Mobile & Ohio railroads have joined the Illinois Central in general freight rate reductions on southern pine and cypress. The reductions become effective March 13. An average reduction of nineteen per cent will be made under the new schedule, an average saving of $48 a carload.

F. H. B. WOULD DISPEL FEARS.

The fears of the trade that the conference on quarantine 37 at Washington April 19 presages further restrictions on horticultural imports are unfounded, we are led to believe by Dr. Marlatt, chairman of the Federal Horticultural Board.

Dr. Marlatt informs The Review: "The board has no program, but expects the information which will be developed at the hearing to be a guide to changes, if any, which may be made in the existing quarantine status."

"In view of a feeling which seems to be developing that the board has some drastic action in mind, a statement is being issued to clarify the situation."

The trade will read that statement, on page 24 of this issue, with much interest.

PROTECTING OUR SLOGAN.

Henry Penn forwards a copy of a letter he has received from the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, with which he took up the matter of the misuse of our slogan, "Say It with Flowers," by furniture dealers. From this letter members of the trade may realize what is being done for our slogan by the national publicity committee and more heartily do their share towards coöperating in extending the use of our slogan in the proper way.

The letter which follows was addressed to Mr. Penn by M. L. Smith, of the national vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs:

We are writing to you in further reference to your letter of December 16, 1921, in which you called our attention to the misuse of your slogan by certain furniture manufacturers.

Today, February 24, we have a letter from Mr. R. W. Lyon, of the American Home Bureau, in reply to a letter which we addressed to Mr. Robert L. Jordan, of the Furniture Publicity Bureau, Chicago, stating that he regretted very much the use of this slogan, and that his office would gladly coöperate in attempting to wipe out its use, because he feels that it is absolutely unfair and not at all in harmony with their ideas of conducting a publicity campaign.

We will continue to work for the abolition of this misuse of your slogan and hope, with you, that it will soon die of its own weight.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS.

General business, including the florists' business, unquestionably is looking up. There is general confidence that the worst is over.

Conditions in the south are much better than they were; the south was first to start back to normalcy. In the middle western agricultural sections sentiment and business have been greatly improved by the rebound of prices for farm products. In the manufacturing cities, factories long closed are starting up. Overstocks of high-cost merchandise have been worked off; somebody has swallowed the loss and operations are being resumed on a new basis, but the renewed activity is not likely soon to be hectic, as manufacturing for the present will be only against current demand.

There are a few low spots on the map of business. While automobile factories have resumed with the rest, the conception finally has penetrated that this industry is in a different situation from most others and that the cities in which the automotive industry has centered, instead of being the boom towns of the continent, for some time to come probably will be the reverse. The panicky feeling in those places is apparent outside. Other low spots are those in which the inevitable wage reductions are being fought with strikes. In some of the mill towns of the east these strikes are delaying the return of a moderate degree of activity. The threat of a coal strike is not taken seriously, not so seriously, perhaps, as it should be. The idea seems to be that at this time strikers lose more than anyone else and that no strike, therefore, will be long continued.

Prices in most lines have fallen about as far as they well can go until another set of conditions comes in. The lines in which prices have not yet fallen usually are the ones in which wages have not been readjusted, and these are the lines least active now.

Business failures continue to be numerous and banking opinion seems to be that there still are a good many concerns that will have to give up, for the reason that there will not immediately be business enough to support them all. The belief appears to be that survival and a moderate degree of prosperity will be the reward of the individual, the firm or the company whose ability it is to give the most for the money.

THIRTEEN THOUSAND.

It is a matter of general trade interest that 13,000 copies now are being printed of each issue of The Review. Never before in the history of trade paper publishing in this field has a publication enjoyed so wide a circulation. The growth is continuous. It comes about like this:

Enclosed find check to cover our advertisement in the issues of March 2 and March 9. This has been our first spring to advertise and the results were good. We hope to place our ad in The Review next fall, on both dahlias and gladioli, and keep them there regularly each week. At present we are sold up on surplus stock, but look for a banner year.

We find we cannot get along without The Review. Frequently we find one article that is worth the whole year's subscription price.—Geo. Wolfrum, Proprietor Sunnyside Floral Gardens, Berlin, N. J., March 2, 1922.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising, you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

H. K., Wis.—To be ready the middle of May, your cannas should be started now.

I. L. T., Ind.—The plant arrived frozen, but seems to be a species of strobilanthes.

F. W. C., Cal.—Know no variety of grape called Empress and it is not in lists or mentioned in books on grapes.

OBITUARY

Dr. William Warner Tracy.

The scientific staff of the United States Department of Agriculture suffered the loss of one of its foremost workers when death called Dr. William Warner Tracy. He was one of the best known horticulturists and seed experts of the country.

Dr. Tracy was 77 years of age, having been born in the state of Ohio in 1845. While a small boy he moved with his parents to Vermont. At the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted in Company D, 45th Massachusetts Infantry, refusing a commission as captain, preferring to serve as a private, in the belief that in that capacity he could best render service to the United States. He served with his company until September 2, 1863, when he was invalided home.

After a long period of convalescence, he entered the Michigan Agricultural College, where he soon distinguished himself in botanical and horticultural lines. Soon after graduation from the college he became connected with the firm of D. M. Ferry & Co., seedsmen, of Detroit, Mich., and was assigned to the task of developing a trial ground and plant breeding department for that firm. Dr. Tracy's services with D. M. Ferry & Co. won for him a world-wide reputation as an expert in vegetable varieties and as a practical plant breeder.

As a plant breeder he did much pioneer work and in 1903 he entered the service of the Department of Agriculture and from that time he devoted a great deal of attention to the study of horticultural varieties and vegetables. He also wrote a number of books and a great number of bulletins on this subject and has been regarded as a leading authority in his lines of investigation. In fact, in view of his accomplishments he was given the honorary degree of doctor of science by the Michigan Agricultural College. Dr. Tracy retired from active service in the Department of Agriculture April 22, 1921, after having completed eighteen years of continuous service.

He passed away at the home of his son, John E. W. Tracy, 2927 Macomb street, northwest. Besides the latter, he is survived by three other sons; namely, Will W. Tracy, Fort Collins, Colo.; Harry W. Tracy and Stephen W. Tracy, of San Francisco, Cal. T. N. S.

Hugh Williamson.

Hugh Williamson, gardener for several years on the William Astor estate, Newport, R. I., died Wednesday, March 1, at his home in that city. He was 62 years of age. Taken ill the latter part of last year, he had gradually failed since.

A native of Scotland, he came to this country many years ago and had been favorably known as a gardener in Newport, R. I., for more than thirty years. He was an active member of the First Presbyterian church, in which he held several high offices. He was also a member of the Newport Horticultural Society. He is survived by his wife, two sons, James Williamson, of the Rogers high school faculty, Newport, and George Williamson, of New York; and by one daughter, Miss Janet Williamson, of the faculty of Cornell University. W. H. M.

Mrs. Arthur Bryant.

Mrs. Arthur Bryant, nee Elizabeth Hughes, the wife of the well known nurseryman of Princeton, Ill., died February 23, at the family residence. She was 70 years of age. All her life she had been a thorough Christian and was the mother of a fine family.

Funeral services were held at the home Saturday afternoon, February 25. She is survived by the following sons and daughters, besides her husband and fourteen grandchildren: Mrs. M. N. Baldwin, Mrs. Edith Brigdon, Guy A. Bryant and Miss Cassandra Bryant, of Princeton; Harry Bryant, Chicago, and Ralph Bryant, New Haven, Conn.

Henry Gompf.

Henry Gompf, of Logan, O., passed away January 23. The deceased was 83 years of age. All his life he had been a fine citizen, public-spirited and industrious.

He was a veteran of the Civil war, having served three years with credit. After his army service he located at Waverly, O., and took up gardening. In 1873 he went to Logan, O., and started in the greenhouse business, under the name of Gompf's Greenhouse. The business was a great success, enabling Mr. Gompf to retire in a period of fifteen years after the business started. A son, C. H. Gompf, purchased the place and the concern is still under his management, although greatly improved and modernized.

At the funeral a profusion of floral offerings from many friends showed the regard in which Mr. Gompf had been held. He is survived by three sons, all of whom are engaged in their father's calling. They are C. H. Gompf, of Logan, O.; Frank Gompf, Cleveland, and Fred Gompf, of Petersburg, Ind.

Newton M. Comly.

Newton M. Comly, a well known and successful grower of Bustleton, Philadelphia, Pa., died at Jacksonville, Fla., February 28, after a year's illness. Mr. Comly was 58. He was a grower of flowers and vegetables. He was noted for his fine sweet peas, carnations and violets. He was at one time councilman from the Thirty-fifth ward, a Knight Templar and a thirty-second degree Mason. Surviving him are his widow and children. Burial took place from his residence at Bustleton, March 4.

Frederick J. Roth.

The death of Frederick J. Roth, aged 59, 305 East Fifth avenue, Columbus, O., occurred at his home Saturday, February 18, due to a complication of diseases. He had been in the florists' business at the above address since 1889.

Surviving him are his wife, a son, Carl; two brothers and two sisters. He was a member of Ohio camp, Modern Woodmen of the World, and St. Luke's Lutheran church. Funeral services were held at the residence February 22. Interment was at Green Lawn cemetery.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.

The Market.

The weather here has been favorable. The cut flower trade has been fine, with an abundance of funerals. Bulbous plants are coming along splendidly for the Easter trade. This is particularly true of Easter lilies.

Various Notes.

One of the most beautiful functions of the season was the Bassick wedding, February 25. Gustave Herthal had the decorations. A splendid effect was derived from roses, carnations, lilies and spring flowers by the thousands. At St. John's church, where the ceremony was performed, were baskets of White Killarney roses from which hung showers of ribbons, tied with white carnations. The altar was banked with palms and Easter lilies. At the home of the bride, where a reception was held, were palms and Ophelia roses, which gave a fine effect. Spring flowers looked charming at the Country Club, where the party was entertained.

John Reck & Son were kept busy last week filling orders for corsage bouquets. Carl Reck says that all their bulbous plants are coming along splendidly for Easter. Funeral work here is in abundance.

The Park Gardens Flower Shop was busy last week filling orders for the many large balls which have been held here recently. General trade here has been good.

Albert Vogel and Victor Carwardine are seen about the city in new delivery cars.

Robert Hawkins, of Fairfield avenue, says cut flowers are plentiful. These come in handy for his funeral orders.

James Horan & Son made a beautiful casket cover of white carnations and valley for the Sturgis funeral, at Fairfield, Conn. Mr. Sturgis was a New York banker. I. L. B.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

Last week we had the unusual condition of a market gaining strength with the advent of Lent. Just why, nobody seems to know, but the fact is that the week preceding Ash Wednesday was excellent and the week following even better. At closing time Saturday night, March 4, the market was cleaner than it had been since the passing of the mid-winter shortage. Shipping was strong March 3 and city business was unusually active March 4. Orders for both roses and carnations were shipped short for the first time in several weeks. Of course, prices stiffened.

Stock is not what one could call scarce—it never is at this season of the year—but the supply decreased as the demand increased. Rose crops are down and carnations have been going off for several days. That the condition is more or less general throughout the middle west is shown by the character of the orders received by the wholesalers here. While roses, as intimated last week, are being cropped for Easter, there still are enough to supply all those who can pay the growers living prices. Conditions such as those of February would have been disastrous if long continued. Prices still are below those of a year ago, both on roses and carnations. The average price of carnations, however, has been greatly improved by the present ability to make clean sales, without resorting to the bargain offer method.

at low prices. Peas never have been so abundant in the early months as they were this year and the prices of winter peas never have been so low. It leads to the suggestion that possibly an unusual situation may prevail in the vernal season.

A change is apparent in the supply of bulbous flowers. Paper Whites are nearly done and the supply of Purity freesias is going down. Early tulips are not so numerous as they were, but still are equal to all demands. In bulb forcing, as in many other things, haste makes waste, so the later stock is of better quality. Darwin tulips have been on the market for three weeks or more, but are only now approaching the height of their season. The present supply is much better in all respects than was that of any earlier date. For the next few weeks Darwins will be more plentiful than ever before. Jonquils are less abundant than they were. The outdoor southern stock is poor. A few daffodils are seen, but the buyers seem to prefer their narcissi with single trumpets. The prices of bulbous flowers are not encourwill prove permanent and progressive. The store of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association is undergoing many changes this week. Increasing business has necessitated increased clerical force and this calls for additional space. The Lake street entrance has been closed and the office is being moved to the north end of the L-shaped store. The space formerly occupied by the office will be used for display and sales.

February was another easy month for the growers. The mean temperature was 2 degrees above normal. There were 164.7 hours of sunshine out of a possible 296.6, or twelve per cent more than normal for February. But the wind movement in twenty-eight days was 9,552 miles, which took coal.

John J. Walsh has joined the sales force of A. T. Pyfer & Co.

A. B. C. Miller returned March 6 from the north. Out ostensibly for pleasure, he could not refrain from calling on customers, which of course meant orders.

George Mohn was in New Orleans for Mardi Gras and reports all the florists were having excellent business. "The south has come back," says Mr. Mohn. Visiting a customer, Mr. Mohn found a family of alligators as pets. He sent one of the babies to Miss M. Pedersen, chief of the office staff of the E. C. Ameling Co. "His name is Agnes," was the inscription on the card and Agnes now suns himself in the store window, to the evident interest of many people.

C. J. Michelsen, who has been suffering with a severe cold for several days, was confined to his home March 7.

Joseph Einweck and wife welcomed a 10-pound boy into their home March 7.

Arthur M. Paulus is adding another to his string of stores. Having made a success of the store and greenhouses at North Clark street and Irving Park boulevard, opposite Graceland cemetery, and of the retail store run as the Berwyn Flower Shop, at 5306 North Clark street, Mr. Paulus is opening a third store, on Wilson avenue, just east of Clark street. The outfit is being installed by Buchbinder Bros.

Signs of spring include a force of decorators brightening up the establishment of the J. A. Budlong Co. This is one of the lightest stores in the Chicago market and P. C. Schupp believes in keeping it in apple-pie order.

Sydney Buchbinder was in Washington, D. C., last week, in conference with Gude Bros. Co., who are moving their nationally known retail store one door to the right of the old location. Mr. Buchbinder secured a contract for the fitting up of the new establishment, which is 29x170. The equipment will include a new display refrigerator twenty-seven feet long, which will partition the store. Back of the refrigerator will be the workroom, in which there will be a storage box twenty-two feet long. The entire equipment is to be manufactured and installed by Buchbinder.

Emil Buettner says his coal man promises florists some relief from the high cost of growing next year. It is predicted that mine-run Pocahontas may be had at $1.25 per ton for summer delivery, and $1.50 for winter shipment; also that there will be a reduction of about 50 cents per ton in freight rates before many months have passed.

D. W. Dumser started on his summer drive this week in a new Dodge roadster. He used his car as his means of traveling forty-five weeks in the last fifty-two.

A. Henderson reports that the season's small crop of canna roots is being rapidly cleaned up.

I. Rosnosky and G. W. French are at home for a few days.

"Refrigerator and Kitchen Equipment News" is the latest piece of fine printing to be distributed by the A. L. Randall Co. Sales Manager Edward Galavan left March 7 for a fortnight's trip. W. Abrahamson was east on business last week.

Visitors.

T. J. Noll, of Kansas City, was a market visitor last week.

Henry Baer, of Peoria, Ill., was in the city March 6.

Ernst F. Hoehl, who represents S. S. Skidelsky & Co., New York, spent most of his stay in Chicago in bed at the Brevoort hotel. An infection in his foot, which had afflicted him a day or two before his arrival, became so bad that a physician's care was necessary. Repeated lancing has restored Mr.

Hoehl's use of his foot and after ten days' confinement to his room he was able to get out to see some of his firm's customers the last two days of last week. Concluding a tour of the central western states, Mr. Hoehl reports business better than he expected under the conditions at present. He says florists no longer meet him with an order in their hands, as they did two years ago, but a discussion of their needs usually results in a fair amount of business being transacted.

Whiting, Ind.—S. Klehm is starting in the retail florists' business here and has ordered a large display refrigerator of Buchbinder Bros., Chicago.

The Market.

Last week only a slight change developed in market conditions and the demand has been a trifle better, but hardly enough to influence the market to any great extent. Everyone is now exerting all energies toward Easter.

Various Notes.

Louis D. Pierce is confined to his home, at Norwood, with an attack of the influenza.

James H. Collingwood had the decorations at the Elks' entertainment in honor of the "grand exalted ruler." These included decorations at the Elks' auditorium and the Crown hotel.

H. S. Sloane, for several years with the New England Florists' Supply Co., Boston, has associated himself with Joseph E. Koppelman, of this city, and will attend to the road sales. Max Villers has been promoted to manager and will attend to the store sales.

William Doel, of Pascoag, was a visitor in the city last week.

The M. B. Saunders Co. is booking numerous engagements for tree and landscape work, to be done as soon as the weather clears.

Michele Iannotti, who took over the Thomas Curley greenhouses, last year, contemplates a complete rearrangement this spring.

John Johnston, of Johnston Bros., was a business visitor in Boston and vicinity last week.

William A. Bowers has been confined to his home by an attack of influenza.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The week closing February and commencing March saw queer conditions. The market was more active and prices were higher at the close, although it was Lent, than at the beginning, when the long social season was drawing to a close. Take carnations, for example; when the orders had been filled in the early part of the week, there was a large surplus that had to be moved; with Ash Wednesday almost here, price inducements were necessary and a sharp decline followed. The same was true of roses. By the end of the week a reaction set in; the wholesalers sold all they could Friday, March 3, the supply shortened under the influence of bad weather and by Saturday the market was active, with prices buoyant.

Acacia pubescens is more generally displayed today than ever before in its history as a commercial cut flower. A bunch or two of acacia may be seen in many of the shops, but rarely do they handle expensive stock. Curiously enough, orchids are not selling. The explanation of this may be in the fact that acacias are in season and fine, while cattleyas are between seasons. The early variety is going out and the later variety hasn't yet come. Daffodils have been quite firm. Emperor and Victoria bicolor are selling well. The growers have learned by experience not to flower too many at this time. The tremendous crop of sweet peas is shortening up a bit. When at all attractive, they sell at some price. There has been a good-sized business done in callas. There appears to be a growing sentiment against Godfrey. Asparagus is selling well.

A Plant Correction.

An error crept into the description of the plants of the Robert Craig Co., at Norwood Station, last week, by which ericas and arecas became confused. The company has both—the heather, in promising shape to strengthen the firm's assortment of flowering plants, and the palms that rival the kentias. What I intended to say was that the grace, improved culture and moderate price of the arecas has induced a number of prominent decorators to use them freely, so the number of areca seed sown has been greatly increased.

Calla Elliottiana, the golden calla lily,

There are certain advantages in placing YOUR CUT FLOWER BUSINESS with us. Our facilities and our service are second to none. We have here a collection of some of the very best cut flower growers in the vicinity of Philadelphia. There is an immense supply of flowers to draw from. These are advantages that must appeal to you if you depend on your supply of flowers in the wholesale market.

There are plenty of Roses in every variety and every grade.

The supply of Carnations is the largest so far this season, and the quality has never been better.

Our growers are cutting heavy on Peas, and the better grades are exceptionally fine.

Stocks, double and single, we can furnish in pink, white, blue and lavender.

Delphinium Belladonna we can supply in limited quantity.

Snapdragon is coming in large quantity, several shades in pink, also in yellow and bronze.

Valley, Orchids and Gardenias are items we can furnish in quantity, and of the best quality.

What is in season you are always sure to find here, and many novelties you cannot get elsewhere.

of all, Mr. Reid has established a reputation for integrity and fair dealing which he delights in exploiting in the slogan, "When They're Reid's They're Right."

Welcome to America.

The March meeting of the Florists'

Club, held at the roof garden of the Adelphia, and the "Welcome to America" dinner that preceded it Tuesday evening, March 7, were full of significance. They marked a milestone in the horticultural progress of our country. A wide-awake florists' club recognized this fact and set its seal of approval upon it. P. M. Koster, scion of a great nursery firm in the Netherlands, came to America, took out his papers of citizenship and proceeded to grow here—at Bridgeton, N. J.—nursery stock, because our government has decided that we must no longer import this stock from abroad, but that we grow it ourselves. In recognition of the importance of this step, in recognition of our admiration for a man who does things, Mr. Koster was asked to speak before the club. He chose for his subject, "Horticulture, Its Duty and Its Future." When Mr. Koster's acceptance was received, the club arranged in his honor a dinner, whereat A. P. Van Den Bergh, consul of the Netherlands, was one of the speakers and whereat many of our leading horticulturists assembled.

Mr. Koster made an exceedingly fine address. The attendance, both at the dinner and at the club meeting, was large. Seventy-five sat down at the dinner which preceded the meeting. In addition to the Netherlands consul, Robert Pyle and John Watson spoke.

The exhibits included azaleas of the Kurume type from H. A. Dreer, Inc., a fine collection of plants from W. K. Harris, and a promising carnation sport from Henry Hession, Brooklyn, N. Y.

A Bright Outlook.

An interview with Frank M. Ross, March 4, 1922:

"I think the outlook for the retail stores is much brighter than it has been for a long time past. Business in one of our shops was ahead for the month of February. This is the first time that this happened in thirteen months. The outlook, too, is much brighter. I watch the real estate news. More permits for building operations have been granted already this season than for all of last season put together. There are to be rows and rows of small houses. Then, the chairman of the finance committee of the city council says that the number of unemployed in Philadelphia, which willing to work need be idle. This is because there is so much city work in prospect—paving of streets, repairing, etc. All these help to make business prosperity."

Various Notes.

Paul Berkowitz returned from visiting his daughter at Greensboro, N. C., March 1.

The address on "The Culture of Outdoor Roses," scheduled for March 2 by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, was postponed, owing to the illness of Dr. Robert G. Huey.

Robert A. Craig attended the hearing on the proposed Porto Rican quarantine, held before the Federal Horticultural Board at Washington, March 7.

A greenhouse will be erected for Alban Harvey & Son, Brandywine Summit, Pa., by Hitchings & Co., New York. It will be 33x300 feet and will be planted with Premier roses. They will also add fifty feet each to two other greenhouses, which are now 250 feet long.

The Leo Niessen Co. is receiving Delphinium Belladonna.

Report of the death of Newton M. Comly, sweet pea grower of Bustleton, Philadelphia, Pa., who died at Jacksonville, Fla., February 28, appears on the obituary page of this issue.

Myers & Samtman will take American Beauty and Celestial to the Indianapolis show.

The robins and crocuses came out. It was all right for the robins, who could hop in again, but mighty tough for the crocuses.

Eugene Bernheimer is moving his wholesale commission house from 6 South Mole street to 15 South Mole street.

Franklin Ely, of the Henry F. Michell Co., notes increased activity in seeds.

Elmer J. Weaver, of Ronks Station, Pa., will increase his planting of Pilgrim roses this season.

Charles Henry Fox will address the April meeting of the Florists' Club.

AGATHÆA CÆLESTIS.

I am mailing you a specimen plant and should like to have you determine for me the name of this plant and, if any, what its commercial value is. It grows well and has a bright little flower.
P. S.—Mich.

The shoot appears to be that of Agathæa cælestis, or the blue marguerite, as it is commonly called. This makes a neat little pot plant for spring sales and does fairly well bedded out.
C. W.

TROUBLE WITH EASTER LILIES.

I beg to make inquiry regarding a peculiar disease prevalent in my Easter lilies. They came up well and looked promising until they were about two or three inches high. Their color was good and, so far as I could see, the cultural conditions were about as they should have been. The soil is a sandy loam. The little manure used was well decayed and thoroughly mixed with the soil. The first evidence of the disease is the dying of the lower leaves. The plants then take on a stunted appearance, while the growth is slow and distorted. The color remains, but presently a decay appears in the stem and the plant dies. This decay is present in every stage of the disease, and starts at the base of the bulb. In some cases the stem is quite hollow. The fact that about fifty per cent of the plants are in prime condition leads me to believe that the fault is in the bulb. However, I should like to be enlightened upon the subject.
W. C. K.—Kan.

The trouble is undoubtedly in the bulbs. It can be aggravated somewhat by keeping bulbs too moist in the early stages of growth. It is always well to keep lilies a good deal on the dry side

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

"Excellent business," observed A. Lange, of H. F. A. Lange, Worcester, Mass.; "we are more than surprised at the manner in which our trade has kept up and look for a continuation, with, of course, the climax at Easter." Stock is in fine shape at the greenhouses here. The crop of lilies and bulbous stock promises to be the best in many seasons.

"All serene," commented Mark Aitken, Springfield, Mass., touching business generally; "in fact, in comparing notes with a neighbor, we find cause for much congratulation; true, the bulk is in funeral work." Baskets and sprays predominate. Grower Kennedy has stock for Easter in tiptop shape at the greenhouses. M. Aitken predicts a banner demand, based upon the steady, gradual growth of the business.

"If it is a sin to steal a pin, then how much more so to steal a greater thing?" queried William Schlatter, of William Schlatter & Son, Springfield, Mass. "And, speaking of pins, the sales of our greening pins have risen to a ton shipment for one week; our carnation staples run a close second. We look for a big sale for our new wired toothpick holder. It is called Superior No. 1. We intend giving it the same prominence our two other items have received, assured that, while a good article to some extent sells itself, it must be brought to general notice." The new location, though on a side street, has fully justified the wisdom of the move. The store is made inviting, and that counts for a lot. Easter stock at the greenhouses is in fine shape.

George Butterworth, at the J. T. Butterworth place, at Framingham, Mass., was found busy upon funeral work, assisted by his sister, upon whom he conferred great credit for the lovely pieces made, in which orchids largely figured. This is made possible, with the fine stock, under the personal supervision of the veteran founder, who has been the recipient of many compliments upon the new Hitchings building, dedicated to Mrs. Butterworth.

"They are coming," observed Herman Bartsch, of the W. W. Edgar Co., Waverley, Mass., referring to the crop of lilies for Easter. Buds are all there and almost 100 per cent perfect. Hydrangeas are also in line. Many are stood in 6-inch pans, partly filled with soil to absorb the excessive moisture.

These pans stand on inverted pots among the lilies and will be moved around to get the trusses of bloom evenly developed. Baby Ramblers and cytisus are other leaders.

Frank Edgar, Waverley, Mass., gives as one reason for growing cyclamens in pots from the time of transplanting from seed flats, that a plant grown in a 3-inch pot for a starter is more uniform for later growing on. Both root and head are better controlled. A fine batch ready for potting up was noted and, as the demand fully equaled supply, next season is hopefully anticipated for sales. Easter stock is looming up and, judging from present conditions, will be in shape when required.

"It pleased us immensely," observed Carl Peterson, West Hartford, Conn., referring to the visit of the American Carnation Society and the encomiums bestowed by the visitors upon this establishment, where is possibly one of the largest stocks of bedding plants, particularly geraniums, grown for retail trade, in New England. Commenting upon the fine quality of Dutch bulbs, Mr. Peterson incidentally mentioned what he termed a "triple alliance," consisting of himself, wife and eldest son, actively engaged in the business.

"My heart will be there," said John Coombs, Hartford, Conn., referring to the big show to take place at Indianapolis, "and were the distance not so great, some of this fine stock we have grown for Easter would be sent." Our veteran confrere, perennially optimistic, sees the brightest Easter business ahead and hopes all will have a share in it.

Saxe & Floto, Waterbury, Conn., are preparing for a good Easter. Their lilies never looked finer.

A. Dallas & Son, Waterbury, Conn., are in the optimistic class, though this is one of the places hit by considerable unemployment. "Funeral work helps out wonderfully and this is where the telegraph delivery orders count," commented Mr. Dallas, Jr. The senior member is convalescing from a severe attack of the grip.

"More power to it," commented John Ryan, of Ryan & Powers, Waterbury, Conn., referring to the rumor that big changes are under consideration here, and that will mean a boom to the floral industry.

"It could be worse," remarked R.
Hanford, Norwalk, Conn., "and speak-

Ole Olsen Gives His Opinion of Stumpp's Foolishness Advertising

In our mail last week, came a most interesting letter, from Ole Olsen, of a prominent Illinois town, written in characteristic Swedish lingo, that we believe you will be interested in, alike for its amusing phraseology, and its frank viewpoint on our weekly talks. The letter reads:

Stumpps and Stumps

For two three year, ay bane read in Florists Review 'bout Stumpp.
Stumpp he bane florist in New York—but he bane say not anything about flowers—he yust tell funny yokes 'bout cats, and de cats and kittens vot he make two holes in barn door for.

Also, about hen what he call Japan, 'cause she sat on China, and the longer she sat, the more she done hatch out nottings.

Ven I go by post office, ride away look pink section Review, see vot foolishness Stumpp he got say dese time.

Von day ay bane een woods, valking around—see beeg stump. Ay stop, look at heein—dan ay tink, vel by golly ve get stump een Illinois too, but dese stump he got heem head cut off, he bane no gude—he only yust stay here rot.
Den ay tink eef dese Stumpp een New York got hees hed cut off, he bane no gude needer.

But dese Stumpp hees hed very much on—ha bane make some gude lesson by hees yokes.
So, ay make lesson by dees Stumpp also, ay tink gude hed bane gude ting, even eef eet bane on a Stump.
(Signed) Ole Olsen.

bler turned his back on the cold and set his face southward, toward the state of orange blossoms and palmettos. A vacation? No, indeed, but after business, and Mrs. Rambler went along. A distinctly unusual sight was the children coasting on the Capitol grounds, at Washington. Not in many years has that city seen so much snow as in the winter of 1921-22.

At Jacksonville the windows of Mills the Florist were filled with bedding plants, and other dealers in the city reported a brisk trade in these commodities. It seemed to the Rambler that the prices were higher than in northern cities. Rex and flowering begonias were quoted at 25 cents to 50 cents each, coleus at 15 cents to 25 cents, Asparagus plumosus at 50 cents each and Spre-extremely good, and prospects for spring were bright. Many inquiries about landscape improvements have been received, showing that the south is gradually waking up to the fact that the surroundings of the house need attention. One or two small, sickly evergreens, a sabal palmetto, and a dwarf palm or two make up the average home planting at present. Yet there is a wealth of native material that the landscape man is anxious to use, and does use when the owner will permit.

Fla. The methods of propagation are a revelation and a wonder to the northern man, who worries along with cuttings and grafts in frames and under glass.
 Just imagine sticking a cutting into the soft, warm sand and letting nature do the rest. Or watch the grafter scrape the sand away from the stock, make the cut, insert the scion, tie it with a cotton string, heap the sand around the union, and go on to the next one. All done in less time than it takes to write it, and with the certainty of a much higher percentage of growth than is obtained from frame or glass methods.

Flower Thoughts

Let us learn this lesson from the flowers—co-operation. If we try to keep happiness to ourselves, it will escape us. Happiness is only happiness when shared, for happiness depends upon others for its existence.

We wish you happiness, brother florists, and we hold out to you the strong hand of friendship and co-operation. Together let us make this year that finest flower year that the world has ever known.

The amount of growth put on by these outdoor-grown plants is startling. Six months' time will make canes that measure one-half an inch or more in diameter. If they are given a year's growth they look like a young tree. The wood is sound and hard, not the soft, tender growth that comes from forcing. One-year plants here are fully as large and robust as 2-year plants grown in the north, a fact that does not seem to get across with rose growers who are not acquainted with southern conditions. One prospective purchaser complained because the plants were so large, forgetting that it takes no longer to produce such plants here than it does to get smaller ones in most other sections of the country.

Business Normal.

ern markets as in past seasons. Probably when the season's business is totaled, it will be about normal. The only crop that seems to be off this year is the tourist crop, which did not begin to any great extent until the first of the year.

A new nursery and rose garden is in process of development near St. Augustine, Fla. The new venture is controlled by Oliver B. Hart, formerly of St. Louis. The place is to be known as Fort Moosa Gardens, the name coming from the old Spanish Fort Moosa, the ruins of which are on the property. About 140 acres will be in the gardens, with a modern greenhouse, 120 feet long, now in process of erection. Within the next nine months the work will be well advanced, and a real show garden is promised. Over 2,500 rose bushes are now planted, and the middle of March will see as many more in the ground, all a part of the garden plan. Cottages for the employees are in process of erection.

Sweet Peas in Florida.

Poinsettia Brings Big Price.

Bartow, Fla., has in times past produced some remarkable stories about the profits in fruits, but the latest is a story of money in poinsettias. It seems that about three years ago Mrs. May Mull received a small plant from the Canary islands. The first blooms were not unusual, but this season the plant showed its true nature by producing a multitude of extremely large, vividly colored flowers. This display attracted the attention of a northern visitor, who procured specimen blooms and forwarded them to the head of a New York concern. Negotiations for the purchase of the plant were opened by wire, and later a representative came to Bartow and purchased the plant, paying Mrs. Mull $250 for the parent plant and a few small rooted cuttings. Rumor has it that this new variety is distinguished by great freedom of growth, an unusual number of petals to each head and a most remarkable brilliancy of color. The display has brought forth a great deal of comment from visitors to Bartow during the last winter and a number of seemingly good offers were made for the plant before the present sale was closed. Early in the winter underground telephone connections were made at Mrs. Mull's home, and to avoid injuring the roots the conduits were "detoured" around the plant.

Fooling Florida Frost.

Just on the edge of the pretty little town of Winterhaven, Fla., the traveler sees the fields and buildings of the Buckeye Nurseries, of Tampa, Fla. This firm claims to be the largest exclusive growers of citrus trees in the world. The blocks include the usual varieties of grapefruit, oranges, tangerines, kumquats, etc., but one quickly notes the absence of the usual nursery stock, like evergreens, magnolias, oaks and various shrubs. Oil burners and charcoal heaters are prominent features in the test orchard of oranges and grapefruit.

These "tin can stoves" are set about twenty feet apart between the rows of trees. When the thermometer reaches the danger point, fires are lighted, the temperature raised, and Jack Frost hies himself away to the groves of Peter Fireless, there to undo the labor of years, and spell out, with frosty fingers, the owner's ruin. Incidentally a temperature of 26 degrees for about three hours will seriously damage or entirely ruin the finest grove in the citrus belt. For the first three or four years the trunks of the young trees are banked up with soil above the bud or graft; if a freeze comes, the top only is damaged, for new growth will start from the protected portion. Cutting back, with cultivation and care, will, in the course of two or three years, bring the trees into bearing.

Vegetables in Florida.

Growers of cucumbers around Waucho, Fla., made the first shipments of the 1922 crop February 27. These growers live in hope that prices will be high enough to give a better return than in 1921. Cabbages are a drug on the market, and some of the growers are making no attempts to harvest the crop, on account of the low prices. One grower near Bartow, Fla., sent a carload of extra good heads to the north; after paying transportation, icing, commissions and a few other items, the net returns failed to pay for the crates used in packing. Thousands of acres of land are given to cabbage growing in the Bartow-Lakeland district, and when prices like those of 1922 prevail many of the farmers are certainly "down in the mouth." However, if figured on the returns over a period of years, cabbages are about as profitable as any other truck crop.

Celery is looking fine, but, so far as the Rambler could learn, comparatively little is finding its way to market. Most of the big growers have adopted modern methods of bleaching, using a heavy paper instead of boards or soil. The stalks come out in better condition and are clean, white and crisp. Sanford,

The Market.

The market was erratic last week. At times the demand would be brisk, then would come a lull. The supply was steady and enough for all requirements. Stock was of a quality that could not be criticised, and, aside from sweet peas, there was no shortage. From a financial standpoint, business up to the present averages that of last season; the volume of business transacted and the amount of stock handled runs considerably higher. There has been a little hold-up in bulbous stock. With Easter just a short distance off, it looks as if the growers are beginning to hold back. Bulbous stock is far advanced. The snows of the winter have been to the bulbs what it was to the wheat crops.

It will be a hard matter to keep bulbs back for Easter without forcing.
Roses, carnations and all of the staples are in good supply and of the finest quality. Sweet peas are not so plentiful. It is not meant by this that they are actually scarce, but more even with the demand than any other item of stock.

An Excursion.

It is worth a trip on the York road these days to see the ranges of the growers in that vicinity. The first place you strike is the range of the Isaac H. Moss Co. At his range, at York road and Woodburn avenue, he maintains an organization where a general retail business is conducted. Here are seen well appointed salesrooms, opening into a magnificent show house built in conservatory style, in which at all times is to be found a splendid line of whatever blooming plants may be in season, as well as ferns, palms and other foliage plants. In the rear is his lower range, where roses, carnations and other cut flowers are grown.

Driving along on Bellona avenue, we arrive at the corner of Gittings avenue and on the corners we see ranges of greenhouses. On the northwest corner are the upper range and nurseries of the I. H. Moss Co. Over on the southwest corner is the range of Fred Bauer, with its small nursery of ornamental stock attached. There is not another establishment in the state, or in the country, that the writer has seen, where such intensive methods of culture are used. Efficiency is a hobby with Mr. Bauer. As one goes over this establishment he is struck by the fact that the neatness and productiveness of these gardens are out of all proportion to the staff of employees. But as Mr. Bauer conducts you about and shows you a time-saving device here and a more efficient way to do something there, you soon realize that lost motion has been reduced to a minimum, that every move counts at this well-conducted establishment.

Over on the southeast corner of these avenues we are welcomed by the genial smile of our friend Archie Anderson. It is a treat to go through this well-managed range. We often, when reading one of the best sellers, are impressed with the author's imagination of the housekeeping qualities of some New England old maid. These impressions here become a reality, though connected with flowers instead of housekeeping. In both cases it is the strictest attention to the slightest detail that attracts our attention. Every inch of space in this range must render an account of itself to its owner. The quality of the roses that are cut on this range is too well known to our readers to need comment.

The Towson Nurseries are only two miles farther on. Here we meet that prince of good fellows, Will Price, and as you behold the nurseries from the York road, with the beautiful grounds of the State Normal School directly opposite, the landscape view is a fine one. If you have not paid a visit to Mr. Price for a year, you are amazed at the amount of work that has been done since your last visit. Then you are surprised at the growth of the trees and shrubs.

close to nature as possible. In this he has been successful. As you drive down the long vista, under giant trees along the south line of the nursery, now covered with a thick undergrowth of native rhododendrons and the trees covered with Virginia creeper, you will think of some forest dell where, as a boy, you got yours with poison oak.

We cannot go back without running over to see the Stevenson boys. As we enter the packing shed a row of squirrel tails over the door reminds us of our trip to the S. A. F. convention last summer and that Ned is the champion wing shot of the S. A. F. But this is the home of roses. I am not going to try to describe them. Go out for yourself and see them. Go over the route as suggested in this letter and you will return proud that you are a member of an industry that makes such men and establishments possible.

The Market.

The wholesale market last week had plenty of cut stock. There was a big snow storm the first part of the week, which caused a decrease in business among the downtown florists. However, the weather is bright again and cut stock is on the increase at all the wholesale houses.

Roses are plentiful in the leading varieties, such as Premier, Butterfly and Columbia. There is also a good supply of Killarney, Ophelia and Milady. Carnations are holding their own and the supply is heavy.

Violets and sweet peas have been in heavy supply. While the demand is large, they do not clear daily.

Easter lilies and callas are in good supply and have an excellent demand.

Bulbous stock has been in heavy supply, but the market clears almost daily in the fancy grades of tulips, jonquils, Paper Whites and Dutch hyacinths. Freesias exceed the demand.

In greens, both plumosus and Sprengeri meet with a steady demand and Growers' Committee Meets.

A meeting of the executive committee of the St. Louis district of the National Flower Growers' Association was held at St. Louis February 28, at 2 p. m., in publicity headquarters.

Chairman Walter Amling, of Pana, Ill., presided. The following were present: Frank Washburn, Bloomington, Ill.; Philip Daut, Decatur, Ill.; J. F. Ammann and H. J. Blixen, Edwardsville, Ill.; C. E. DeWever, Olivette, Mo., and J. J. Beneke, St. Louis. Owing to illness, W. A. Rowe and W. J. Pilcher, of Kirkwood, Mo., were absent. L. Stapp, Rock Island, Ill., was also absent.

The secretary's report showed the organization in a healthy financial condition. The membership is sixty-three. Sixteen of this number are delinquent in paying last year's dues.

The appointment of a secretary came up and it was decided by motion that J. J. Beneke be reappointed secretary for 1922. The appointment of a membership committee was deferred until the next meeting.

The next meeting of the district will be held July 18 and 19, at Rock Island, Ill. L. Stapp was selected as chairman of the entertainment committee. He is to select his own members for the committee. Chairman Amling and Secretary Beneke were appointed on a program committee.

The next meeting of the executive committee will be held April 18, at Pana, Ill.

Various Notes.

The monthly meeting of the St. Louis Association of Gardeners was held March 1, at the municipal greenhouses, in Forest park. The meeting opened at 8 p. m. and President George H. Pring presided. There was a large attendance. The feature of the meeting was a talk by David Miller, of the Missouri Botanical Garden, his subject being, "Construction of a Rock Garden." A valuable discussion followed the talk, which bore much educational value.

Among the visitors last week were Otto Warburg, professor of botany at the University of Berlin, Germany; Professor H. W. Anderson, professor of botany at the University of Illinois, and Prosociation meeting, at Urbana, Ill.,

March 14.

The florist bowlers had an interesting session March 1 at the Grand Arsenal alleys. The feature match was between the Sweet Pea team and the Roses. The former won the odd game. The Orchids won two of the three games from the Daisies, while the Violets, with a big third game, won from the Carnations. This gives the Sweet Peas a 10-game lead over the Orchids, who are in second place. The Violets, Roses and Carnations are tied for third place. This gives the Daisies a clear title to last place.

The Market.

Business decreased last week and the demand was limited. Much stock accumulated, especially in the bulb line. The supply of roses was just about enough to take care of the demand. Carnations were plentiful and sold at reasonable prices. Orchids were plentiful.

Sweet peas were plentiful and mostly of fine quality. Yellow daisies and calendulas were on the market, but the demand for them was limited. Tulips and daffodils arrived in large quantities. The demand for these was limited. Pussy willows are still on the market and are bringing good prices.

Various Notes.

The monthly meeting of the Retail Florists' Association was held Thursday, March 2, at the Hotel Chatham. There were nineteen present. President Wessenauer presided. The speakers were William T. Usinger and De Forest Ludwig. Mr. Usinger gave an interesting talk and compared flower shops in the United States with those of France and Germany. He related that the shops in Germany are somewhat similar to our shops, but the shops in France are of an altogether different character. He said that in France the street peddler is one of the biggest features. Mr. Ludwig talked on the F. T. D. He had an interesting talk and related that the association was planning an exchange for the United States, as well as Canada, in relaying orders and collecting accounts. At the present time this exchange is in operation for Canadian business, but it is hoped that it will not be long before this plan will be in effect for all telegraph business. After the two addresses, Frank J. Zak has just opened his new store at 540 East Ohio street. Mr. Zak was originally located on East street and has moved to his new address for a better and larger location. He also reports that his business has been continually increasing, which makes it necessary for him to get a more prominent location. The store has a frontage of twenty feet and a depth of 120 feet, making a fine store room and ample room to take care of the business.

Miss Julia Haube, daughter of Joseph Haube, a prominent florist of Charleroi, was married February 28 to Claire B. Smith, also well known in the florists' business. Mr. Haube remarked that he intended to turn his store over to the newly married couple and to devote most of his time and activity to his greenhouses. The store will be known as the Haube Flower Shop.

is larger than the demand. Fancy ferns have taken a big jump in price and the quality is not so good as it has been. The demand seems larger. Tulips are good, while narcissi are rather scarce.

Various Notes.

The monthly meeting of the Florists' Club was held Monday, March 6, with a large attendance.

J. Freeman, of New York, was a recent visitor.

F. C. W. Brown was on the sick list last week.

G. Mendelsohn was a recent visitor.

J. R. Cowgill, of Canton, O., was in town to look over the market.

Miss Jackson has left the employ of the J. M. Gasser Co. W. A. R.

The committee appointed by the Cleveland Florists' Club has been quite active since the "get-together" dance. Important events are ahead and the March meeting will see new members added to the club's roster. President McLaughlin has returned and is back at the helm. No event has created quite so much interest as the fund for a club building. There will, undoubtedly, be a committee appointed to push events and "get-together" meetings to devise means for financing a real fund. The club's ambition is to raise a building site fund.

The success of the flower show at the State theater has prompted the Cleveland growers to desire to put on another "Say It with Flowers" week. This will not take place until after the national flower show at Indianapolis.

A large number of Cleveland florists and growers are going to the big show at Indianapolis. Many growers are sending their exhibits and Cleveland will be well represented; no doubt, our growers will come home with some of the prize money.

One of Cleveland's veteran florists and growers, Herman A. Hart, whom we all know so well and who for thirty-eight years has been one of the leading growers, is going to retire. His retirement is well earned, for his great ability has put him on "Easy" street. Mr. Hart and his devoted wife are going to enjoy themselves, without business worries. The Cleveland Florists' Club will still enjoy his membership and advice. He will be at Indianapolis to enjoy the national show and to meet his hundreds of life-long friends. Mr. Hart is looked up to by the many young growers and florists of Cleveland. He has told the writer that he loves to see every grower and florist a success. That is the spirit, certainly, that should permeate the whole club.

Two of the new stores in the city are well on the way to success. They are the Christine Branch, which was recently started in the Cleveland Hotel building, a pretty and tastefully arranged store, and the Accommodation Flower Shop, at Superior and Eighty-fourth street. Mr. and Mrs. Wolf, proprietors, have won many friends already.

At the places of several growers whom the writer visited last week were seen some wonderful displays. At the greenhouses of the J. M. Gasser Co. a particularly fine display was seen.

TORONTO, ONT.

The first week of Lent there was little or no entertaining. The effect is, therefore, felt by the florists, although there is considerable buying for home table use and by the millinery and department stores for store and window decorations. The demand for design work keeps up. Flowers are plentiful and there are stocks of all kinds, including bulbous stock, carnations, sweet peas and roses. The prices are somewhat easier in some lines.

Miller Florists, Ltd., the new company organized by Miller Bros., is building a new range at Concord, on the upper waters of the Don river and along the Grand Trunk railway. It will consist of ten houses of King construction. Fred Miller, reeve of York county, is president of the company. A new office, shipping warehouse and garage will be built at the Lauder avenue place. A new power plant will be built in connection with the Concord greenhouses.

Carl Grobba, of Mimico, is making good advertising copy out of his expansion. He is publishing advertisements of the ground being cleared of houses for the extensions being made this year. He has a fine stock and will have a good supply for Easter. J. J. H.

ers are also getting geraniums and other plants started for Memorial day. Bulbous stock is now in excellent condition and comes into the market in quantities sufficient for all demands.

McLaughlin & Murphy have had so much funeral work that night hours have been required at times. R. B. M.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Market.

The last few days have called for the use of more coal than any equal number of days this winter. We have had little sunshiny weather and, as a result, there has been a decided falling off in the quantity and quality of flowers. Everything is cleaned closely practically every day. Business does not seem to suffer as much from this sort of weather as do the plants themselves.

Lilies are beginning to arrive in quantities, after several weeks of entire absence from the market. Sweet peas are reasonably abundant now and so are tulips and hyacinths. The cold weather has stopped the blooming of daffodils on the outside and, consequently, they are being peddled on the streets. In general, the cold weather has been welcomed as a savior for the fruit crop, as the trees had already begun to show some color.

Various Notes.

At the houses of several of the growers things were found in good shape for Easter. The main sales of spring bedding plants come at about Easter time here this year, and it is a great inconvenience to the growers to have to make room for finishing off thousands of bedding plants just at the time that the greatest effort is required to get plants ready for Easter.

Excessive rains have produced flood conditions on the river and the people have moved out of hundreds of houses in the lower districts of the city. Judging from the past, this condition is bound to affect business for a time.

The volume of business done by the trade in this city since the first of January, according to all reports, is practically normal and all feel that the prospect for the future is the best that it has been for the last two or three years. There has never been so much building going forward in the history of Nashville as at the present and all feel that this is bound to bring business, especially to those who do landscape work.

The greenhouses of L. F. Haury & Sons are in excellent condition. New boilers have been installed and the houses given a general overhauling. John Haury, who has had charge of the store in past years, is now in direct charge of the greenhouses.

J. F. Corbitt has taken his son into the business, which is now conducted under the name of J. F. Corbitt & Son. They have given the houses a general overhauling and are planting more stock than ever before.

Harold Joy, who has been ill ever since his return from the carnation society convention at Hartford, is still confined to his room.

Geny Bros. have put in a line of gold-fish and the accessories that go with them. A large aquarium, well arranged in the show window, is a never-failing attraction to passers-by and not only brings business itself, but is a means of getting many into the store who buy flowers before leaving. ## ALBANY, N. Y.

Club Meeting.

The monthly meeting of the Albany Florists' Club, held March 2, was distinguished for the great interest shown in prospective exhibitions in the coming spring and fall. Following the description by Fred A. Danker and W. W. Hannell of their visit to Ithaca during the annual farmers' week, as representatives at the meeting of the New York Federation of Horticultural Societies and Florists' Clubs, it was unanimously decided to boost the spring flower show as a preliminary to the fall show, which, in the language of President Jenkins, should eclipse all precedents, and, if the interest shown by the public at the recent rose lecture by Robert Pyle, president of the American Rose Society, was any criterion, the trade may expect large and profitable appreciation. The lecture was attended by over 500 lovers of the beautiful, who, quoting Ed. Tracey, of the Rosery, were charmed with the beautiful rose scenes around Portland, Ore. Henry Eberhardt, of the Rosendale Flower Shops, Schenectady, speaking for the craft in the Electric City, promised coöperation to their fullest extent, realizing the vital importance of floral publicity at this particular period. Fred A. Danker was elected chairman of the show committee by unanimous vote of the fifty members present. Thomas Tracey, manager of the Albany Cut Flower Exchange, congratulated the club and, as host, kindly offered the hospitalities of the building for any length of time until the club found more suitable accommodation for its increasing membership. James Snyder, of Rhinebeck, N. Y., gave an informal talk on the violet, incidentally mentioning the method of retarding the crops for Easter, when it is expected the supply will meet the demand.

Walter Mott gave a short talk on some bugs and the reason for their existence. Following a rising vote of thanks to Danker's Floral Shop & Nursery for the free decoration of the hall for the successful rose lecture, the meeting adjourned. W. M.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

The mild and bright weather of last week brought on a large quantity of stock. Sweet peas were abundant and of exceptionally good quality. There was also plenty of bulbous stock in the market in tulips, hyacinths, single and double narcissi. There is also a good supply of carnations and the stock is unusually fine at this time. Roses are in good supply and the demand for the short and medium grades keeps them pretty well cleaned up. Longer grades are going more slowly. Lilies are not plentiful, but callas are selling readily. Plenty of greens in all varieties are in the market.

Various Notes.

F. P. Dilger, who is one of the principal growers of bulbous stock in this vicinity, is coming in quite heavily with daffodils and other stock at this time.

H. Locker & Sons are coming in with high-grade sweet peas, and their colored freesias are exceptionally fine.

The Wauwatosa Floral Co. and Riebs Bros. are also in with sweet peas.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. is busy at the greenhouses getting their Easter stock in shape, principally roses, lilies and hydrangeas.

The stock of the C. C. Pollworth Co. in lilies, hydrangeas and rambler roses is looking fine, and will come in nicely for Easter.

It is expected that a good number of florists from here will attend the national flower show, at Indianapolis.

There was a meeting of the directors of the publicity association last week, and plans were laid out and appropriations made for advertising for the month of March and April.

The Florists' Club held its regular meeting March 2, at the new store of Rudolph Preuss & Sons, Twenty-sixth street and Lisbon avenue. There was a large attendance, and the Preuss family took care of the club members in good shape. Their new store, which has been recently opened, is a model establishment. They look forward to a considerably increased business.

The Florists' Club will put on a spring flower show in the lobby of the public library, March 15 and 16. The object of the show will be to make it a sort of educational feature. This is in line with some of the exhibitions held

GOOD NEWS

Acquire a veritable Horticultural Library and

SAVE $8

The Review is able to announce that it NOW is in position to furnish

Cyclopedia of Horticulture

at a new low price. The last printing was sold out at $48.00 the set of 6 volumes—a very reasonable price considering war-time costs of printing. Now a new printing is being made and the publishers authorize The Review to give its readers the benefit of the saving made in present competitive conditions in the book-making trades in the East. This means a new price of $40.00 per set for the CYCLOPEDIA—a saving of $8.00 per set.

Send your orders now—delivery about April 1

REMEMBER—BAILEY'S STANDARD CYCLOPEDIA OF HORTICULTURE is in 6 large volumes, over 3,000 pages. It is authority in all matters of plant names and spellings. Besides the purely botanical matter one would expect to find in such a work, there are many hundreds of cultural articles, chapters on insects, diseases, remedies, etc.—a veritable horticultural library, all carefully and completely indexed.

See To It

That your shipments of flowers are consigned to us, and we will see to it that you get prompt and satisfactory returns.

We keep in close touch with the best buyers, post shippers on market conditions; in fact, we leave nothing undone that makes for a satisfactory service.

Special opportunity for a couple of good Rose Growers who are looking for best returns. Our present demand is greater than our supply.

BOSTON.

The Market.

The gradual coming of spring is seen in the increased arrivals of cut flowers of all kinds. We have had considerable dark, snowy and disagreeable weather and this has the double effect of reducing supplies and buying. Prices have come down a little, but are still satisfactory to the grower. At one time the Lenten season saw an almost complete cessation of social activity and entertainment, but of late years it has made little change in the cut flower trade.

Roses are much more abundant and have declined in price, particularly in the short and medium grades; fancies still bring good values. A large number of American Beauties are coming in from a distance and sell at $35 to $50 per hundred. Some excellent Scott Key, Crusader and Hadley roses are coming in now. Carnations have weakened a little, but prices are not at all bad for the season. Violets vary in price from 40 cents per bunch upwards and a week or two more will see the finish of the singles, while the doubles cut only a small figure here.

Pansies are excellent and the stems are double the length of those seen a few years ago. Sweet peas are in large supply, but clean up well. Bulbous material is now at its best. Golden Spur, Victoria, Emperor and Double Von Sion are down to $4 and $5 per hundred. Fancy varieties are a little higher. Tulips are mostly early sorts and a few cut Darwin come in. A fine quality of freesia still comes in and small lots of Spanish iris.

Among miscellaneous flowers are noted some blue marguerites, Agathæa cœlestis, yellow and white marguerites, myosotis, wallflower, gypsophila, bachelor's buttons, stocks, snapdragons, calendulas and mignonette. An increased supply of callas is hard to move and lilioms are not in good demand.

Small lots of cattleyas are seen, but the demand for these is small. Valley sells at $6 to $10, according to quality. Among other late flowers available are Acacia pubescens, amaryllis and clivias; white lilac is also seen in small lots. A wide range of flowering plants are now offered, the most prominent being hydrangeas, roses in variety, bulbous plants, ericas and acacias. Also seen are schizanthus, standard heliotropes and geraniums, bougainvilleas, etc. Pot plant trade is good.

Club Banquet.

Splendid weather favored the members of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club for their annual banquet at Horticultural hall, February 28. More than 300 were present. As usual, the tables and platform were lavishly decorated with plants and cut flowers, almost everything in season being represented.

A menu which seemed to please everyone was served, while an efficient orchestra furnished inspiring music. Short addresses were made by William P. Rich, for the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, and William H. Judd and W. N. Craig, for the Gardeners' and Florists' Club. Sickness kept away Commissioner of Agriculture A. W. Gilbert, scheduled as one of the speakers. Mrs. H. M. Blanche gave several delightful solos, which were enthusiastically encored. C. Everett Wallace acted as entertainer.

At the close of the postprandial exercises the floor was cleared for dancing and a large proportion of those present indulged in it. Those who did not like the fox trot and other new-fangled styles found solace in the Virginia reel and Highland schottische and the evening proved to be a most enjoyable one.

Various Notes.

The spring show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will open March 23 and continue five days. Classes numbering eighty-two are allotted to bulbs, including two premiums of $300 each and a gold medal, and two of $200 and a gold medal for commercial and private bulb gardeners. While no classes are offered for other plants than bulbs, there will be many other plants shown, including azaleas, orchids, cyclamens, acacias, schizanthus, etc., for which suitable awards will be made. On the afternoons of March 25 and 26, Chester Jay Hunt, of New Jersey, will lecture on narcissi and tulips. Meetings of the Kew Guild and the Boston branch of the National Association of Gardeners will be held on the second day of the show. F. E. Palmer lectured before the Tues-

The LARGEST MANUFACTURERS of BASKET LINERS in AMERICA

ILLINOIS

William Rosenthal, proprietor of the Boston Cut Flower Co., has opened a new flower store on Harvard avenue, Allston, near the Rogers Flower Store. Ernest A. Pike has opened a store at 399 Main street, Melrose. Both stores are being well patronized.

Thomas Roland will take along a carload of acacias to the national show at Indianapolis. He will not exhibit at either the New York or Boston show and will be obliged to leave here March 23, the same day Boston's show opens.

Ernest H. Wilson, of the Arnold Arboretum, when heard from a few days ago, had just left Manbasa for Cape Colony and expected to leave Cape Town during the first half of April for Southampton. He would spend some time in England and probably reach Boston early in June. His tour of the world has now taken over two years.

At the next meeting of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, March 21, bulbs will be the subject of the evening and there will be several short, practical talks on, and exhibits of, bulbous flowers.

The notice that Illinois has established a quarantine against New England, or certain parts of it, on account of the gypsy moth and corn borer, does not terrify us as much as it did. The former pest has been here for many years, while the European corn borer menace is not considered serious. In this connection it is worth noting that the chief veterinarian of the British government states that wild birds and worms were responsible for the rapid spreading of the present terrible outbreak of foot and mouth disease among domestic farm animals in the British Isles.

The William H. Elliott Co., of Madbury, N. H., is making splendid shipments of Scott Key, Crusader and Hadley roses, in addition to Premier, Mme. Butterfly, Columbia, Ophelia and Pilgrim. This firm is not now growing any white roses there at all.

Charles Evans, the well known and popular Watertown florist, has the sincere sympathy of a host of friends in the trade in the bereavement he has suffered in the sudden death of his wife, February 27. Mrs. Evans was only 31

SPOKANE, WASH.

The Market.

Spring flowers are now plentiful and are finding a ready sale. Roses are still scarce and prices are high. Carnations are coming in much better and with stiffer stems. The continued cold, dull weather has been hard on the quality of roses, sweet peas and carnations. Violets are again on the market, but the quality has been hurt by the frost. Bulbous plants are proving the biggest seller now and some fine stock is to be had. Genistas and cinerarias are plentiful and give the florists' windows the look of spring.

Various Notes.

Tuesday, February 21, saw the annual banquet of the Florists' Club. There was a large attendance, and a well balanced program was offered, including a talk by Robert Newcomb, of the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia. Mr. Small, representing a Holland firm, was also a speaker. S. Younkin, of Hoyt Bros. Co., acted as toastmaster. At the conclusion of the program, dancing was indulged in until 12 p. m.

E. C. Kempter, formerly of the State Nursery Co., Helena, Mont., is now connected with the staff of Hoyt Bros. Co.

Jack Burt and his daughter, Helen, were home for a few days on the sick list.

Considerable sickness has been noted among the growers, among those ill being Mr. Haley, of the Glenrose Greenhouses; Mr. and Mrs. E. Sinclair, of Lincoln Heights; Mrs. Christensen, of Rockwood Greenhouses, and Walter Peters, of the Hillyard Greenhouses. However, there is nothing serious and the trade looks forward to seeing them all well before long. H. H.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

With better weather and more stock arriving, business is improving and a heavy demand was noted at the market last week. Daffodils are now at their best. Golden Spur and King Alfred are in excellent form and bring good prices. Roses were never better and, in spite of the enormous number of these coming in from all the principal growers, there is no glut. Carnations are improved and bring good prices. Orchids, valley, gardenias and high-class stock generally are always scarce, but there is a greater supply now. In outdoor flowers, stocks, cornflowers, daisies and calendulas are all in the market, but the quality is not good.

The wild brodiaeas are being shipped out, and owing to scarcity of good stock and their long-lasting qualities, there is a good demand for them. There is a good supply of maidenhair, but plumosus is not so good.

Various Notes.

C. C. Thomas, of Lichtenberg's, has returned from a vacation spent in Indianapolis and other mid-western points. He reports meeting many of his old friends. Both he and Mrs. Thomas are much improved in health, as are F. Lichtenberg and his wife. Mr. Lichtenberg is now able to be back at the store. C. W. Clark, formerly of Clarke Bros., Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash., is now with Lichtenberg's.

The Western Rose Co., of Alhambra, Cal., has about finished propagating for this year and, in spite of the fact that about twenty per cent of the crop was cut off by frost, there is still a good lot of plants for the coming planting. Shipping of surplus stock and fill-in orders are still keeping the staff busy.

Ernest Edwards, who has charge of the seed growing at the range of Howard & Smith, at Montebello, has returned from an extended trip to England.

Frank Warner has some splendid King Alfred daffodils now, which make a good display in the market.

Shipping of dahlia bulbs and mailing out seed orders keep the staff of the Superior Dahlia Gardens busy. The new, well-lighted storage shed, built by Mr. Gutting this year, has proven a great success in facilitating the putting up of orders.

At the store of S. Murata & Co. everyone is busy and a large stock is being handled. Mrs. Shewbrook, head bookkeeper, has been suffering from ulcerated teeth, but sticks to business.

Manager Williamson, of W. Armacost & Co., is away from business with a severe cold and a slight attack of influenza. Immense quantities of roses are being shipped from here.

At Wright's Flower Shop an extra heavy demand is noted for out-of-town and telegraph business. H. R. R.

night, the days are warm and sunny. Violets are now in their prime, the shipping quality being excellent. There are plenty of roses, especially Russell and Columbia, but no surplus. Daffodils, both outdoor and greenhouse-grown, are plentiful and cheap and the market is consuming quantities of them. There are plenty of tulips and hyacinths. Some freesias are coming to the market, but they are nearing the end of their season. Acacia and fruit sprays are now in full season. Ornamental peach and almond sprays are plentiful. Carnations are no longer scarce. The only flowers that are really scarce are lilies of the valley and orchids, while gardenias are exceedingly scarce.

Various Notes.

Frank D. Pelicano, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., is meeting with a satisfactory response to his 1922 dahlia catalogue, a 12-page pamphlet, illustrated with a number of good cuts. About seventy-five varieties of dahlias are listed in this catalogue, four of them being new creations. These four are Golden Glow, Eva Pelicano, Shirley Brown and Rising Beauty. Mr. Pelicano is having two new greenhouses erected on his dahlia farm, each 30x200 feet. He has nothing to say regarding rumors of what he intends to grow in these greenhouses, but he says they are not for dahlias.

The San Francisco Coöperative Flower Market could sell more space if there were more available.

J. A. Axell says that it is too bad that the demand for violets always falls off just when violets are at their best. There is no complaint about lack of stock now. It is plentiful. Mr. Axell is also handling a lot of Darwin tulips, forced under glass by Ferrari Bros.

The C. Kooyman Co. is handling large cuts of daffodils that they have grown across the bay. The King Alfred variety is yielding attractive blooms.

I. Inoue, of the United Flower & Supply Co., said: "Business is now coming back to normal with the return of good stock. The violets are excellent and we feel justified in shipping them, as well as acacia. When in the east recently, I took great interest in seeing stock un-

Enomoto & Co. are cutting many roses, especially Ophelia, Butterfly and Russell. S. the former store on Sutter street, near Stockton street. The store is a little gem in old ivory and wrought iron, conceived along Italian lines. The window is lined with flags, interspersed with moss, and decorated with a wrought iron fountain and lamps made of Filipino shellac. Concealed footlights illuminate it. The gates at the rear of the store are also artistic.

Domoto Bros. are cutting many roses. Their Easter lilies, both for cutting and sale in pots, are coming along in fine shape.

B. M. Joseph says that Lent did not interfere at all with business last year and he does not anticipate that it will make things dull in 1922.

Podesta & Baldocchi had the decorations for the queen's table at the Mardi Gras ball. Different tables were given out to various firms, as the ball is one of the social events of the year. The queen's table was banked with daffodils, interspersed with violets. This firm also had many Mardi Gras dinners, bouquets, etc.

F. C. Jaeger & Son had several of their men at home sick just in the rush of the pre-Lenten season, so they had a strenuous time to fill their numerous orders, especially for the Mardi Gras affairs.

Darbee's have been fortunate in the flowering sprays they have been handling. Some of their pink and red Japanese quince is especially fine, both in the dwarf and the larger-sized blooms. They also have been handling some fine acacia. They have been busy with funerals and shipping orders. General Gooch says that acacia has reached Baltimore, Md., in good shape.

Avansino Bros. & Co. have been kept busy with table decorations and funerals.

Charles Brown, of Brown & Kennedy, who has been seriously ill, has now sufficiently recovered to be back at the store.

this manner. The acacia is in full flower now and the yellow blossoms are being widely used, adding a colorful note to display windows.

Violets have reappeared in quantities, but are still small, short-stemmed and high in price; they retail at 20 cents a bunch. Several dealers are showing large windows of Chinese lilies. Freesias are abundant and of good quality. The demand for flowers considerably exceeds the demand of last year.

Various Notes.

Influenza has not spared the members of the trade at Oakland. P. J. Thorstead is the latest victim. He was taken ill February 23.

The only one at the Oakland Flower Shop to escape the "flu" was Clifford Wagenet and he has had blood poisoning from a cut on his hand. Victoria Coata, also a member of the firm, was in bed a week with the "flu," but returned to work February 23. All of the packers have been off from a week to two weeks. This made it rather inconvenient, as the company had the best February business ever experienced, orders coming even from Los Angeles.

W. S. Harmon, of H. M. Sanborn, says that there has been a remarkable popularity for potted flowers, owing to the high prices of cut flowers. Tulips, especially, are nice and are selling at an attractive figure. H. M. Sanborn remained open all day Washington's birthday and did a fine business.

Thomas & Harris recently decorated for a fashionable wedding at Vallejo, Cal. The decorations were in the popular fuchsia shade and were carried out in the bouquets of the bridesmaids. This company also supplied the decorations for the reopening of Gerwin's, one of Oakland's fashionable stores. The popular life-sized, Chinese doll figures that are being used for window decorations all up and down Fifth avenue in New York have been secured by the firm and are eliciting a great deal of comment.

J. Seulberger's window display last week was unusually attractive, consisting almost entirely of daffodils and tulips in the same shade. A daffodil shade of trimming was used and the whole effect was extremely rich and warm.

The Oakland Flower Market has had an unusually good February. G. Rossi is pleased with conditions and with the fact that prices are getting back to normal. The shipping to out-of-town stores has been heavy. Mr. Rossi has some Easter lilies of which he is proud and is also showing many gardenias.

SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
With a million bulbs in the ground, can handle any order.
We like small orders best.
GEORGE LAWLER, Tacoma, Wash.

though local-grown violets and home-grown sweet peas have increased. Some good roses are being cut, but the supply has been small. Calla lilies continue scarce and are cleaned up as fast as they are offered. Carnations have been snapped up just as quickly. Large quantities of California acacia are being used.

There are a few good late mums still seen, for which there is a ready market; plenty of daffodils; a shortening supply of freesias; a continued shortage of orchids, and a heavier supply of valley. Cut tulips have generally met with a ready sale.

Cyclamens have been running close to tulips as a favorite with the buyers. The supply of hyacinths cleans up nicely. The cinerarias are of good quality now. Fancy baskets containing a group of potted plants have met with a ready sale and this has stimulated the use of small ferns to a greater degree.

Florists' Ball Big Success.

The first annual ball of the Seattle Florists' Association, February 28, was a great success. More than 450 attended. The decorations were quite elaborate, carrying out a formal garden effect, with fountain, trees, etc., in the ballroom. The supper room was decorated with greens. Window boxes of potted plants and festoons of salal and acacia were well used. The orchestra platform was converted into a pergola.

This was the work of a committee, headed by Felix Rosaia, to which every store contributed workers, and the materials used were mostly donated by growers and retailers. In addition, four California firms, Silvio Rosaia, J. A. Axell, General Gooch and McClellan's, all sent up a box each of California acacia. The work of the decoration committee received high commendation from everyone present, and its chairman deserves credit for the time and effort spent on the work, despite the fact that a part of the time which should be given to his own business is taken by service on the federal grand jury.

The committees active in the handling and preparation of the ball were: P. F. Rosaia, general chairman and treasurer; Thomas Wylie, Dr. Walter A. Moore, Harry A. Crouch, Felix Rosaia and P. F. Rosaia, entertainment committee; A. Moore, Gene Sandahl, Carl Melby, P. L. Rosaia, Sam Dunlap, Russell Jones, Eugene Lambie, T. V. Rhoades, B. E. Hammond, Roy Geiser and W. F. Holmes, floor committee; Dr. Walter A. Moore and P. F. Rosaia, refreshments; Harry A. Crouch, music and hall; Lambert Pedersen and Joe Stuber, sergeants-at-arms; Felix Rosaia, decorations and punch. Ice cream and macaroons for the ball were supplied through the courtesy of Dr. Moore, who also sent up a beautiful basket of roses and orchids. The floor committee's badges consisted of a yellow carnation, with red ribbon attached, these being arranged by Miss Wharton, of the Hollywood Gardens, and the entertainment committee wore small orchids supplied by P. F. Rosaia.

Among the out-of-town florists attending were Harvey Simpson, of Hoyt Bros. Co., Spokane; Arthur Smith, of the Smith Floral Co., Tacoma; George T. Crockett, of the City Flower Shop, Bremerton; J. S. Gerard, of Andrew Haxton, Inc., Yakima; J. P. Schmall, of the General Bulb Co., Holland; A. Rahn, of Rahn & Herbert, Spokane; C. A. Foulk, of Portland; Iver M. Peterson, of the Everett Floral Co., Everett; A. C. Smith, of the Smith Floral Co., Tacoma; William Langhout, of A. Henderson & Co., Chicago; Frank J. ### Various Notes.

A better sale of potted plants, especially in the smaller sizes, is reported by the Art Floral Co. Single hyacinths are especially easy to move.

A meeting of wholesale growers supplying the Seattle market has been called by Ralph Richardson, chairman, and B. E. Hammond, the association committee named for that purpose, to discuss formation of a growers' association. The aim of this body will be to study the needs of the market and apportion crops among the growers in such

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.

President, L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

THE Zach Davis Co., Delaware, O., did one of the best bulb trades on record. Seed stocks are in, catalogues have been mailed and orders augur well for a good spring trade.

SHIPMENTS of 1921-crop red clover and alfalfa seed are expected to be smaller and those for alsike clover, sweet clover and timothy are expected to be larger than the 1920-crop shipments, according to reports received by the Department of Agriculture.

THE official roster of the Crabbs, Reynolds, Taylor Co., Crawfordsville, Ind., is as follows: President, A. E. Reynolds; vice-presidents, B. F. Crabbs and Bennett Taylor; secretary and treasurer, T. C. Crabbs; directors, C. C. Wheeler, Moranie McCoy, H. A. Freeman, C. B. Dunnington, I. F. Garratt.

"THE supply of most seeds usually equals or exceeds slightly the demand, but is not always economically and efficiently distributed," reads a paragraph in the Department of Agriculture's weekly. "The supply of fancy quality and superior strain seed frequently, however, is insufficient to meet the demand."

REPORT of the death of Dr. William Warner Tracy, one of the foremost workers of the United States Department of Agriculture, appears on the obituary page of this issue of The Review. Dr. Tracy was connected with D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich., for many years before entering the service of the Department of Agriculture in 1903.

IN its report of the agriculture bill to the House of Representatives, the appropriations committee of that body has omitted again this year the $300,000 item for free seeds. Last year the committee struck out the item, only to have it put back on the floor of the House and supported so strongly by congressmen that it remained in spite of a fight against it in the Senate.

THE 1922 campaign of the national garden bureau has begun. The bureau, in charge of James H. Burdett, 431 South Dearborn street, Chicago, is under the supervision of a committee of the American Seed Trade Association. Leonard H. Vaughan is chairman, and other members are A. M. Eldridge, David Burpee, Louis B. Reuter and M. L. Germain. Seedsmen who desire the clip sheets in order to get the articles thereon into their local newspapers should address Mr. Burdett.

TOO BAD.

Almost everyone has noted that there are more Holland bulb salesmen in the United States this season than ever before. This fact has led a salesman for an American house, which would better be nameless here, to count 'em up. The Review does not vouch for the accuracy of the census, nor does its author claim completeness, but he asserts he has record of 268 persons from Holland trying to sell bulbs here this season, as compared with a little over 200 last year. "Trying to sell" is used advisedly as exactly describing what is going on. Many of the travelers are meeting great discouragement and are resorting to any expedient to get an order. The flat failures—some of them have not taken an order in weeks—for the most part are young fellows making their first trip or are the representatives of unknown houses without established trade. The older men and those representing houses with established trade are booking some business, although not so much as usual. It is a tough situation for all, but especially so for the new men, many of whom know full well they will not be permitted to come again on the showing made so far. But it can be said practically all the new travelers have come here because the prospects were still worse in all European countries.

REDUCTION NOT INCLUSIVE.

"In spite of the fact that, in volume, the seed business occupies a modest position among the industries of the country, it has a commercial importance out of all proportion to the mere volume of its transactions," declared J. George Mann, of Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, in asking for lower freight rates for the seed dealers and farmers before the interstate commerce commission at Washington, D. C., February 27. "Seeds, by reason of what they produce, have a great effect on the welfare of the country, and the American farmer, especially in his present distressing condition, should not be burdened with the present high level of freight rates, because he is obliged to assume the freight both on the seed he produces and on the seed he buys and plants."

Mr. Mann called attention to the fact that flax and millet were not included in the general reduction of rates on grain, grain products and hay, or in the voluntary ten per cent decrease agreed to by the carriers.

"We believe some action should be taken at once to correct the general reduction to include flax seed, millet seed and the various other field seeds," he said, "thereby removing the discrimination which now exists. We want to voice the opinion that we are not in favor at this time of a horizontal reduction in all freight rates, but we do believe that all reduction possible should be centered around such basic commodities as farm products, farm machinery, coal, steel, iron and seeds.

"We stand unqualifiedly for a reduction in rates on all basic commodities

Howard & Smith's New California Giant Non-lateral Branching Asters

Field view of our new California Giant Non-lateral Branching Asters.

We first distributed these strains in the season of 1921. Seed was sent to various growers throughout the United States, Canada and Europe. If we may judge from the voluntary reports we have received in commendation of their quality, we feel quite certain that the seed which we are offering this year will give every grower satisfaction. The stock has again been subject to rigid roguing to further perfect their remarkable non-lateral branching character. The flowers are of mammoth proportions, ranging from  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to 5 inches in diameter and are borne singly on stems ranging from 18 to 24 inches in length. The advantage of the new class is that immense size is obtainable without the usual tedious work of disbudding. Anyone growing asters as commercial cut flowers will find this strain well worth while. We offer them in two distinct types of bloom, incurved or peony flowered and the curled or interlaced.

H. & S. New California Giant Peony-flowered Peach Blossom (Incurved). A superb new color, flowers of enormous size, stems 18 to 24 inches long. Per trade packet, $1.00.

H. & S. New California Giant Peony-flowered Light Blue (Incurved). A magnificent shade of pure azure blue, identical in habit with the preceding, flowers from  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to 5 inches in diameter. Trade packet, \$1.00.

H. & S. New California Giant Peach Blossom (Curled and Interlaced). A magnificent new type with immense blossoms, the petals being curled and twisted after the style of the most ultra refined comet type, flowers borne erect on long stems non-lateral branching in character. Trade packet, $1.00.

H. & S. New California Giant Dark Purple. A fine companion to the foregoing, blossoms of immense size; petals beautifully curled and twisted. Trade packet, $1.00.

H. & S. New California Giant Rose. A beautiful shade of rich dark rose, otherwise identical with the two preceding varieties. Trade packet, $1.00.

H. & S. California Giant Light Blue. Identical in color with the peony-flowered type above mentioned. A delightful shade of pure azure blue. A variety which bears flowers of mammoth proportions. Trade packet, $1.00.

that are subject at present to high rates which are interfering with the movement of freight or, rather, have the tendency to stifle business, instead of restoring confidence to promote buying. It is our firm conviction that a substantial reduction in rates on basic commodities will considerably hasten our return to normal conditions."

FARMERS BUY SEEDS AGAIN.

The middle-western farmers appear to be rising out of the dumps and buying seeds to make up for their last year's economy. February 27, the Henry Field Seed Co., Shenandoah, Ia., received 6,153 orders, amounting to $18,534.27, against 2,476 orders, amounting to $8,025.91, for the same Monday a year ago.

"This is more than double last year's orders and is also bigger than the same Monday in any previous year, the best previous record for the last Monday in February being 3,837 orders, in 1918," says Henry Field.

"It is bigger," he adds, "than any other day we have ever had in the history of our seed business. The biggest previous day in our business brought 5,115 orders, which came at the peak time, late in March. We cannot believe that we have anywhere near reached our peak yet this year, for it would be entirely out of reason to expect the peak to come in February. We think the real peak will come, as usual, late in March. A noticeable thing about our orders this year is that they are running strongly to garden seeds, bulbs and small nursery stock, and comparatively light on field seeds of all kinds.

"February 27 was not a freak day,

are now so well known and are in such great demand that you, as a grower or florist, cannot afford to be without them. No other strains are now so popular, nor can you secure so many beautiful blooms from any other. They always bring top prices in the markets.

Heretofore there has not been a sufficient supply to afford growers a share in their great sale.

for the first time to secure a select collection of about ninety choice varieties listed and described in my wholesale price list. All authorities are agreed that my new strains represent by far the greatest improvement in gladioli today.

You will miss many of your best customers if you let them go elsewhere for their cut flowers and bulbs.

Send for my wholesale list above described, and also a copy of my new retail catalogue, both free.

Dreer's Orchid-Flowered Sweet Peas

We offer below a very select list of the very finest kinds for cut flower purposes. This type is distinguished from the grandiflora sorts by the extraordinary size of their flowers and by the standard being crinkled and wavy. They usually bear four blossoms on a stem, and are as easy to grow as the commonest sorts.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

W. W. Kennedy & Sons, Red Bank, N. J.—"Dahlias Elite," a 6-page folder, printed with dark blue ink on light blue paper of heavy quality. "Our list," says the company, "contains the elite of the dahlia family and embraces all colors and types."

Fenton's Dahlia Farm, San Francisco, Cal.—Several circulars, containing cultural directions, a list of dahlia tubers and an offer of "Fenton's hybridized dahlia seed." Mr. Fenton's establishment, he says, is "the only dahlia farm in the world that makes a specialty of hybridized dahlia seed."

Taylor's Northern Seed & Nursery Co., Ipswich, S. D.—An illustrated folder, offering general nursery stock, farm seeds, flowering bulbs and roots, vegetable plants, peonies and other perennials. Seeds of flowers and garden vegetables are not listed, but may be included in Mr. Taylor's future catalogues.

Willis S. Pino, Providence, R. I.—"Flower, Vegetable and Lawn Seeds," a clearly printed, well illustrated 32-page catalogue, in a handsome cover which shows various types of begonias and zinnias in their natural colors. In addition to seeds, the offerings comprise bulbs, plants, implements and sundries.

Forest Nursery Co., McMinnville, Tenn.—Wholesale list of young, nursery-grown stock and collected seedlings. Boyd Bros., the proprietors, say in regard to the collected seedlings: "Orders for this stock should be placed as early as possible, as none of it is nursery-grown, but all is pulled from the forest."

W. H. Barrett, Adrian, Mich.—"Select Pedigreed Strains of Tomato Seeds," an exceedingly tasteful, pocket-form booklet, containing a contract offer of the 1922 crop. The printing and illustrations are of superior grade and the cover is colored a pleasing shade of red, with a modest amount of artistic black lettering. Sixteen varieties of tomato are listed.

Harry E. Saier Co., Inc., Lansing, Mich.—"Saier's Garden Book," an illustrated 80 page catalogue, in a colored cover of original, striking and expressive design. The primary aim of the corporation, which owns greenhouses and nursery land as well as seed grounds, "is to supply

THE "GOOD LUCK" SORT ARE SUPERIOR

Best by test, you'd say, if you'd follow Mr. Wintzer in his work of the past twenty years—improving the size, shape, color, texture and endurance. The newer sorts remind you of Mallow Marvels in size and of Orchids in color effects. It's time to make your plans and time to order, too. Select from the following list and you'll get winners:

| 5 AMERICAN BEAUTY. 5 ft. This is the richest colored Canna we know—a velvety, oriental carmine or translucent cerise. It is unusually attractive, with its large flowers of tropical magnificence held on firm, straight stems in rich bouquets well above the soft green foliage. Practically every stalk produces at least two heads of bloom. 3 for $2.50, 10 for $7.50 .....                                                                                                                                                                 |     | $50 | 5 STATUE OF LIBERTY. 6 to 7 ft. This Canna outstrips exaggeration. We believe it is, without exception, the largest Canna in existence. Like the Statue of Liberty, it overtops anything of a similar nature that can be compared with it. Its foliage is bronze, leaves half as large again as its nearest rival, and of a rich, luxuriant, ebony shade. It holds aloft a fiery flaming flower, orchid-type, blazing flame-red in color. The flowers are of large size and good form. The effect is massive and impressive. 10 for $3..... | $25 | ...                                                                                               | KING HUMBERT. 4 ft. | 5 CANDELABRA. 5 ft. After 22 years of painstaking cross-hybridizing, Mr. Wintzer has succeeded in producing this prodigy. Three to five flower branches on each stalk at one time is the average, and every single branch is ablaze with a torch-like flame of fiery orange-scarlet bloom. The branches are erect and sturdy; the foliage is rich green, and very vigorous. Our 1921 stock plants of this marvelous Canna have renewed our enthusiasm for its beautiful color and unparalleled production of bloom. 3 for $2.50, 10 for $7.50... | 50  | ...  | 5 FLAG OF TRUCE. 4 ft. the Michigan grower with seeds, plants or trees best suited to Michigan conditions."

Shady Lawn Nurseries, Hammonton, N. J.—"List No. 10," an illustrated wholesale catalogue, in a neat and strong, light green cover. Dahlias are the specialty and occupy about eleven of the total sixteen pages. Among the other stock listed are gladioli, irises, peonies and miscellaneous hardy plants, grapes and other fruit-bearing plants.

M. B. Skinner Co., Chicago, Ill.—A fully illustrated 24-page catalogue of "Emergency Pipe Clamps," valve disks and other pipe repairs, pipe saddles, valve-reseating tools, pipe benders, motor valve sets and other mechanical equipment. This is an attractive, interesting and persuasive booklet, printed on cream-tinted, enameled paper and bound in red.

J. W. Jung Seed Co., Randolph, Wis.—"Seed Annual for 1922," a freely illustrated 58-page catalogue, in a colored cover. Garden vegetables are listed in the first part of the book and farm seeds in the closing pages; an intervening 10-page section is devoted to flower seeds. A yellow insert at the beginning contains wholesale vegetable prices for market gardeners.

General Bulb Co., New York, N. Y., with headquarters at Vogelenzang, Holland.—Wholesale catalogue of Holland bulbs and roots. This is an elegant book, though not illustrated and not strikingly showy. Its forty-eight large pages are printed with large, clear type on enameled paper, bound in a brown and gold cover and tied with a red cord, instead of being sewed. Prepared hyacinths are included.

M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa.—"Easter Portfolio of Keystone Quality Florists' Supplies," a fully and finely illustrated folder, printed with purple ink on cream-tinted paper, and presenting so attractive a view of the immense stock as to convey a strong temptation to purchase. First in order are the baskets and other wickerwork, in almost innumerable artistic designs; these are followed by prepared natural-foliage wreaths, wax designs, trimmed wreaths, mats, pot covers, ribbons and many other accessories.

Wayside Gardens, Mentor, O.—A well printed, systematically arranged wholesale catalogue of hardy perennials, with clear, concise descriptions and numerous attractive illustrations; thirty-two pages and cover. Such special favorites as irises, peonies and phloxes have their due degree of prominence. Several species of lilies are listed, as well as good stocks of dahlias, gladioli, hardy roses, vines and hedge plants. Particularly worthy of note are Hydrangea otaksa in pots and eight choice varieties of French hydrangeas for florists.

John Bodger & Sons Co., Los Angeles, Cal.—"Bodger's Unrivalled Flower Seeds; Contract Prices Only, Subject to Change After May 1"—so says the title-page of a catalogue which is really notable, not for its showiness, but for an attractiveness which may be described as quiet and businesslike. Its fifty long, narrow pages are devoid of illustrations, but are well printed with blue ink on good paper and bound in an exceptionally neat gray cover. A general stock of flower seeds is listed, but asters, zinnias, sweet peas, nasturtiums and stocks are among the specialties.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

DEMAND for field-grown roses has been strong this season.

LLOYD STARK has written many members of the trade asking their support for the appointment of Samuel Adams, editor of the American Fruit Grower, as ambassador to Germany.

A GOOD many wholesale nurserymen are spending in traveling expenses to sell their stock several times what it would cost to move it at equal prices by advertising in a medium which reached all their customers.

THE statement of Dr. Marlatt as to the reasons for calling the conference on quarantine 37, which appears on a forward page of this issue, will be read with particular interest by nurserymen with regard to the implied danger as to fruit and rose stocks.

AN account of the death of Mrs. Arthur Bryant, wife of the well known nurseryman, of Princeton, Ill., appears on the obituary page of this issue of The Review. One of the sons, Guy A. Bryant, is the treasurer of the Illinois Nurserymen's Association.

THE shade tree commission of Kearny, a suburb of Newark, N. J., is considering the advisability of opening a tree nursery. Heretofore this commission has purchased all the trees and shrubbery needed, but these are becoming so expensive that it is thought the town might better grow its own stock.

REPORTS of a number of large nursery houses indicate that orders so far this year are far larger in total dollars than at this time last year. In some cases, indeed, the orders to date exceed the total season's business a year ago. The fact that prices are generally somewhat lower indicate an even larger volume of business.

THE Federal Horticultural Board has refused the request of the committee—composed of J. Edward Moon, William Flemmer, Jr., and Thomas B. Meehan—of the Ornamental Growers' Association for a permit to import Norway maples in large sizes for immediate sale. Chairman Marlatt asserts the trees can be produced in this country and that "any temporary advantage which would follow the granting of the request would be far outweighed by disadvantages."

DAYTON BOOSTS PAINESVILLE.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce of Painesville, O., who attended the luncheon of that organization at the Y. M. C. A. February 27, were given a delightful surprise in the form of a talk on the nursery industry by John H. Dayton, manager of the Storrs & Harrison Nursery Co. "Lake county," said Mr. Dayton, "with possibly the exception of one county in California, ranks first in the United States in the nursery industry. In this county there are between 30,000 and 40,000 acres of land used for this purpose and there are about forty firms, shipping a total of between 700 and 800 carloads of nursery products out of the county per year."

The territory in the state of Ohio drained by the Grand river and comprising Lake county and the district in the vicinity of Rochester drained by the Genessee river in New York state are exceedingly well adapted to the growing of nursery stock of all kinds. The texture and constituents of the soil and the nature of the climate and the drainage in these districts are such as to promote an easy, rapid and healthful growth of the young plants.

APPEALS FOR RATE REDUCTION.

Sizemore at Washington.

The business of propagating and growing trees and shrubs, essentially an agricultural industry, should also be given the ten per cent reduction in freight rates recently made in the case of other agricultural commodities, the interstate commerce commission was told, February 28, by Charles A. Sizemore, secretary of the American Association of Nurserymen.

Freight rates were increased to meet war expenses on a percentage basis and should now be decreased in line with the gradual reduction in transportation costs, and in the same horizontal manner as they were increased. An increase of $100 in the freight on a carload of nursery stock, the commission was told, is a big factor in the slow recovery of that industry and of the fruit growing industry from post-war depression.

"According to the latest census reports," stated Mr. Sizemore, "there are in the United States approximately 4,500 nurseries, covering 172,800 acres.

These nurseries represent an aggregate investment of $52,500,000. They employ 45,600 men and 2,300 women, and use a total of 14,200 animals. There are growing in these nurseries no less than 3,400,000,000 woody plants and trees.

"The American Association of Nurserymen has a membership of 330 of the largest and most important nurseries in the country.

Moving the Stock.

"The transportation of nursery stock may be divided into two general classes, (1) that between nurseries, and (2) that from the nurseries to final destination. Practically all of the movement between nurseries, especially of trees and shrubs, is by freight. In the course of a year this movement reaches large proportions, the carload movement alone approximating 40,000 cars annually. On the other hand, a considerable part of the movement from the nursery to final destination is in less than carload lots, and divides approximately eighty per cent by freight and twenty per cent by express.

"The war experience and post-war experience of the nurserymen closely parallel that of agricultural interests in general. The general prosperity of the country during the war created a sharp demand for nursery products and seeds, with the result that the nurserymen were enabled to secure increased prices for their products. The general increase in prices was somewhere be-

—the tribute of Sargent Estate Gardeners to Davey Tree Surgery

Prides Crossing, Mass.

The Davey Tree Expert Co., Inc.,
Kent, Ohio.
Gentlemen:

The trees on Mrs. Sargent's estate have been well taken care of during the past four years by experts furnished by The Davey Tree Expert Co., and we heartily recommend the Davey Co. to any one desiring honest, conscientious tree service. The trees on this estate have shown a wonderful response to the treatment rendered by Davey's skilled experts, and we have every reason to believe that numbers of years have been added to the lives of some of our trees which under less skillful care would have been lost.

Sincerely yours,

Raymond J. Eland, Gardener,
Carl F. Christianson, Ass't Gardener.

Every gardener and estate superintendent has a most important work in the saving of trees under his care.

Davey Tree Surgery brings to his aid the highest development of science plus a generation of experience. A careful examination of your trees will be made by appointment.

tween seventy-five and 100 per cent of the general level which obtained before the war, but only a small part of this increase went to the nurserymen themselves. By far the greatest item of expense in the operation of a nursery is the labor expense.

"The years 1919 and 1920 were good years for the nurserymen. But during the year 1921, as a general rule, they had the same experience as the farmers: the bottom began to fall out of the nursery stock market, and a large number of nurseries were compelled to dispose of high-priced products on a declining market. Taking the country as a whole, the present price level of nursery products ranges from the same to twenty-five per cent above the normal level which existed before the war. The nurserymen have been gradually reducing their labor costs and other expenses and, while they are not yet down to the level which existed before the war, they are considerably below the peak level of 1920.

Rates Increased.

"Among other items of expense in the nursery business, which have increased considerably during the last few years, but which remain at their peak level, are the freight rates on nursery products moving between nurseries. Nursery stock moves on class rates almost exclusively. In the official classification, it is classified fourth class, carloads, having been increased from fifth class in 1915, and rule 25, less carloads. In the western classification it is classified class B, carloads, and third class, less carloads, these ratings having been in effect for over thirty years. In the southern classification it is classified fourth class, carloads, and third class, less carloads, these ratings having been increased in 1913 from sixth class, carloads, and fourth class, less carloads, when released to a value of $3 per hundred pounds. The average length of a carload haul between nurseries ranges from 500 to 1,000 miles. Some of the largest nurseries in the country are located in the Atlantic seaboard and New England territories. During the war, the fourth-class rate from New York to Mississippi river points, a haul of 1,000 miles, was increased from 43.1 cents to 86 cents per hundred pounds, or approximately 100 per cent. There are also some large nurseries in Iowa and Missouri at points which take the Mississippi river basis of rates to the west. During the war the class B rate from Mississippi river points to Colorado common points, a haul of 1,000 miles, was increased from 56 cents to 94½ cents per hundred pounds, an increase of approximately seventy per cent. No reduction has been made in these rates or in the rates which apply on less than carload movements of nursery products.

Must Reduce Expenses.

"The present high level of freight rates is one of the factors which is impeding the movement of nursery stock between nurseries, and from nurseries to large planters.

"The American Association of Nurserymen is of the opinion that, as the rates were increased to meet war expenses and on a percentage basis, they should now be decreased in line with the gradual reduction in transportation costs and in the same manner as they were increased; to wit, on a horizontal percentage basis.

"On the other hand, if the commission comes to the conclusion that a horizontal percentage reduction in all freight rates is not justified at this time, then the American Association of Nurserymen respectfully requests the commission to consider the fact that the business of propagating and growing trees and shrubs is essentially an agricultural industry and that, as the railroads have voluntarily granted a reduction of ten per cent in the freight rates applicable on carload movements of agricultural products, a similar reduction should be made in the rates applicable on earload movements of nursery products. The reduction of ten per cent made in the rates on agricultural products applies whether the rates are class or commodity rates, and consequently it is our opinion that the fact that nursery products in earload quantities largely move on class rates is no valid reason for denying to the nurserymen of the country the same treatment which has been accorded the farmers and other agriculturists. The reduction of ten per cent made in the rates on agricultural products applies on all kinds of seeds."

Sizemore's Facts Substantiated.

Mr. Sizemore was accompanied by Dr. Gould, pomological expert in the Department of Agriculture, who gave the commission, in a few words, a bird's-eye view of the nursery industry as related to the fruit grower and farmer.

"While there were several hundred million fruit trees in the United States at the time of the last census," said Dr. Gould, "this number was many millions below that of the preceding census, due in part to the dying off of home orchards for lack of care during the war and in part to the fact that many who entered the fruit industry during that period were not sufficiently skilled properly to plant and care for their trees."

The size of the industry can be visualized from the fact that about 5,000,000 acres of land are devoted to fruit growing, and the fruit crop of the country is worth between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 a year. Between 400,000 and 500,000 freight cars are required to move the crop to market, showing how important a part fruit plays in the transportation industry. The restriction of this movement by high freight rates, it was pointed out, was directly cutting the revenue of the carriers.

"To maintain and expand this industry, the nurseryman is an indispensable factor," said Dr. Gould. "Whatever concerns the nursery industry concerns the fruit industry; this is shown by the decrease in the number of trees." T. N. S.

WASHINGTON QUARANTINED.

In order to prevent the spread of a dangerous plant disease, known as the white pine blister rust (Cronartium ribicola Fischer), found in the state of Washington, a quarantine, No. 54 of the United States Department of Agriculture, effective on and after March 15, 1922, has been placed upon the state of Washington. The quarantine provides that no 5-leaved pines, white pine, western white or silver pine, sugar pine, limber pine, white-bark pine, bristlecone pine, foxtail pine, Mexican white pine, Ayacahuite pine, Swiss stone pine, Himalayan or Bhotan pine, Korean pine, Japanese white pine, Chinese white pine, Balkan pine, and no currant or gooseberry plants shall be moved or allowed to be moved interstate from the said state of Washington, unless the establishment and enforcement, by the state of Washington, of control measures in coöperation with the United States Department of Agriculture shall be deemed adequate to effect the control and prevent the spread of the white pine blister rust with respect to the following counties lying west of the crest of the Cascade mountains, designated as a white pine blister rust infected area: Clallam, Clarke,

A Hearty Welcome Awaits You

Do you remember—

The good old days when New Year's calling was the thing?

Do you remember—

The open houses and the warm Welcome as you crossed the threshold?

Those days are gone but the genuine spirit remains, and A. L. Miller invokes it at Jamaica during the week of the New York Flower Show, March 13th to 19th.

The Market.

Oversupply continues to be the main characteristic of the cut flower market, and prices remain at the low level reported last week, with clearances hard to effect in the face of a demand that has not increased in proportion to the supply. It is a buyers' market, to say the least, and distributors are at a loss to understand why the buying factor is so small. All along, since the opening of the year, the howl has been that prices were so high that retailers found their sales curtailed. Now that prices are in their favor, their business does not seem to absorb anything like the amount of stock to be expected, and the street man is coming into his own. Bulbous flowers, particularly, are suffering and prices are hardly quotable. The best of the tulips bring as much as $1 per bunch in the early market, but, with later clearances, high quality has to continue with lesser grades, and bargain offers are common. Daffodils share the same fate; after the best of arrivals are moved, the balance is cleared only by bargaining.

Roses continue in heavy supply, but last week's quotations are, in the main, still in force. American Beauty is not in great supply, but sales drag, due to the small demand. Hybrid teas show splendid quality and perhaps get a lion's share of the general demand, although the long-stemmed grades move slowly. The range of prices Monday, March 6, for good quality stock was $2.50 to $25 per hundred, with choice varieties running a little higher on the top grades.

Carnations are overabundant, with a price range of $1.50 to $3 per hundred,

CHRYSANTHEMUMS

A few of the newer and better varieties that should be ordered early.

Golden Glory. This variety should become the leading commercial yellow to cover the last 10 days in October. The color is an intense shade of pure golden yellow. Take terminal buds only. Plants from 2-in. pots, $25 per 100, $300 per 1000; 250 at 1000 rate.

Betsy Ross. One of the finest commercial whites. Matures October 5 to 10. Rooted Cuttings, $4.00 per 100, $35.00 per 1000.

Glorious. Better than Pacific Supreme. Flowers the same time as Supreme. R. C., $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.

Victory. An incurved pure white; a good one for Thanksgiving. Rooted Cuttings, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.

December Beauty. A large, incurved Japanese, much the same form as Jeanne Nonin. White with light pink shading. Matures Dec. 15-30, buds Sept. 30-Oct. 10. Rooted Cuttings, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.

Thanksgiving Pink. A very fine incurved deep rose-pink, larger flower, fine stem and foliage, exceptionally good keeper and shipper. Matures Nov. 20-Dec. 1. Rooted Cuttings, $12.00 per 100, $100.00 per 1000.

Rose Perfection. Similar to Chieftain, from which it is a seedling; brighter color and matures a week to ten days earlier. Rooted Cuttings, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.

Sunbeam. A seedling from Odessa. Of a brighter shade of yellow, maturing for Thanksgiving and later. Rooted Cuttings, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.

White Surprise. Large incurved white, very good flowers about November 11th. Rooted Cuttings, $15.00 per 100.

Loyalty. Bright clear yellow, matures Nov. 25 to Dec. 1. Rooted Cuttings, $5.00 per 100, $45.00 per 1000.

Orange Queen. Burnt orange. Admired by everyone, coming at Thanksgiving time, color is in keeping with the season. Habit, dwarf, 3 to 3 1/2 ft. from June planting; short jointed; dark green foliage. Loosely incurved form, maturing November 20th from September 10th buds. Plants from 2 1/4-in. pots, 50c each, $4.00 per 10, $35.00 per 100. Rooted Cuttings, $30 per 100.

THE SPRINGFIELD FLORAL & FERN CO., SPRINGFIELD, OHIO

and selected flowers occasionally bringing $4 per hundred. There is a daily congestion, however, which means concessions from this range to effect clearances, and the street man is a not-to-be-despised customer.

The supply of orchids continues to be much in excess of the demand, and good quality cattleyas are purchasable at $60 per hundred, with lower grades moving at prices down to $15 per hundred.

While lilies are plentiful, $20 per hundred is still the top price, and sales are slow. Lily of the valley is in such over-supply that the highest grade is not bringing more than $4 per hundred sprays and, in clearance sales, much less. Gardenias are in small supply and move at $5 per dozen downward, according to quality.

The supply of miscellaneous flowers is augmented by the arrival of Narcissus poeticus, schizanthus, lupines and ranunculi, all of which move better than other and less new flowers, such as pansies, stocks, calendulas, myosotis, callas, daisies, iris, wallflowers, mignonette, cornflowers, primroses and the like. Acacia arrives in larger quantity than ever before, and is sold at as low a figure as $1 per bunch, after the best is selected.

SENATOR REED AND SEEDS.

The florists' slogan and free seeds both came in for widespread publicity last week in the course of a tilt between a St. Louis woman, Mrs. F. A. Reid, and the senator from Missouri, whose name is pronounced the same as the lady's, but spelled differently.

Mrs. Reid, who is president of the Democratic League of St. Louis, has not been a supporter of Senator Reed for several years. Her letter to the senator followed receipt of a package of flower seeds under the frank of the senator. Inquiry by her disclosed that a number of women of her acquaintance have for the first time also received seeds from Senator Reed. In the letter she said: "Since you have shown an inclination to 'Say It with Flowers' to the Democratic women voters of Missouri, the varieties named below would be most appropriate." Then she set forth a variety of flowers, giving reasons why she thought them appropriate.

When asked for a reply to Mrs. Reid's letter, Senator Reed said: "The graciousness with which a lady accepts a courtesy is always an index to her character and culture."

Considerable newspaper space was given to the letter by Mrs. Reid and also to the senator's reply, and "Say It with Flowers" and free seeds appeared in the headlines.

Greenhouse Heating

SELECTING A BOILER.

We are building one house which we are going to use for roses, carnations and also for propagating purposes. Is it necessary to segregate roses? What kind of boiler would you advise using and what piping arrangement would you consider best adapted to this house? I am mailing you a sketch of this house. It is desired to run the temperature at 60 degrees when the outside temperature goes below zero. C. H. B.

The plan shows the house to be 35x118 feet, with four feet of glass above the grade line. It is seven feet from the floor to the level of the gutters and ten feet from the floor to the ridge. If these figures are correct, the roof will have a pitch of but three feet in a house thirty-five feet wide, or but little more than one foot in twelve, while a pitch of one foot in five or even one in four feet is not uncommon in houses of this width.

It appears that the boiler room is excavated to the depth of seven feet and the walks to the depth of three feet. From the sketch it would appear that solid beds are to be used, but, since mention is made of benches in the above letter, it is inferred that the return coils may be underneath the benches instead of on the sides of the walks, as would be necessary if solid beds were to be used.

It is unwise to attempt to grow carnations in the same house with roses, as the latter require a temperature 8 or 10 degrees higher and much greater care in avoiding drafts from the ventilators. While other plants that require about the same temperature and general care as roses may be grown in the same house, better results will be obtained if the roses are grown by themselves.

To heat 20,000 square feet of glass to 60 degrees, it would be advisable to use a boiler rated at about 10,000 square feet of hot water radiation, or better yet, two boilers rated at 5,000 square feet each. One boiler rated for 5,000 square feet of radiation will heat two houses like the one described above.

It is suggested that you use five 2½-inch flow pipes, placing one on each side wall plate and one over each of the three middle benches, slightly above the level of the plants. For the coils use nineteen 2-inch return pipes, using four on each side wall and three under each of the inside benches.

Run the flows as well as the returns downhill and connect the expansion tank with the highest point in the system. Have the ridge at least six feet above the level of the plates.

HEATING THREE HOUSES.

We have two greenhouses 32x84 feet, with a 30-inch concrete wall at the sides and ends and three feet of glass from the top of the concrete to the eaves of the house at the sides. Please advise how many 2½-inch flows and 2-inch returns will be required to heat the houses to 55 degrees when the outside temperature is 12 degrees above zero. These houses are facing northeast by east.

We also have one house 16x74 feet, with a 3-foot wall around both sides and front. One side has two feet of glass above the wall. This house is fac-

Kroeschell Dependable Hot Water Boilers

How sure are you that your crops will be all right?

You can never be absolutely sure that nothing will go wrong, but you can feel pretty safe if you have a dependable boiler that will always maintain the required temperature.

With your houses equipped with a Kroeschell Hot Water Boiler you need not fear that your crops will be hurt by low temperature. Under adverse weather conditions, when crops are in most danger, it is easy to regulate temperatures with Kroeschell Boilers.

That Kroeschell Boilers are the safest and most economical, has been proved by their country-wide use in large and small establishments, owned by the wisest growers, where only the best of equipment is used, and where the best of stock is raised.

ing northwest by north. Please state the heating requirements for this house also. G. S. B.—N. C.

If the houses are built together, so that each house is 32x84 feet, with but one side wall exposed, they can be heated by using three 2 1/2-inch flow pipes and nine 2-inch returns in each house. With both side walls exposed in each of the houses, an additional return pipe will be required. In case the two houses combined only measure 32x84 feet, use two flows and six returns in each house. The same piping may be used in the house 16x74 feet. In case there is a middle bench for which bottom heat is desired, use three 2-inch flow pipes and six 2-inch returns in houses sixteen feet wide.

EXCAVATING FOR HOUSE.

I am planning a new greenhouse, but have been told that it is not good policy to excavate for a permanent house, the objection being that in a few years the soil will get sour and breed disease, in spite of all that can be done. The soil here, however, is exceedingly sandy. There is a rich top soil eight or ten inches deep, which is one-half sand. Beneath this the texture of the soil consists of from three to four feet of sand, rather coarse and stained with yellow

Air Is Unwelcome In Hot Water Systems

It is an enemy of economical heating.

It retards the free flow of your hot water, and causes uneven heat throughout your range.

Fisher Air Trap (Type 30)

expels air. It gives your range the full measure of heat it needs.

Fisher Air Trap is positive acting allows the entire system to circulate efficiently prevents all air pockets and all hammering. Gives hot water a clear track to the very end of your runs.

It is a simple trap - needs no adjustment. Construction is such that valve and nozzle can be removed at any time without disturbing pipe connections.

Actual satisfactory operation in thousands of greenhouses has made the Fisher Air Trap standard equipment. Let us show you why YOU should rely on it for better, cheaper heat.

oher, followed with a hard pan. The drainage is perfect until reaching the hard pan. My proposal is to excavate to a depth sufficient to leave only about six or eight inches of sand on top of the hard pan, make high raised benches, under which the sun can shine, and construct concrete walks about four inches thick, laying them on top of the sand. In this way I believe that I can keep the house clean and sweet.

It is my opinion that such a house would be a great deal warmer than the one which I have at present, which is built on the ground level. Our climate is intensely cold for long periods of time. In fact, I have known times when the temperature would remain below zero for a period of six weeks, even at the middle of the day and with the sun shining. I find it difficult to keep my house above 40 degrees during such periods as this and coal is expensive, indeed, in this locality, costing $11 per ton.

Would you advise building a sunken house, with economy of coal and a warmer temperature, but more difficult access and a little risk of sour soil? Or would you advise constructing another ground-level house and a bigger heating plant, with larger coal bills and easier access? F. G.—Minn.

The advantages and disadvantages of houses built on the ground level and those which are sunken are clearly stated above. It is certain that there will be a considerable saving of fuel if the house does not have any side walls exposed. It is inadvisable to use a sunken house, but it would certainly be unwise to build one with walls protruding seven feet above the ground level.

The use to which the house is to be put and the temperature desired are not stated. This would make a considerable difference in determining the height to which the walls would extend above the outside grade level. For carnations, violets and ordinary bedding plants it would be unwise to have more than two feet of glass in the outside wall. In fact, under the severe conditions mentioned, it might be advisable to have glass in the roof only. Build the walls so that their height does not exceed four feet, measuring from the walks to the level of the bottom of the plate. Grade up around the walls in the form of a terrace to the height of two feet, to prevent the loss of heat. Build the walls of hollow blocks to the level of the plate, unless it is deemed necessary to have glass in them. Bank cinders or other available material against them above the graded terrace during the winter.

Except for the inconvenience incurred, the house suggested is not particularly objectionable, provided good drainage can be secured and the heating apparatus can be so arranged as to give a good circulation.

WHY TAKE CHANCES?

$15

This is a word to the wise—a buy word to the wise grower. Sudden temperature ups and downs ruin thousands of plants every year. Protect yours! Install a Standard Thermostat now. It costs only $15.00. Write today.

(G. H. 3, same as G. H. 4, only not in locked case, $10.00.)

STANDARD THERMOMETER CO., 65 Shirley Street, BOSTON, MASS.

Why do you take chances of losing hundreds, maybe thousands of dollars in crops? That is just what you are doing if you have no Standard Thermostat. A freeze-out may completely ruin your plants over night, or reduce their value by hundreds of dollars.

The Standard Thermostat will ring a bell whenever your greenhouse temperature rises or falls to the danger point. Place the bell at your bedside or anywhere you please.

A letter from Lee Smith, Gasport, N.Y.:

"Standard Thermometer Co.,

"Gentlemen: Find enclosed a check for $15.00. Send one G. H. 4 Standard Thermostat with lock and key. If it comes by express it will be O. K.

"I have used a Standard Thermostat without lock and key for five years and cannot get along without one."

The BOLENS POWER HOE

and LAWN MOWER TRACTOR is a motorized wheel hoe. It will work in 12-inch rows and wider. (The picture shows cultivation of asters planted 30 inches apart.) Where rows are not more than 18 inches apart, it will handle three at a time. It also pulls three seeders.

All attachments for seeding, cultivating or lawn mowing have snap hitches and can be changed instantly without the use of a wrench.

The BOLENS multiplies your man power when you are most crowded with work. It pays for itself in a hurry.

BOSTON NOTES.

years of age. Funeral services were held March 1, and were largely attended, a wealth of lovely floral tributes being sent from friends in the trade.

Winter continues with us, bringing one or two snow storms a week. Much cloudiness and the reverse of balmy conditions continue to be our lot. Mr. Groundhog seems to have a high batting average this year. However, each day brings spring nearer and a generally optimistic feeling exists in trade circles.

Eugene N. Naukam, the new secretary of the New England Florists' Alliance, continues to make many friends in the trade and his urbanity and geniality please everyone. He now makes his headquarters at 77 Summer street and reports encouraging success in his work.

Lord & Burnham Co. reports the greatest volume of commercial building contracts to date that the company ever had. Unusual activity also rules in other classes of buildings. In the Park Square district alone contracts have been let for an $8,000,000 hotel, a $6,000,000 business block and there are several others almost as large. It is estimated that $300,000,000 worth of buildings will soon be under way in greater Boston and this should materially help the florists' business.

The florists of Kansas City and tributary points who intend to visit the national flower show, at Indianapolis, will have the benefit of a through standard Pullman sleeping car from Kansas City to Indianapolis. This through sleeper, the Night Hawk, will leave Kansas City at 11:55 Saturday night, March 25, on the Chicago & Alton, and will arrive in Indianapolis at 2:50 Sunday afternoon, March 26.

The time of departure will permit visitors from many points in Kansas to leave their homes late in the afternoon and arrive at Kansas City in time for connection. Passengers from Oklahoma and Texas will also have an opportunity to connect with this train and avoid further change. The lower berth fare from Kansas City to Indianapolis is $5.63; upper berth, $4.50; drawing room, $21.

The one-way railroad fare from this point is $18.91. A special arrangement has been made for this meeting, under which full fare is paid going and a receipt of convention certificate permits half fare returning, dependent on 350 being in attendance from all localities. In order to secure the certificate receipt, tickets should be routed Chicago & Alton, Kansas City to St. Louis; Pennsylvania, St. Louis to Indianapolis.

Reservations may be made now through Glenn K. Parker, manager of the Stuppy Supply Co., 1020 Oak street, Kansas City, Mo., or the Chicago & Alton ticket office, 717 Walnut street, Kansas City, Mo. A representative of the Chicago & Alton road will be on hand in Indianapolis to lend all possible assistance in arranging the return trip.

MR WM. BRANSON,
Prop. Insectonos Laboratory, Bloomington, Ill.

Dear Sir:—It affords me pleasure to inform you that I have had wonderful success with the use of Insectonos in keeping Smilax and other plants free from insects. Last year I shipped Smilax which commanded the highest market price on account of its splendid growth (six to eight feet in length) and its perfect foliage, which was the result of having used Insectonos. My Smilax at present is also very fine and free from insects. Insectonos does all that is claimed for it, and I can highly recommend it to my fellow florists.

Yours very truly, (Signed) H. O. BOCK.

Angelo Lavagetto, Spokane florist, called on the trade last week.

Rosaia Bros. report a heavy cut of tulips and daffodils from the greenhouses and note a slight improvement in the cut of orchids. Cut flowers have been in splendid demand with the shop and stock coming from the greenhouses is quickly used up.

William Drake, of Melby's Flower Shop, is confined to the hospital again, as the result of injuries received while in the service. It is thought he will be at liberty soon.

In addition to handling the decorations for the association's ball, Felix Rosaia took care of several smaller jobs last week.

Decorations and funeral work continue a feature of the activities at Melby's Flower Shop, both having been heavier than normal last week.

For the first week in several months, McCoy's was able to report a full crew working, with no one home on account of sickness. The general run of business has been excellent, especially for the close of last week.

tulips, while freesias and marigolds were scattered among the greens on the table.

The unusually good demand for funeral work has been a notable feature with Kenney's.

The Orpheum Floral Co. reports splendid success with a special showing of large pots of tulips, the yellow shade being about the best-selling item.

The City Flower Shop has been showing some large examples of highly colored cinerarias.

C. F. Breithaupt, proprietor of the Sedro-Woolley Greenhouses and owner of a retail establishment at Salem, Ore., was a visitor last week. He had just made the trip to Salem on business.

The Seattle Fern & Moss Co. reports a good shipping demand on pussy willows. Some fine stock is being cut.

L. C. Beall, of the Beall Greenhouses, Vashon, Wash., is not recovering from his illness as rapidly as might be hoped, and is still confined to his bed. An increase in the cut of roses is noted here.

WORCESTER, MASS.

Notwithstanding the commercial depression and the wretched condition of business generally, Worcester florists have nothing to complain of in the way of business.

The growers are getting commensurate prices for their stock and the florists clean up readily all of the stock sent in. However, there is a plentiful supply of flowers and a cheerful outlook for an even greater supply for the Easter trade.

The Worcester County Horticultural Society held its annual reunion and banquet March 2. About 200 guests were present. Music, dancing and speeches were the features of the evening.

This district has experienced another snowfall of eight inches or so, which is acceptable for vegetation in general.

Now—a Power Mower for Medium Sized Lawns

For years Ideal Power Lawn Mowers have been used for taking care of large lawns. The thousands of Ideal Mowers in use have definitely demonstrated their labor saving, money making qualifications.

However, there are thousands of lawns hardly large enough to warrant the purchase of a large power mower, yet with so much grass to cut that proper care becomes a big problem—and an expensive problem.

It was for this vast number of medium sized lawns that the Ideal Junior Power Mower was designed. It is moderate in price, dependable, easy to handle, and costs little to operate.

The Ideal Junior is exactly the right machine for homes with lawns too large to conveniently care for with hand mowers—for mowing the putting greens on golf courses—and for parks and cemeteries as an auxiliary unit for trimming up and cutting in close quarters.

For Larger Lawns the 30' Ideal Power Lawn Mower

For large estates, municipal parks, cemeteries, golf clubs, schools, colleges, etc., the well known 30" Ideal Power Lawn Mower has no equal.

Does the work of 5 to 7 men with hand mowers. Costs about 50 cents a day to operate and soon pays for itself in labor saved. Furnished with or without riding trailer.

For large parks, golf courses, etc., we build the Ideal Power Triplex Mower.

Write today and get our large pictorial catalogue.

A Solid Carload of Green Hyacinth Stakes

Ever hear of so many at one time?

You wouldn't, of course, if we had not for years maintained the lowest price in the country.

| Size    | 1000   | 10,000 | 25,000 |
|---------|--------|--------|--------|
| 5-inch  | $0.75 | $0.65 | $0.55 |

Atwood's Cat and Dog Remedies

SOMETHING NEW FOR THE FLORISTS' TRADE

"KA-NI-KU-RA"—For Dogs

This may seem funny to you, Brother Florist. The first thing you will say is, "Let the Drug Stores handle it." Well, just listen a minute, please. Are not the majority of the cat and dog lovers of your locality pretty good customers of yours? Perhaps you never noticed, but we have, and also have noticed that when you can do something to help a sick pet for someone, you have got pretty close to that party for life.

These two Remedies are copyrighted in the U. S. Patent Office and have been sold to a large number of very appreciative customers for a long time, in a somewhat limited area.

Only the most pure drugs are used in the manu-

KA-NI-KU-RA: Two-ounce bottles (put up in this size only), retails at 60c.

KURE-A-KAT: Two sizes (1-oz. and 2-oz. bottles), retails at 35c and 60c.

WHOLESALE PRICES: Carton of 1 dozen 2-oz. bottles, $4.80.

1 dozen 1-oz. bottles (KURE-A-KAT only), $2.80.

To try it once means you will always handle it, with ever increasing demand. This sells as well with the country florist as with the larger town brothers and should be in every retail florist's place in the U. S.

You are missing a good profit and a trade builder in other lines if you do not carry these remedies, for all you need to do is to let people know you sell them.

For Cats—"KURE-A-KAT"

facture of these remedies, and when you sell them tell your customers that if given according to the directions and it fails to relieve or cure, they can come to you for the money back—and we will stand behind you. The remedies are put up in a neat and attractive manner and are not a misfit in the best flower shops.

The Market.

Business conditions were satisfactory to retailers and wholesalers alike last week. All kinds of weather, from a severe freezing temperature to a decided mildness, has been experienced. Stock has been plentiful throughout the week. This, however, was easily cleared by the street venders. Prices are holding up well and only on stock that is overplentiful is any particular reduction noticed.

Bulbous stock is now in full supply and quantities of daffodils are reaching the market each morning. Some specially long-stemmed single daffodils are seen and sell readily. Other daffodil stock moves off well. Tulips are in good supply and appear to be in good demand. Among the shipments there is a good quantity of short-stemmed stock, but most of this stock is used for funeral work. Paper Whites are slowing up considerably. Freesias are good, but the supply is a little uneven. Sweet peas are in good supply and good stock is seen at this writing; long stems and large blooms make their sale easy. Carnations are quite plentiful, especially in the whites, but they move off well. There is a large supply of roses reaching us, and the demand keeps up fairly well. The majority of them are in the medium grades and include all of the best selling varieties. Extra fine American Beauties were in demand last week, and good stock was available. Lilac, acacia, lilies and snapdragon are seen, but the supply is limited.

Various Notes.

Large quantities of flowers were used for the opening of Kilbourn hall, which took place March 3, and continued until March 4. Kilbourn hall is part of the new building which, when completed, will be known as the Eastman School of Music. This institution is the largest building of its kind ever erected in Rochester and is the gift of George Eastman (of Kodak fame) to the University of Rochester. Several large organs and a large number of Steinway pianos are already installed, and several European composers and teachers have taken up their work here.

CONCRETE BENCHES

Several of the uptown florists ran a special sale of plants March 4, at the price of $1. Potted bulbous stock and primroses are so unusually plentiful that bargains are offered.

Collatos Bros. had a pretty window decoration of daffodils and tulips last week. A special sale on these attracted many buyers.

Compare Jim's Elastic with a Turtle

Long lives the turtle.

Long lives JIM'S ELASTIC GLAZING COMPOUND.

After the average glazing compound has dried and become hard and cracked, Jim's Elastic (Gray Color) remains pliable and holds.

Extreme cold weather this year has failed to hurt our product one bit. EVERY JIM'S ELASTIC user is satisfied.

Our product is similar to the material they use in England, only made better in the U. S. A.

Can be used in any glazing gun and runs uniform in consistency.

Color a beautiful gray, one that holds, stays gray and looks good on your house.

Can be easily removed even after five or six years of service without breaking your glass or losing your disposition.

CYCLAMEN SEEDLINGS.

In offering our block of 300,000
TRANSPLANTED CYCLAMEN SEEDLINGS to the trade, we can emphatically recommend them as a superior grade of plants, in as much as we have specialized on CYCLAMEN
for years, and are constantly improving our strain and methods of growing.

Through the use of a specially prepared compost, we have produced wonderful root action and a fine foliage, in fact we have never had a finer lot of seedlings of the very best known varieties.
We established a new record with our CYCLAMEN plants last fall when we shipped them in full carload lots to the East.

Remember—Our plants have no trace or sign of the mite or any other diseases CYCLAMEN are subject to.

Orders booked in rotation. Satisfaction guaranteed.

$5.50 per 100, $50.00 per 1000.
